Three Flights Of Bombers Hit Viet Cong Strongholds

Anti-Communist Campaign Spreading From Indonesia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Radio Malaysia said Saturday the Indonesian army's anti-Communist campaign is spreading from Java, showing up in both the Celebes to the east and Sumatra to the west. Prime Minister Abdul Rahman of Malaysia, harassed economically and militarily for months by its big island neighbor, suggested that Indonesian President Sukarno will lose a golden opportunity if he fails to oust the Communist now.

"I think the tide is turning in our favor," Raham said in a dinner speech at Ipoh, about 100 miles north of Kuala Lumpur.

"As if in answer to our prayers, the Indonesian people have now realized that the real enemy of Indonesia is not western imperialists or Malaysia, but rather the Communist imperialists whose plan is to dominate Southeast Asia."

LEFTIST COUP

Broadcasts by the army-controlled radio station in Jakarta told of sidelights from the abortive leftist coup last weekend:

— Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the defense minister and armed forces chief, has taken direct charge for the time being of Indonesia's official news agency Antara. The army suspended the agency's operations a week ago on the ground it was infiltrated by Communists.

— Government forces uncovered a rebel cache of 234 rifles near the Halim air base on Jakarta's outskirts, where a common grave previously yielded the mutilated bodies of six army generals.

— A seventh general, Brig. Gen. Samusi of the national police, was another victim of the rebellion. Reporting on a previously undisclosed incident, the radio said he was killed saving the life of Deputy Premier Johannes Leimena Oct. 1.

The Malaysian government radio account said Moslems and the National party in the Celebes, following the lead of Jakarta demonstrators, demanded that the Indonesian Communist party — PKI — and its affiliates be banned as an aftermath of the uprising.

The PKI, whose Jakarta headquarters were burned by a youthful mob Friday, has denied it was involved and called the plot "an internal affair of the army."

Ellender To Face Others In '66 Race

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Camille Gravel, an Alexandria attorney seeking a return to the political arena, said Saturday he is seriously thinking of running against U.S. Sen. Allen J. Ellender next year.

For several months, another with Senate political ambitions has talked quietly about making the same race against Ellender.

He is state Rep. John Garrett of Claiborne Parish, the House segregation leader.

BE CANDIDATE

"I will definitely be a candidate in next year's race," Garrett said.

The 74-year-old Ellender thus faces possible challenges from Gravel, a self-styled moderate who was a Louisiana leader for the late John F. Kennedy, and from Garrett, a northern Louisianan who is chairman of the Legislative Committee on Segregation and one of Gov. John McKeithen's floor leaders.

Ellender, the "relentless Southerner," has been in political life just about longer than any Louisianian living. He was a member of the 1921 Constitutional Convention, and was House speaker during Huey P. Long's regime.

The senator has been talking about seeking another six-year term.

Both Senate and congressional primaries are Aug. 13 and Sept. 17 next year, less than a year away.

Gravel, father of 10, is the man who arranged Kennedy's Louisiana tour just before the 1960 presidential campaign.

This central Louisiana Catholic was fired as Democratic national committeeman in 1958 when the late Gov. Earl K. Long joined with segregation forces to boot him out. Long and Gravel had broken politically, and segregationists went after Gravel's scalp for saying segregation was morally wrong.

In Shreveport, state Republican chairman Charlton H. Lyons Sr. said his party is considering a possible party contest for the Senate post — but no definite plans have been made.

1st Infantry Battles Way Out Of Trap

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Three flights of B52 bombers pounded suspected Viet Cong concentrations Sunday in a massive air strike in a central province, a U.S. military spokesman said.

Striking in waves, the giant Stratofortresses from Guam hit three target areas in Binh Dinh Province, 280 miles northeast of Saigon. The raids were carried out about five miles southwest of the town of Phu My, the scene of heavy ground fighting between government forces and Viet Cong guerrillas in recent weeks.

Hazards of war caught up with two big truck convoys — one American and the other in Communist service — in operations reported Saturday.

Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed a 20-truck transport company of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division about 40 miles north of Saigon Friday night. A military spokesman said the Americans suffered moderate casualties before fighting their way out of the trap.

JETS POUNCE

As if in response, eight U.S. Air Force jets pounced before dawn on a North Vietnamese convoy of more than 30 trucks on a coastal highway 160 miles north of the border. The spokesman said they destroyed 11 trucks and damaged 21.

Thousands of American and Australian troops pressed an offensive in the Ben Cat area 30 miles north of Saigon, on the edge of the guerrilla-infested D Zone.

Contact was reported light, though helicopters ferrying supplies to the allies drew heavy ground fire.

Paratrooper of the 173rd Airborne Brigade carried nonlethal tear gas in that operation with authority to use it where circumstances dictated. A spokesman said they fired the gas into guerrilla tunnels twice Friday to flush out any occupants, but the tunnels apparently were empty.

Guam-based B52 Strategic Air Command jets, which had staged two saturation bombings in the Ben Cat area in advance of the offensive, turned their attention to suspected Viet Cong targets near Hue, 400 miles northeast of Saigon. The eight-engine bombers dropped explosives there in their 42nd raid of the war.

The Viet Cong staged a three-hour attack against a government outpost in Quang Duc Province, adjoining the Cambodian frontier 115 miles north of Saigon.

A spokesman said two guerrilla companies—perhaps 200 men—were involved and they overran part of the outpost, but were held off from the rest by a government relief platoon. The guerrillas withdrew.

About 2,800 South Korean marines, the vanguard of a 15,000-man combat division, landed from a U.S. troopship at Cam Ranh Bay, 180 miles northeast of Saigon.

Soldiers Continue To Die Along Line

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India and Pakistan are trying to tidy up unfinished business left over from their bloody conflict last month.

As a result soldiers are dying almost daily in the hills of Kashmir, on the dusty plains of the Punjab or in Thar—the great Indian desert. They are dying along a "cease fire line" where fire rarely ceases.

The so-called cease-fire was supposed to have gone into effect Sept. 23, ending 22 days of war. But not a single day has gone by since then without the eruption of skirmishes or what would qualify in any military handbook as a battle.

There are two primary reasons for this continuing bloodshed:

1. The cease-fire, dictated in part by pressure from the United Nations, the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, solved none of the underlying causes for India-Pakistan friction. The cessation of hostilities is serving mainly as a pause for regrouping and reinforcing.

2. Neither Pakistan nor India was hurt badly enough in last month's fighting to shy away from another round. Each is still confident it can lick the other.

Despite the explosiveness of the situation, the United Nations is unable to move in and spike the guns because it has been left without any real power. In fact the United Nations cannot even properly observe and report what goes on.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri has made it clear he will not permit a peacekeeping force on Indian soil. This rules out any evolution of the U.N. role from one of only observing to one of keeping the peace.

Cubans Face Delay Before Leaving Isle

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Thousands of Cubans are preparing to leave their homeland, beginning today, but the U.S. State Department said Saturday that any massive exodus probably would not start for 10 days.

A hodge-podge fleet of exile craft is scheduled to sail for Florida from a small fishing port on Cuba's north coast today despite U.S. warnings that the trip is illegal.

STOP MOVEMENT

The State Department said it had asked the Cuban government to stop any Dunkerque-type movement of small boats across the Florida Straits until negotiations can work out an orderly program.

But the port of Camarioca, designated by Fidel Castro as the exit point, is being equipped to handle a sizable flow of refugees. Roads have been constructed, along with 15 dormitories, a cafeteria and a parking lot.

Exiles in Miami estimate that 50,000 persons are ready to leave Cuba. But sources in Havana said the figure could run much higher, depending on how long the open-door policy remains in effect and the conditions for leaving.

Florida Gov. Haydon Burns estimated that the eventual number could run from 300,000 to half a million.

LBJ Carries Out Duties From Bed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed a bill extending and redoubling the efforts of his anti-poverty program Saturday night just before he went to sleep in his Bethesda Naval Hospital suite, it was announced.

A statement by the President was issued along with the announcement of the bill signing by assistant White House press secretary Joe Laitin. The President is recuperating from a gall bladder and kidney stone operation performed Friday.

The President expressed the aims of his war on poverty and said in his statement that this bill, which authorizes $1.7 billion to finance the economic opportunities program for 1966, represents doubled efforts to sustain what he called "a vital cause."

The President had been up before dawn — at 5 a.m. — his press secretary said — and the bill he signed before bedtime was the 14th Saturday.

The President — his doctors saying he was showing unusual powers of recuperation — had worked at the nation's business Saturday in his green-upholstered rocking chair. It was reported that he signed the latest bill between 8:30 and 9:30 p.m., and went to sleep shortly thereafter.

PRESIDENT FATIGUED

One new development was revealed by Johnson's family doctor, Dr. James C. Cain, who said that the President has yet another kidney stone — one that has been there for years.

He said doctors do not plan to remove it.

And Cain indicated Johnson's doctors expect he will be a hard man to keep down.

He said Johnson is fatigued from Friday's operation and has had a minor headache, but added "that is to be expected in a man just out of surgery."

"You know the President," he said, "and to predict when he's going to get out, I don't know. We're going to keep him by main force until we feel it's safe."

Combat Deaths Hit 788 Total

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The four - year total of American combat deaths in Viet Nam rose to 788 this week as the Defense Department identified 48 more servicemen killed in action.

Twenty - five of them were Army men, 16 Marines, two from the Air Force and two from the Navy. In addition, 10 missing Air Force pilots were identified.

The weekly summary showed an increase of 118, to 4,038, in the number of Americans wounded. The list of missing increased from 65 to 75, and the total known to have been captured from 20 to 21.

Driver Killed As Truck Hits Reader Train

JACKSON, Miss. (Special) — A gasoline truck slammed into the Reader Railroad train about noon Saturday, killing the truck driver.

He was identified as Robert Cecil Sullivan, about 32, of Brookhaven, Miss.

According to police, the brakes on the truck apparently failed causing it to swerve across a concrete dividing island, before it ran into the middle of the train. No one on board was injured.

The "Possum Trot Line" train stopped in Monroe Friday on its way from Reader, Ark. to Bay St. Louis, Miss. where it is scheduled to be used in a motion picture.

A Shreveport news team, publisher Douglas Attaway, his photographer, and reporter, were among the train passengers.

Aquanauts To Surface After Undersea Life

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — The nation's aquanauts of Sealab 2 will ascend to the surface today to wind up the 45-day undersea living experiment.

The 10 divers of the third team to live at the 205-foot depth were busy Saturday making final preparations to leave the undersea laboratory.

After nearly 15 days on the Pacific Ocean bottom, the aquanauts will secure the Sealab and enter the pressurized personnel transfer capsule for the 10-minute ascent to the surface. Then they'll spend about 30 hours in a decompression chamber aboard the support vessel Berkone.

Dodgers Whip Twins To Get Back In Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Claude Osteen, backed by a rash of doubles, pitched a five-hitter Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Minnesota 4-0 for their first victory in the 1965 World Series.

Osteen completely stymied the Twins after they had defeated the Dodgers' big two, Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax, in the first two games.

The Dodgers, who now trail 2-1, will try to even the series today, sending Drysdale against Jim Grant, who won the opener.

Zoilo Versalles, the game's leadoff batter, rapped Osteen's first pitch for a double, but the Los Angeles left-hander halted the Twins in that inning and in the next eight. It was only the third time all season that the Twins had been shut out.

Tony Oliva started the ninth with a single, but Osteen, who ended a 5-0 record against Minnesota when he was in the American League, got Harmon Killebrew on a fly out and induced Gerry Zimmerman to ground into a game-ending double play.

Warm Weather Remains Here

The area's current warm and sunny weather will remain until at least Monday, with no rainfall and no important temperature changes seen for Northeast Louisiana. There could be 90 per cent or more sunshine today.

FAA at Selman Field recorded no precipitation Saturday. The high was 91 and the low was 57. Today's high will be 86 to 92, with the low expected to be 54 to 64.

Variable winds mostly from the west will cover the area in the 5 to 15 mile per hour range.

'Death Genes' Stalk Family

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For eight generations death has stalked through one family, striking down 21 victims suddenly and mysteriously.

And a curious "death gene" may be the reason, a team of Florida physicians said Saturday.

Genes determine all of a person's inherited characteristics. This new-found death gene, if that is what it is, apparently produces some defect in the electrical conduction or "pacemaker" system that keeps human hearts beating, the physicians said.

Drs. J. Russell Green Jr., L. Jerome Krovetz, Douglas R. Shanklin, and W. Jape Taylor, all of the University of Florida College of Medicine, in Gainesville, and Dr. James J. DeVito, St. Augustine, Fla., investigated this medical mystery, and reported findings to a meeting of the American College of Physicians today.

It began with the sudden deaths of a boy, 16, and his sister, 14. The puzzle was why either should have died with no apparent cause.

Tracing the youngsters' family tree back through eight generations, the physicians gathered detailed histories of 127 members, the physicians discovered that 21 of them had died under similar circumstances since the early 1800's. The 21 victims ranged from 3 to 58 years old, averaging 33 years to death.

In one branch of the family, 10 people had died, at an average age of 17 years.

Most of the victims had complained in varying degree of feelings of faintness. But they hadn't shown any other signs of suffering from heart or blood vessel diseases.

Physical checkups of 20 living members of the whole family did not "show any consistent abnormalities," the physicians said.

One woman had borne three children who died unexpectedly. Her heart showed some changes in electrical patterns when she underwent mild exercise, but various drugs did not produce any changes in her heart rhythm.

Autopsy examinations of the 16-year-old boy and 14-year-old girl did not disclose any gross or obvious heart defects.

But closer and microscopic examination showed that they had malformations in the electrical or pacemaker systems of their hearts.

Apparently, the physicians said, these inherited defects stem from one gene, affecting males and females alike, that has cropped up from time to time within the family. It can produce arrhythmias or uncontrolled heart beats, and various stresses of living can become too challenging, causing death.

The family lives in St. Augustine, and its members were among the early settlers of that city, Green said.

This "death gene" influence is apparently "a very rare and uncommon" one, he said.

"Certainly this is the only family I know of like this, although I am sure in the future, now that we have newer techniques for looking at the conduction system, and with people doing better case histories, we will be finding more such cases."

Music Group To Hold Meet At Northeast

The seventh annual state Vocal Music Conference will be held at Northeast Louisiana State College here on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 15-16, announced Elton A. Lamkin, state supervisor of music.

The conference is cooperatively sponsored by the Louisiana Music Educators' Association and the State Department of Education in cooperation with the host college.

Serving as host chairman is Joe Barry Mullins, head of the NLSC Department of Music.

Elementary principals throughout the state have been urged to encourage their classroom teachers to attend this conference, Lamkin said. "We are hopeful that at least one classroom teacher from each school will be present," he said.

Sessions will be held in Biedenharn Recital Hall. Registration is scheduled from 1 to 1:30 p.m. on Friday and from 8 to 8:30 on Saturday.

Several outstanding clinicians and speakers are scheduled to address the conference. Included on the program are Miss Elizabeth Crook, associate professor of music at the University of Delaware; Dr. Edward H. Cleino, chairman of the Department of Fine and Practical Arts Education at the University of Alabama; Dr. Robert C. Gilmore, professor of music at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, and L. Bruce Jones, professor of music at Louisiana State University.

Welcoming the campus visitors at the opening session, which begins at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, will be Dr. T. Eugene Holtzclaw, dean of the School of Education at Northeast.

Miss Crook, author of a new elementary music series called "Making Music Your Own," will be the opening session speaker. She will talk on the "3 D of Elementary Music Teaching."

After a 30-minute break for participants to view exhibits and enjoy coffee, Dr. Cleino will address the second session, which begins at 3:30 p.m., on "Beginning Reading Experiences: Rhythmic Reading." Dr. Cleino is the originator of "Music Time," oldest continuing educational television series for in-school use of elementary school children, which has been broadcast by Alabama ETV since 1955.

Two Friday evening sessions are planned. Dr. Gilmore discusses "College Teachers from the Ivory Tower Vs. Music Specialists Working in the Field" at 7. Professor Jones will address the final evening session at 8:40, talking on "Choral Literature: Analyzation and Rehearsal Techniques."

Dr. Gilmore is serving his second term as chairman of the Elementary Classroom Music Division of the Louisiana Music Educators Association.

Jones, who gained national fame as director of bands at LSU, is chairman of music education and band consultant at LSU, and a member of the State Commission of Culture and the Performing Arts.

The Saturday morning program features Miss Crook and Dr. Cleino. Miss Crook will discuss "Extending Musical Learning in the Elementary School" at the 8:30 session. Dr. Cleino gives an illustrated lecture on "Beginning Reading Experiences: Melodic Reading" from 10:30 until the noon adjournment.

Senate Action Expected For Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate action is expected next week to complete passage of a new four-year program of production and price controls for major crops.

The House passed 219 to 150 Friday the compromise version of an omnibus farm bill extending and modifying control programs for wheat, feed grains, cotton, dairy products, wool and other commodities.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said after the compromise was reached Wednesday that he expected Senate passage soon after the House acted. He praised the compromise as better than either the House or Senate version.

Enactment of a four-year program marks a departure from farm legislative practices which frequently have brought yearly chances for individual crops.

Over-all cost of the programs in the first year is estimated at about $4 billion.

Action Slated By House On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House leaders have scheduled action next week on a civil rights bill. The news Saturday was that no one seemed excited about it.

The bill, an amendment to the 1964 Civil Rights Law, would give the newly-created federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission broad new power to fight job discrimination.

While this is a far more modest proposal than either of the last two major civil rights bills, it would have been awash in both publicity and controversy in past years.

The equal employment amendment, however, got lost in the shuffle of President Johnson's Great Society bills and attracted only passing attention. In addition, it was not thought that it could get through the Senate this year even if the House passed it.

Still, the measure would change the entire enforcement procedure under one of the most controversial sections of the 1964 law, and it seems sure to raise a ruckus before final action is taken.

The original law gave the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (the latest version of what used to be called FEPC or Fair Employment Practices Commission) authority to investigate discrimination charges against employers, labor unions and employment agencies. Outlawed was hiring, firing, promotion, membership requirements and job referrals based on race, religion, national origin or sex.

But there was no authority in the law for the commission to enforce the ban on discrimination.

The bill up for House debate Wednesday would give the commission power to issue its own cease and desist orders against companies, unions or agencies it has found to be violating the law.

North Viet Nam Protests About Korean Troops

TOKYO (UPI) — North Viet Nam Saturday protested to the International Control Commission about the landing of South Korean combat troops at Cam Ranh Bay in South Viet Nam.

The protest, according to a communist Viet Nam broadcast heard here, said the troop landing was "a further encroachment on the independence and sovereignty of the Vietnamese people."

It added: "This is also a most blatant violation of the provisions of the 1954 Geneva agreements, which strictly prohibit the introduction into either part of Viet Nam of foreign troop reinforcement and military personnel, arms and war materials."

The protest, made by the liaison mission of the North Vietnamese army high command, urged the commission to stop and to condemn the plan to use the Koreans in the guerrilla war.

Two Directors Named By Bank

The election of two additional members to the Board of Directors of Central Savings Bank and Trust Co. was announced Saturday by Conway Crossland, president of the bank, following a special meeting of the board of directors.

The two members are Saul A. Mintz and James W. Moore. Both men have distinguished records in business and civic activities.

In making the announcement, Crossland expressed "the pleasure of the entire board in welcoming two such aggressive community leaders to the bank's growing body".

Mintz was born in New Orleans, where he attended grammar school, high school and Tulane Univeristy. At the latter, he received a degree as Bachelor of Architecture in 1953. He served as a Lieutenant in the Air Force prior to moving to Monroe in late 1954. Archbishop Of New Orleans Is In United States

NEW YORK (AP) — The Most Rev. Philip Hannan, newly-named archbishop of New Orleans, La., arrived Saturday from Rome to prepare for his installation in New Orleans Wednesday.

He had high praise for the Most Rev. Harold Robert Perry, a Negro, who was named auxiliary bishop at New Orleans.

He also told newsmen that he was confident the present text on nuclear weapons before the Ecumenical Council would not be changed materially. In its present form, he said, it does not include a complete nuclear ban.

He said he will return to New Orleans Tuesday after visiting Washington.

The archbishop had served as of Washington, D. C., and as pastor of St. Patrick's Church.

Commenting on the appointment of Auxiliary Bishop Perry, Archbishop Hannan said: "I know him. He's not a new name or a new person. I think he is an excellent choice and has outstanding qualifications for the office."

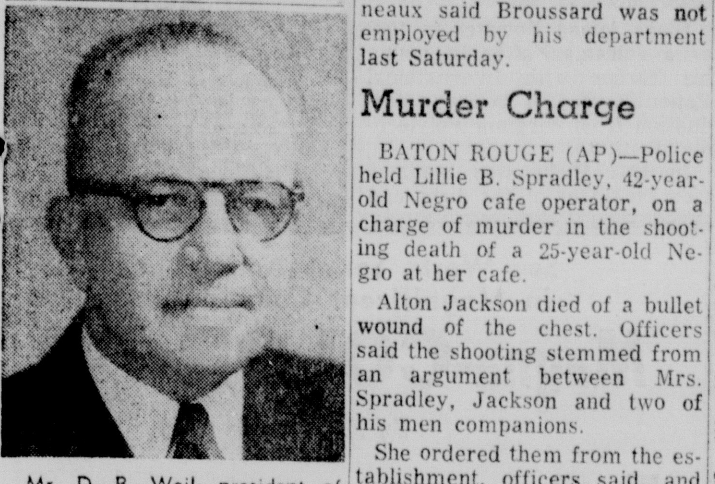
Simple Battery

CROWLEY, La. (AP) — A charge of simple battery has been filed with city police against former Acadia Parish Deputy Clyde Broussard.

Frank Atwood Jr. of Crowley claims he was attacked by Broussard last Saturday, the day of the 7th congressional district runoff election

Atwood said two poll watchers were ordered to leave his machine shop by Broussard, who struck him when he entered the argument.

Acadia Sheriff Elton Arceneaux said Broussard was not employed by his department last Saturday.



Mr. D. B. Weil, president of Weil Cleaners, today announced his drycleaning facilities has begun using the newly developed Sanitone Synfactant - Renewal drycleaning process. The process, introduced recently to the drycleaning profession, can only be used by certified Sanitone licensees.

Mr. Weil, who has been associated with Sanitone since 1934, said "After viewing results from operations testing the new process, I am convinced that the process is superior to any current drycleaning method."

Sanitone, the founder of modern drycleaning processes, began working on the new process three years ago. For the past year it has been field tested at various drycleaning plants around the country.

The new process represents a completely new idea in drycleaning chemistry, according to Victor Muckerheide, Sanitone Director of Research. Mr. Muckerheide states, "Our new Sanitone synfactant renewal system has properties which clean clothes better, retain the shape of the clothes and provide the garment with a softer finish. This process is entirely new. We can say unequivocally that it is one of the great technical advances in drycleaning history.

"We have thoroughly tested the process and customers are very outspoken in their praise of it," Mr. Muckerheide emphasized.

A division of Emery Industries, Sanitone is a leading supplier of detergents, chemicals, and processes to the professional drycleaning industry.

Mr. Weil stated, "I won't go into an explantation of the technical aspects of the new process and how it works, but we feel certain that customers will be extremely satisfied with the new process.

Weil Cleaners is located at 508 North Fourth St. and 2004 North Eighteenth St. and employ thirty-five men and women. Adv.

THE OLD CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL which was demolished this past spring first had to recruit players for its football squad from among the Monroe townspeople—no matter whether the players were students or not. Pictured above, outside the Jackson Street entrance in front of what became the office of Ernest C. Neville, seated on the bench, third from the left, is one of the first school teams. The team beat Louisiana State University once, so the story goes. The time was sometime between 1901 and 1905. E. R. (Ham) Breard of Monroe is the small boy seated on the right end of the bench. Lyn K. Breard is also pictured in the group. Second from the left on the bench is Warren Garrett, wearing a Centenary College sweater. Neville, wearing a sweater from the college he attended in North Carolina, was then a Latin instructor and later became the school principal, then superintendent of city schools. It was after him that Neville High School was named. The picture is the property of Mr. and Mrs. H. Austin Miller of Monroe. If you have scenes of yesteryear, we'd appreciate your letting us use them in this space. Just mail them or drop them by the newsroom.

Dan F. Howard's Solo Exhibition of extremely fine paintings are now hanging at the Museum on South Grand. Anyone even remotely interested in art should make a point to see this display of talent by the young Arkansas artist.

The tenth annual Louisiana Art and Folk Festival at Columbia will end today.

The festival, largest event of its kind in the state, features outdoor exhibitions under the moss - covered trees on the banks of the Ouachita River.

Little Theater fever is spreading again. Monroe's Patron Preview of "The Pleasure of His Company" was a smash Friday, with performances again at 8:15 tonight, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and closing with a matinee Sunday. Shreveport opens Oct. 14 with "Never Too Late" and Dallas Theater Center opens Oct. 13 with Shakespeare's "The Tempest." Most towns of any size now have a little or community theater and many smaller towns are getting into the act.

FILM FROM NOVEL

It is interesting to note that the film version of the classic Russian novel "Doctor Zhivago" is being shot on location in Spain. How are they going to film those terrible Russian winters in sunny Spain? At any rate, the flick will have an international cast including Geraldine Chaplin, Julie Christie, Tom Courtenay, Alec Guinnes, Siobhan McKenna, Ralph Richardson, Omar Sharif, Rod Steiger and Rita Tushingham.

"Caravans," based upon the best - selling novel by James Michener, will be filmed in Afghanistan, the first time this remote country has been used as the local for a movie.

HERE AND THERE

Internationally famous Cornel MacNeil will sing the title role in Verdi's "Rigoletto," which opens the Shreveport Civic Opera season Monday night at Civic Theater. Giorgi Merighi of La Scala, Jeanette Scovotti of the Metropolitan and Yugoslavian mezzo, Marija Kova, will be the stars. . . The Harkness Ballet opens the artist series at L. S. U. Oct. 18. This is the first new major American ballet company in 20 years. . . . . Three season openings will be held in Memphis this month: Little Theater with "Pajama Game" Oct. 15, Front Street Theater with "Glass Menagerie" Oct. 28 and Memphis Opera Theatre with "La Traviata" on Oct. 29. . . . Concert enthusiasts in the area will not have to wait long now for the first program in the Northeast State Concerts series — it's the incomparable "Music of Richard Rodgers" on Oct. 25.

Johnson May Be Facing Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson seems likely to taste some of the sour lemon of defeat on scattered issues as Congress bucks its way toward an end-of-the-month adjournment.

The President, recuperating from surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital, apparently is in for a political setback Monday when the Senate is expected to reject a motion to limit debate on a House-passed bill to eliminate state authority to ban union shop contracts.

This action probably will mean the postponement until 1966 of final action on a measure Johnson promised labor leaders he would try to get Congress to pass in this session.

Coupled with this rebuff, the President may find on his desk before the end of the month a bill increasing the pay of government workers that he may regard as so unsatisfactory as to justify a veto.

Johnson asked for a $400-million yearly increase for Civil Service employes. The House boosted this to $1.5 billion over two years. The Senate may well vote to reduce this but still approve a figure considerably above Johnson's estimate.

The President has not escaped uncathed in a session which has rolled out a record-breaking volume of administration-sponsored legislation, including such landmark measures as health care for the elderly, excise tax cuts, elementary school aid, Negro voting rights and creation of a new urban affairs Cabinet department.

Before it adjourns, Congress seems certain to add to these measures for aid to higher education, highway beautification, vocational rehabilitation and a farm bill brought reasonably in line with the President's recommendations.

But Johnson's great persuasiveness and his influence with the legislators were not sufficient to win satisfactory action on home rule for the District of Columbia, where Negro citizens outnumber whites. He is certain to be back knocking on the door for this next year.

The President asked for expansion of minimum-wage coverage and didn't get it, another issue to be held over for the election-year Congress.

Rhodesia Will Declare Independence

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia said Saturday his country will soon declare independence even if it means going to war to get it.

"If anybody puts his foot in our country who has no right to, he must take what is coming his way," Smith told a news conference.

He said he did not believe, however, that the present deadlock between Britain and Rhodesia would degenerate into armed conflict between Anglo-Saxon brothers but he added: "If we have to get out of the country, we would rather go out fighting than crawling on our hands and knees."

The Commonwealth Relations Office in London promptly countered with a statement indicating Britain's resolution to back its views on Rhodesia's future with deeds.

"There should be no delusions in Rhodesia about the ability or determination of the British government to deal with the utmost firmness with any act of rebellion," the statement said.

Smith, without ever being precise, left his listeners with the feeling that a unilateral declaration of independence will be proclaimed shortly in Salisbury.

Sitting at a table flanked by two miniature Rhodesian flags, he told 200 newsmen: "We have given this question a tremendous amount of study and I think we have made up our minds already.

"Quite frankly, if we are to preserve our Christian Western civilization in Rhodesia, there is no alternative to independence. And if we cannot obtain independence by negotiation then I don't know of any other alternative."

Smith's news conference followed a breakdown of his discussions with the British government Friday.

At issue is the future of Rhodesia's 3.8 million Africans who are ruled by the country's 250,000 whites. Britain wants independence to be followed by majority rule. Smith wants to perpetuate his white government.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant expressed belief the Rhodesian situation is likely to come before the United Nations Security Council but he added the next move is up to the British government.

Brush and Palette

by Jan Bank

The current show at the Masur Museum of Art, 1400 South Grand in Monroe, is probably the most dynamic exhibit the gallery has had to date. In fact it is so dynamic it may seem a bit overpowering at first. But that is the artist's key to success, lots of color, boldly applied on massive canvasses. The artist is Dan Howard of Arkansas whose many honors we listed in the column last week.

To quote the artist: "A painting for me, is an intimate personal statement resolutely setting forth the artist's involvement with his world. I believe that each artist, through his own set of experiences, learning responses and associations, acquires a particular and individual reaction and approach to his subject, whether real or non objective. I have always had a strong and immediate concern for subject matter related to my world of experiences."

Mr. Howard's world is a very interesting one to say the least. In fact even if the technique was not so original, or the colors so great, or the subjects so thought provoking, and the work is surely all of this, just the titles alone would be worth a visit to the museum.

If your reaction is similar to mine, as you first look about the gallery you will only be consumed by the color, made even more vibrant by the use of stark white in many of the paintings (incidentally it's enamel, applied over black) then suddenly, as you go from painting to painting you'll look at one, the satire will absorb you and maybe you'll stand there and giggle aloud as I did (I hope you're alone as I was, too) then you'll go back over each work more carefully, searching for the little things Howard has captured so perceptively on canvas, that brings his view of the world to all of us.

Some of the paintings are serious, some are satirical. The drawings are excellent and Howards ability to draw is evident in all of his paintings. It's difficult to choose one painting to single out. "Alice in Wonderland", "Salome", "Convocation of the Cloth," all are special, although I must admit, "Salome" is my own particular favorite. In the upstairs gallery is "Water, Water" and "Two Fatheads" among others. If I tell what to look for I'll spoil all the fun so I'll simply say, don't breeze through, look each painting over carefully.

This show will hang until October 24. Children who love going to the museum anyway, will enjoy the color, young adults will grasp the whole thing very quickly and even those who reluctantly attend the museum out of compassion for their mates or tag along with friends will tell their friends about it.

The museum is open daily except Mondays between the hours of two and 5 p.m.

When viewing the show note the frames on the paintings, as Dan Howard finishes and makes all his own frames. Howard, although we've never met, I think it would be safe to say, thoroughly enjoys the world he lives in and the work he does. I'm glad though, he doesn't live in Monroe, because with his candid camera type vision of life, he just might turn out a painting of a solitary female standing in gallery, giggling with the paintings and giving it some meaningful title.

East Germans Cast Ballots In Local Elections

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germans cast ballots Sunday in a nationwide municipal and local election ceremony.

The thousands of candidates for village, city and country councils were all Communists in the "National Unity Front."

On Monday or Tuesday the regime is expected to announce the National Unity Front had taken about 99.9 per cent of the 13 million votes.

Although the voters received only single list ballots, the regime for the first time allowed more candidates on the ballots than there were offices to be filled.

The candidates were carefully selected so the ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) party would inevitably hold somewhat more than 50 per cent of the seats in all elected bodies, no matter which candidates were successful.

Despite the foregone conclusion the Communists campaigned vigorously in an effort to persuade East Germans the elections had some significance.

After 16 years of Red rule in East Germany, the Communists have developed their own campaign rituals.

Primary school children have neglected studies for weeks to practice inspirational Communist songs to sing to voters at the polling places.

Bouquets by the gross went to election offices to be handed today to party prominents, oldest voters, youngest voters and earliest voters.

Communist activists committed fellow factory workers to overtime to jump production of everything from paper napkins to computers "in honor of the election."

Sukot Festival Services Today

At sundown today, Jews everywhere begin the celebration of the ancient festival of Sukot, the "Feast of Tabernacles" of "Booths," a holiday of harvest and thanksgiving, and the most joyous of all Jewish observances.

Sukot is observed by Reform Jews for eight days and for nine days by Orthodox and Conservative Jews. The holiday was called the Harvest Festival because, according to the Biblical book of Deuteronomy, it was celebrated at the conclusion of the autumnal harvest. The book of Exodus also describes it as the "Festival of Ingathering" of the fruits of the earth.

SERVICES HERE

At Temple B'nai Israel in Monroe, services will be held today at 7:30 p.m., it was announced by Rabbi Sylvin Wolf. He said that at this service children of the religious group will bring food offerings to be distributed to victims of Hurricane Betsy.

The theme of the holiday is immediately recognizable by non-Jewish Americans, for the American Thanksgiving holiday was deliberately patterned upon Sukot by the Scripture-minded Pilgrims. It shares with Thanksgiving the predominant ideas of autumnal harvesting and joyous gratitude to God for His bounty.

Many ancient symbols, evocative of the Biblical past of the Jewish people during which their culture was both agricultural and nomadic, survive unchanged in this holiday. In keeping with the Biblical injunction, Jews build "sukot" of booths outside their homes or synagogue; these are made of three wooden walls, and the roof is covered with green boughs and decorated inside with the fruits of the harvest season. Meals are eaten in the "sukot" during this holiday, and prayers and songs of gratitude and joy are recited in them.

The building of "sukot" is also associated historically with the liberation from Egypt and the long wandering of the Jewish people before they reached the Promised Land of Palestine. It is also thought to symbolize the fragility and transitory quality of life and to serve as a reminder to Jews that material things, like the "sukah" have little permanence. Reminiscent of both harvest and the desert, two other ancient symbols are an integral part of the Sukot observance. They are the "etrog," or citron, and the "lulav," a palm branch.

REJOICING

The prevailing spirit of this holiday is joyousness and rejoicing, in keeping with Biblical commandment which enjoins that "Thou shalt be altogether joyful," and the description of Sukot is, in Jewish tradition, "the season of our rejoicing."

From the Union Prayerbook, used in Reform Jewish services, comes this passage from the Sukot service which typifies the religious attitude toward the holiday:

"O God and Father, all that we are we owe to Thee: all that we have is Thy gift. On this, our feast of joy and thanksgiving, we recognize how much there is for which we should be grateful. The radiant beauty of nature, the vivifying susnshine, the refreshing rain, the care with which Thy loving-kindness provides for our every need, all awaken within us feelings of deep gratitute toward Thee. Thy providence is ever watchful. Thy protecting arm is stretched out over all Thy creatures. Thou openest Thy hand and satisfiest every living thing with favor. Thou hast blessed the work of our hands and established it for us. When our foot stumbled, Thou didst uphold us; in the night of adversity, Thou didst revive our drooping spirits. . ."

Plans also were announced by Rabbi Wolf for the televising at 9 a.m. today on Channel 8 of the Yom Kippur Eve service held at Temple B'nai Israel last Tuesday. A video tape made during the service will be shown, accompanied by the commentary of Rabbi Wolf.

BACKGROUND

A native of Shreveport, Dr. Rust is a graduate of Louisiana College and the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. Since 1956, he has served as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Bastrop. Prior to that, he served as pastor in churches in Louisiana and Mississippi, having assumed his first pastorate in 1943.

His denominational experience includes his present service as president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention Executive Board and as a member of the Baptist Message Board of Trustees. He has served on various other committees and boards in the Louisiana Baptist Convention, including the Louisiana College Board of Trustees.

Glenn Pippens, pastor of the North Monroe Baptist Church, said, "This man's ministry and his preaching of the gospel have won the love and respect of his entire community."

The music program for the revival will feature a revival choir under Watts' direction. He came to Monroe and the College Place Baptist Church in May, 1964. He formerly served as music director at the Parkway Baptist Church in Natchez, Miss. A graduate of Mississippi College and the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, Watts is a native of Pascagola, Miss. He has been very active in leading revival music.

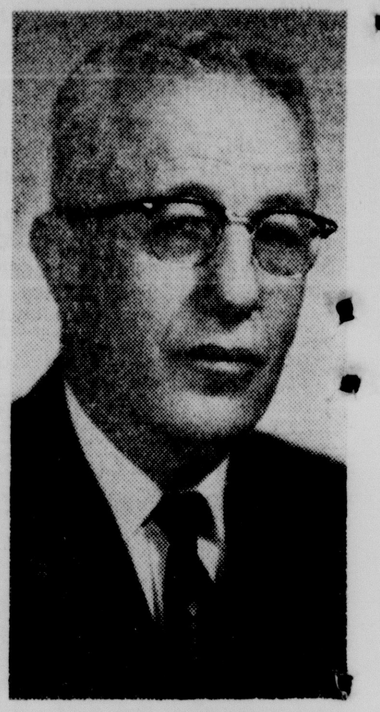
Text Provides Peace Formula

By REV. HUGH E. BRADSHAW, PASTOR
Memorial Presbyterian Church
West Monroe



REV. HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Text: " . . . Let us consider one another to provoke unto love and good works." Heb. 10:24

This text speaks of a new world - order of peace and power. It sets forth the only foundation of a new and abiding society. Let us consider this as a formula for a great society. Our scientific age seems to like formulas. We have them not only to capture the imagination of our generation interested in science but for those interested in sociology, politics and religion.

In religion we have the CLC approach to Bible study. This is really a formula emphasizing God's Covenant grace to his people. It also says that only in God's Covenant grace can we find life and that we ought to seriously study our Bibles with this in mind if we are to think His thoughts after Him. Our text might be reduced to a formula looking something like this: P2-C2P Wn. That is to say that peace and power (P2) can come only when we consider (C2) one another to provoke (P) to good works (Wn) to the nth degree.

BE CONCERNED

We must, then, be concerned about one another. We must consider the anxieties and the burdens, the frustrations and the hopes, the bad and the good in each of us, sleeping deviltry and the lost divinity. We must consider the possibility of a Hell or the promise of a Heaven. We must stir up men and women, boys and girls, not to unlawful demonstrations or riots. We must not provoke to lawlessness nor incite to passion. The flood of pornographic literature has provoked too many to lustful and lascivious lives. This destroys peace and corrodes power. Is it not high time we redeemed and regenerated this word provoke? Had we not better start inciting people to love and good works if hate and evil are not to make a Hell on the earth?

To provoke to love and good works, then, is to stir up one another to channel God's redeeming work to men so they will by His grace become new creations in Christ Jesus. Our chief concerns will then be to love the unlovely like Christ loved them. Good works will not be less concern for relief of hunger, suffering and mental anguish. These good works will flourish as never before and in addition the spiritual realities of abiding life such as righteousness, peace, power, a sound mind, holiness and glory will fill all of life. Yes, let us provoke one another to love and good works!

Catholics Fear New Persecution

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Westerners here see no new wave of religious persecution in Hungary, but the contest between the Communist government and the Roman Catholic Church continues.

Fears of a new campaign against Hungary's Catholic Church spread because of the arrest of a number of priests for giving "unlawful religious instruction" and for "plotting against the government."

Thirteen priests were convicted recently and sentenced to terms ranging to eight years imprisonment. The priests had no support from the bench of bishops, which in fact made no protest over the arrests and the subsequent sentences.

TWO FORMS

Hungarian law permits two forms of religious instruction:

Voluntary religious instruction in public schools by priests, and Catechism classes held in church buildings.

There is a third, tolerated form, that of visits by priests to the homes of believers to give religious instruction. The Hungarian authorities claimed that the sentenced priests not only gave such instructions but conspired against the regime.

There is no overt Communist pressure. On the other hand, the government does nothing to counter the widespread belief among the country's six million Catholics that, if they enter their children for religious instruction in school, this might keep them from admittance to universities or getting good jobs later.

DETERRENT

Another deterrent is that religious instruction is given either before school classes or immediately after. Children attending religious classes therefore have to get to school earlier, or leave later.

Austria's Cardinal Franz Koenig, who has twice visited Hungary as a special emissary of the late Pope John XXIII and of Pope Paul VI, said the situation of religious instruction still was unsatisfactory and one of the problems yet to be solved between the Vatican and the Hungarian government.

The other is the case of Hungarian Cardinal Joseph Mindszenty who sought asylum in the American legation in Budapest when the Soviets smashed the 1956 Hungarian uprising. He still is there.

No solution of the problem is in sight. Cardinal Mindszenty has said he would leave for Rome only as head of the Hungarian Catholic Church. The cardinal has never been brought to trial, and Cardinal Koenig said the Hungarian government would allow him to leave Hungary only "as a convicted man."

Center Goal For Work In Shadowland

WARREN, Pa. (AP) — Pioneering Protestants, Catholics and Jews are working for funds to build a mission center in a strange and dark country — the shadowland of the mentally ill.

What they have in mind is an interfaith chapel at Warren State Hospital in nearby North Warren.

Its function will be to serve the 2,500 mental patients of the hospital, who come from 13 western Pennsylvania counties. It will provide facilities for worship, religious education, and counseling for all three faiths.

It also will bring closer together two philosophies — religion and psychiatry.

OTHER FACILITIES

Besides a large central chapel, the center will include offices and living quarters for resident chaplains, conference rooms, small chapels for each faith, cooking facilities, and a large fellowship and recreational hall.

The sponsors have engaged Arland Dirlam of Boston, a well-known church architect, to design the center. Now they must raise $600,000 in the area served by the hospital to make their plans come true. The state will provide the land for the center, but by law cannot provide funds for such projects.

The hospital's patients range in age from 6 to over 90. Some 1,200 patients are admitted each year and the rate of cure among new cases under 60 years of age is 93 per cent. There are two permanent chaplains, the Rev. Mark Roueche, appointed by the Roman Catholic Diocese of Erie, Pa.; and the Rev. Franklin Ohagberg, Protestant Chaplain.

The Jewish congregation provides counseling for Jewish inmates.

NEED OBVIOUS

Dr. Robert Israel, superintendent of the hospital, says the need for religious help for patients is obvious to modern psyhiatrists. They believe religion can help reorient the patient who suddenly finds himself in the strange world of an institution—a world which seems to multiply the feeling of panic and confusion which his mental illness has caused.

FIRST SOUTHERN METHODIST CHURCH

Crucified — Crowned — Coming Again

The SOUTHERN METHODIST CHURCH is doctrinally the same as the old M. E. Church, South. We teach and preach a fundamental, Wesleyan, Evangelistic Message that is diametrically opposed to the "One Church, One Government, One Race" a postasy of our times.

Church Unit Assistance Service Cited

The disaster and emergency services of the Seventh-day Adventist Church were used extensively in south Louisiana recently giving aid to victims of Hurricane Betsy, according to Pastor M. H. Rossier of the local church.

W. H. Elder Jr., director of the Seventh-day Adventist services for the states of Arkansas and Louisiana was in the Baton Rouge and New Orleans area with the emergency tractor trailer van at the time the hurricane struck, September 9, and directed services in the stricken areas as the need continued.

DISTRIBUTION

Pastor Rossier said that up until October 2, 10 large van loads of clothing had been distributed by the church organization in the stricken areas, in addition to food, water, and some first aid materials. Volunteer workers from Seventh-day Adventist Churches in the New Orleans and Baton Rouge areas staffed the large mobile van units.

The Monroe church furnished 1,125 pieces of loose clothing, plus many packets containing a full line of clothing in each. Vans from surrounding states also were offered for service, and at one time the church had five of the large tractor trailer type units operating in the New Orleans area.

The Seventh-day Adventist director of services said that the mass feeding facilities of the emergency unit operated by the local conference, provided hot food for victims quartered at the municipal auditorium for a day and a half. A 300-gallon water tank located on the emergency unit also was pressed into service as the water in New Orleans was contaminated in the immediate wake of the hurricane.

Professor Is Speaker At Lakeshore

DAVID W. KNIGHT

Assistant professor of education at Northeast State College, David W. Knight, will deliver messages today at the 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. worship services at Lakeshore Baptist Church of Monroe, Lakeshore and Camellia Drive.

While doing his undergraduate work at the University of Florida where he received a B. S. degree in 1958, Knight served as president of the Baptist Student Union. He was on one of the two state B. S. U. Youth Revival teams which served in many churches over the state.

PASTORAL WORK

He taught school at Zolfo Springs, Florida from 1958-1960. During this period he was influential in helping to start a mission church and served as its pastor for 18 months after which a full time pastor was called.

In addition to this he has served as interim pastor of three churches and supplied in many pulpits. He and his wife, Carol are members of the Lakeshore Church.

GRADUATE STUDIES

Knight earned a masters degree from Mississippi Baptist College in 1961 and is presently completing requirements for the doctor of philosophy degree at Florida State University. He became a member of Northeast State faculty this fall.

News Briefs In Religion

JOINT BATTLE

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Missioners of the Pentecostal Church are giving Catholic missioners in Latin America great help in keeping the people from turning to communism, a Protestant leader told the annual pastoral meeting of Maryknoll in Santiago.

"The Pentecostal missioners are definitely filling voids which otherwise would be filled by Marxism," said John P. Nichols of World Church Service. He said the Pentecostal Church is one of Latin America's largest branches of the Protestant Church with more than 10 million members from Mexico to Chile. In Chile, he said, the Pentecostals account for nearly half of the country's 1.2 million Protestant population.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

GREEN LAKE, Wis. (UPI)—The largest number of conference delegate guest nights of any month in the history of the American Baptist Assembly was recorded in July, according to American Baptist News Service.

The next highest monthly attendance was in July, 1960. Indications are that total attendance for 1965 will equal or surpass that of 1964, with more than 30,000 delegates and visitors expected to register during the year.

OUTDOOR CATHEDRAL

RINDGE, N. H. (UPI) — Since the Cathedral of the Pines was established 20 years ago, more than 5 million persons representing every country in the world have visited this open air place of worship. Forty-nine different faiths have held services.

LUTHERAN ACTION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The national men's organization of The American Lutheran Church at its recent convention decided to eliminate the word "Brotherhood" from its name. The organization's new name is 'The American Lutheran Church Men."

The convention elected Oris J. Grande, of Tacoma, Wash., president, succeeding Dale Bruning, of Burning, Neb., and chose Sious Falls, S.D., as the site for its 1968 convention.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A layman of the American Lutheran Church has been appointed president of Gideons International, distributor of Bibles in hotel rooms around the world.

He is Clarence H. Gilkey Jr., of Butler, Pa., who has held numerous offices in the organization.

NEW MISSION

MARYKNOLL, N. Y. (UPI)—The Maryknoll Fathers have accepted the parish of Isibania in the Kisii diocese at Isibania, Kenya, East Africa, from African Bishop Maurice Otunga. It is the first parish in Kenya for this organization of Roman Catholic missionaries.

The Most Rev. John W. Comber, Superior General of Maryknoll, said two priests will be moved into the area initially to work with the approximately 30,000 persons (2,500 of them Catholics) in the parish. They will succeed the native pastor.

NO SLUMP

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The summer slump hasn't affected Southern Baptists' gifts to missions, according to SBC Treasurer Porter Routh, who reports Cooperative Program receipts for July totaled $1,936,884, an increase of more than $100,000 over receipts for July, 1964. The receipts also topped those for June, 1965, by $283,000.

LUTHERAN GAIN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Membership in North American Lutheran Churches totaled 9,002,969 baptized members at the end of 1964, a gain of 132,248 members, or 1.4 per cent, over the 8,870721 reported the previous year, according to an annual statistical summary issued by the National Lutheran Council.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am a Christian but I doubt my salvation because I have broken one of God's commandments. Also, I'm troubled about the scripture in I Corinthians 3:17 which says, "If any man destroy this temple of God, Him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, and such are ye." ..T.P.

You do not need to fear that a "single sin" or violation of the will of God makes it so that you are no longer a child of God. You did not become a child of God by obeying the law and therefore an act of disobedience is not going to cut you off from God. It may bring to an end the fellowship that you should enjoy, but the Bible does tell us, "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness' (I John 1:9). This is what you should do and in so doing your fellowship with God will be restored.

The particular scripture that is troubling you now actually has no reference to you personally because it has reference to those who would seek to destroy the church of Jesus Christ and attack it openly. This you have not done. Beside, it does not mean that the Christian would be spiritually lost, but rather that he would receive some kind of appropriate discipline for his sin. Paul speaks of a "man's work being entirely burned, of the man suffering loss, but himself being saved; yet so as through fire" (I Cor. 3:15). This is a verse that you should have given attention to, and not become so disturbed about the other one. If you repent of your sin, and turn once again to God He will restore you to fellowship and you can enjoy the kind of Christian privilege and joy that you knew when you first trusted Christ.

Creed Birthplace Scene Of Worship

IZNIK, Turkey (AP) — For the first time in 700 years, Christian services have been held in the basilica of Aya Sofya in the ancient birthplace of the Nicene Creed.

The services were suggested by the Moslem Turks, who hope that Iznik — the Nicaea of old — will be declared a place of pilgrimage by Pope Paul VI.

More than 200 pilgrims attended the Roman Catholic services conducted by Father Superior P. Angelo M. Beghetto of San Antonio church of Istanbul during the Iznik grape harvest festival.

NICENE CREED

It was in 325 A.D. that the Nicene Creed — a simple statement that defined the nature of Christ — was given to the world at the first Ecumenical Council.

In 725, the seventh Ecumenical Council met in the basilica of Hagia Sophia — which means Holy wisdom in Greek and is written Aya Sofya in Turkish.

In 1330, the Ottoman Turks captured Nicaea, whose importance was only slightly less than that of Constantinople — Istanbul — itself. The Turks turned the basilica into a mosque. Later it became a museum.

This Anatolian town, about 60 miles southeast of Istanbul, was a scene of excitement during the three-day grape festival in late September.

MUSIC STILLED

On the final day of the festival, the music was stilled as Father Angelo, who comes from Padua, Italy, looked out into the roofless basilica at the faithful, pilgrims from Britain, Spain, Italy, France and Turkey.

He spoke of gratitude and men and women lifted their voices in song. Communion, at last, was received.

After the service, the priest shook hands with the governor, the mayor and other town dignitaries.

When the visitors left, the Turks pressed boxes of grapes on them in a show of friendship Iznick had not seen in seven centuries.

Shreveport Ex-Mayor To Speak Here

Former Shreveport mayor, James C. Gardner, will be Layman's Day speaker at 10:50 a.m. services today at the First Methodist Church of Monroe.

A native of Shreveport, he is a graduate of Louisiana State University, and now is serving as public relations manager for the Louisiana Division of the Southwestern Electric Power Company in Shreveport.

FORMER SOLON

Gardner is a former state representative from Caddo Parish, and was named as Shreveport's Young Man of the Year for 1954. He is a veteran of World War Two, member of the American Legion and Forty and Eight, is a Mason and a member of the Shreveport Consistory.

Church officials said that Gardner is considered as a leading Methodist layman. He is a member of the First Methodist Church of Shreveport, is serving on the Official Board, just completing a term as chairman of that official body, and is now teaching in the college division of the church school.

Three-State Assembly Of Churches Set

Louisiana Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) leaders — laymen and ministers — will participate prominently in a three-state regional assembly of the International Convention of Christian Churches in New Orleans, Thursday through Saturday.

Purpose of the sessions, which will draw from Mississippi and southern Alabama in addition to Louisiana, will be to center attention on church advancement, reorganization and church union. Thirteen such assemblies will be held throughout the United States this fall.

CHAIRMAN

Charles S. Wicks, New Orleans, is general arrangements chairman for the assembly. The Jung Hotel on Canal Street is headquarters.

Among Louisianians on the program Friday are the Rev. Raymond T. Watson, of St. John's Christian Church, Monroe; Verl A. Underwood, Baton Rouge, and Albert N. Jones, secretary of the board, Louisiana Association of Christian Churches, Alexandria.

The assembly also will bring to New Orleans, Dr. Stephen J. England, Enid, Okla., president of the International Convention of Christian Churches.

ROOTS OF CHURCH

Roots of the two-million member denomination were planted in Louisiana 139 years ago this month when Jacob Creath preached beneath a magnolia tree near Bayou Sara on the Mississippi. Ten years later, in 1836, the first congregation was established at Jackson, La. Other early churches were at Cheneyville, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Mansfield and a number of rural sites.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

The Rev. Fred S. Flurry, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, attended a conference at Centenary College in Shreveport, October 4, to discuss the problems of alcoholism. The Seminar was sponsored by the Denomination's Board of Christian Social Concerns.

Ecumenical Council Enters Fourth Year

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council enters its fourth year Monday, certain to complete by Christmas its goal of launching the Roman Catholic Church into a new orbit of modernization and renewal.

With the 2,200 council bishops working at unprecedented speed, all the remaining documents — with one possible exception — are expected to be finished by late December.

The range of issues covered and those still to come is vast. The issues hold profound meaning not only for Roman Catholics but for the rest of the world as well.

By the time the council ends the leaders of the Catholic Church will have come up with conclusions on worship, education, Church government, religious liberty, relations with Protestants, Jews and other non-Christians, and countless other issues.

For the first time in its history, the church will have been pushed by its leaders into a direct embrace with the rest of the religious and secular world.

It is nothing less than a revolution, accomplished in a remarkably short time. When Pope John XXIII opened the council on Oct. 11, 1962, no one knew how long it would last. But the talk was of at least five years, and a duration of even 10 or 20 years was not ruled out.

There was fumbling and uncertainty at first as cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops, bishops and heads of religious orders assembled for the first ecumenical council since 1869-70.

Gradually, the council fathers found their range and blasted long traditions of secrecy, hesitation and indirection.

The bishops set up panels to inform the world through the daily press of what the council was doing.

Council fathers outlined for themselves an unprecedented share of governing power with the Pope. And Pope Paul VI approved.

What would have caused shock just a few years ago came to be accepted as normal — bishops in the council meeting hall in St. Peter's openly challenging Church laws on birth control, clashing with each other on controversial aspects of life in the Church and beyond.

In its first session the council finished no documents.

In the second it issued two — on liturgy and mass communications.

In the third session it produced three — on the nature of the Church, on the Eastern Church and on Christian unity.

Since this fourth and final session opened Sept. 12, the council fathers have virtually completed work on four — laity, divine revelation, bishops, and life in religious orders.

Still to be finished are documents on religious freedom, Jews and non-Christians, priestly formation, missionary activity, Catholic education and modern world problems. The latter document deals with such things as birth control and war and peace.

All but the declarations on the Jews and the modern world are expected to clear without major trouble.

The Jewish declaration has already been through four versions and if enough bishops vote against the present amended version in balloting Oct. 14-15, it will mean a return to the previous text.

Conservatives want the present draft, which deplores anti-Semitism but does not specifically denounce the ancient charge that the Jews are "deicide" — God killing — people. Progressive bishops want that wording restored.

Jury Accepts Grader Bid In West Carroll

OAK GROVE (Special) — The West Carroll Police Jury has accepted the low bid of Scott Truck and Tractor Co., of Monroe, to sell a motor grader to road district four for $16,433.-27.

The jury appointed a five man board of commissioners for the West Carroll airport. Named to the commission by the jury are Ralph Moore, A. Jess Smith, Dr. T. G. Biggs Jr., Charles Hankins, all of Oak Grove, and A. R. Head of Pioneer.

The juors also adopted a resolution requesting that the department of highways do paving work on drives and parking areas at the hospital grounds and on the road from highway 2, east of Oak Grove, north to the hospital and west around the hospital. Cost of the improvements was estimated at $26,000.

Bid of Carroll Sand and Gravel Co., of Lake Providence, to furnish washed gravel spot dumped on parish roads at $4.85 per cubic yard was accepted by the jury. About $20,-000 of gravel will be purchased under the state purchase contract.

Council Meeting Slated Monday

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Franklin Parish Citizens' Council has scheduled a meeting for Monday.

The meeting will get underway at 8 p.m. in the American Legion Community Center in Winnsboro.

Plans Slated For Homecoming At Louisiana State

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Presentation of the Louisiana State University Homecoming Queen at a student talent show will get the annual homecoming celebration into full swing at the university Friday night.

The queen will be selected by LSU male students in an election Friday from five finalists chosen by the Tiger football team. The four other coeds will serve as members of the homecoming court.

First events of the homecoming weekend will be a pep rally and a fireworks display at 6 p.m. Friday in the Greek Theater.

The Tiger Tantrums student talent show, which includes competing skits, student singers, musicians and comedians, will begin at 7 p.m. in the Union Theater.

Activities will move next door to the Union's Grand Cotillion Ballroom for the annual homecoming dance at 8 p.m.

LSU alumni director Tad Thrash said that activities Saturday will focus on the LSU alumni, who will have an opportunity to meet their former teachers and classmates when refreshments are served in the colleges and schools around the campus throughout the morning.

This year's homecoming will single out the classes of 1925 and 1940 as special guests. More than 50 members of these classes have already indicated that they will participate in the festivities, Thrash said. These groups will begin assembling and renewing acquaintances at 9 p.m. in the Alumni House. At 11:30 a.m., the two classes will be honored at a military review on the Parade Ground.

The 1925 graduates will be greeted by Chancellor Cecil G. Taylor at a luncheon in the LSU Union, and the 1940 graduates by Pres. John Hunter in the LSU faculty club. Both meetings begin at 12:30 p.m.

At 2 p.m. Saturday, the winning acts in the Tiger Tantrums talent show will be repeated in the Union Theater.

An alumni homecoming party will be held at 3 p.m. in the Jack Tar Capitol House in downtown Baton Rouge.

Pre-game ceremonies, including the presentation of the homecoming queen and her court, will begin at 7 p.m. in the Stadium.

The LSU Tigers will meet the University of Kentucky Wildcats at 8 p.m.

Soviets Indicate Mistiming Key To Luna Crash

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet space scientist indicated Saturday night the crash of the Luna - 7 space station was caused by mistiming in the firing of retro-rockets.

The scientist, Professor V. Ivanchenko, said the Soviet Union would continue trying to achieve a soft-landing on the lunar surface—a major step toward putting a man on the moon—despite the failure of Luna-7.

"To achieve a soft landing," Ivanchenko wrote in the government newspaper Izvestia, "one must rehearse it several times; to send one rocket after another to the moon.

"Only this will assure us that everything will work at the moment of landing."

Luna-7 crash-landed on the moon early Friday, presumably destroying its payload of delicate instruments. It was the third failure by the Soviets in as many attempts at a soft-landing. The United States will attempt the feat for the first time next February.

Luna-7 approached the moon at 6,696 miles per hour, Ivanchenko said. The braking rockets, had they worked properly, would have cut this speed to nearly zero in time for the feather-light landing.

Guide To Good Reading

Extensive Use Is Made Of Library

The people of Ouachita Parish make extensive use of their public libraries. September is always a slow month in public libraries, but in spite of this fact, a total of 36,121 books were borrowed by patrons of the Library. Of this number 11,-981 were loaned at the main Library. 11,739 were loaned from the bookmobiles. 7,363 were borrowed by patrons of the West Monroe Library, 3,312 by patrons of the Anna Meyer Branch Library and 1,816 by the patrons of the Carver Branch. One reason for the increased use of the Library is the fact that our book collection continues to increase and on October 1 it stood at 104,711 books.

New books added during the past week will find a ready audience. Probably the most popular one will be the new biographical novel by Irving Stone, who is an expert in this field. The book is called "Those Who Love" and is the story of Abigail and John Adams. This story of a devoted and happy marriage is entertwined with the early history of our country and makes a story that is entertaining and informative.

Many of our readers are interested in the subject of reincarnation and they will welcome a new book in this field called "Yoga, Youth and Reincarnation" written by Jess Stearn. Cyrus L. Sulzberger has a new book in the field of political economy. It is called "Unfinished Revolution; America and the Third World." It is concerned with the condition of the world today and the new states in undeveloped areas. It is a very pertinent book and is one which the thoughtful reader will enjoy. "Coming of Age in America" by Edgar Z. Friedenberg is a very well-written study of adolescent sociology and the habits of high school students.

Allen Drury, newspaper writer who rose to fame and fortune with his novels "Advise and Consent" and a "Shade of Difference," has now given us a non-fiction book about his years as a Washington reporter, which he calls "Three Kids in a Cart". He tells us much about the politics and government and also our foreign relations in the period from 1945 to 1953.

Antique collectors will be interested in a delightful small volume called "More Looking in Junk Shops" written by John Bedford. The author tells about some of the collectable small art objects which are often found in junk shops. "Force of Circumstance" by Simone de Beauvoir is a significant addition to our collection of French literature.

"Egypt to the End of the Old Kingdom" by Cyril Aldred is a very fine study of Egyptian archeology and will be widely used by students. "Arlington; Monument to Heroes" by John Vincent Hinkel is a beautiful book about our National Cemetery. It is profusely illustrated and will interest many patrons.

There are two new biographies this week. "The Wind Commands Me" by E. D. Bradford is a very fine biography of one of the most colorful characters of English history, Sir Francis Drake. "My Twelve Years With Y.F.K." was written by the late President Kennedy's Secretary ,Evelyn Lincoln and contains much information about the everyday character of the President.

The Main Library will be open this afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 P.M. for reference, reading and circulation of books. Using the library is a delightful way to spend a Sunday afternoon.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks reached a new historic high this week when it closed at 346.7 from 343.3 a week earlier. This marked the seventh straight weekly gain in the barometer. Led by food, the commodity index advanced slightly this week to 171.0 from 170.9 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

New Highs Posted By Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite some adverse factors, the stock market posted a good advance last week, making record highs in some of the avergaes.

Worry over President Johnson's gall bladder operation caused only a momentary upset in the market early on Wednesday. Wall Street learned to "live with" the fact that the President faced surgery and held its own fairly well, advancing vigorously on Friday when the White House reported the operation "a complete success."

Events of great religious importance occurred earlier in the week. The first was the visit of Pope Paul VI to New York City. This distracted an unknown amount of attention from the stock market.

The other religious event was the high Jewish holy day of Yom Kippur which always tends to have a dampening effect on the stock market.

The start of World Series baseball had slight effect on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 3.4 to a record closing high of 346.7.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 8.67 to 938.32, failing to match its record closing high of 939.62 made May 14.

The Dow Jones rails average, however, made historic closing highs Thursday and Friday, ending the week at 228.87.

Volume was 32,986,074 shares compared with 42,355,430 the prior week, which was the heaviest since 1929.

Airlines, color television manufacturers, motors, office equipments and a variety of specially-situated issues did well during the week.

U.S. Treasury bond prices rallied, recouping about one-fourth of the losses sustained in a 10-week decline. Corporate and municipal bond prices also were stronger.

Of 507 issues traded, 205 advanced in price, 170 declined and 132 were unchanged.

Statistics Show Over-All Decline In Oil Search

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new report tells the statistical story of the over-all decline in the search for oil and gas in recent years.

For example, in Texas, the leading oil producing state for many years, 13,152 wells were drilled for oil and gas last year, the smallest total since Texas became a major oil state. In 1956 the number for Texas was 21,519 and in 1963 it was 13,468, the report showed.

As it has for many years, Texas continued to top all other states in the number of wells drilled. Last year, despite the sharp drop in exploration activities there since 1956.

Futures Prices Lifted By Bean Demand At Mill

CHICAGO (AP)—Demand for soybeans at the crushers' mills developed last week, lifting August 1966 futures prices by as much as 2 cents a bushel at Friday's close.

Shortage of supplies sent soybean oil futures up for the week from 2 to 43 points, the December contract closing at $9.78-80, compared with $9.36-37 a week ago. Meal gained as much as $1.05 in the far deliveries.

Completions Listed In Three Parishes

There were no fields completed in Ouachita Parish this week in the Monroe Oil and Gas District, but three other parishes reported completions.

The weekly field report issued by the office of Duncan S. Cook, district director, for the week ending Thursday, October 7, shows 76 locations, with 45 active and 91 inactive. Fourteen wells were reported abandoned.

Last week there were 13 completions compared with this week's 12. There were 23 new locations reported last week compared with this week's 30.

Completed wells were reported in Concordia Parish — 1, La Salle Parish — 2 and Morehouse Parish — 9.

Some 30 permits were issued during the week for new locations in five parishes — Catahoula, 5; Concordia, 7; La Salle 11; Rapides, 5; and Union, 2.

Businessmen Eye LBJ Operation

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen this week pondered the effects of President Johnson's hospitalization, debated over rising interest rates and heard of a possible tightening of U.S. corporate investments abroad.

The immediate result: little. The nation's economy, still rolling on its record peacetime expansion, scarcely paused for breath.

Major corporations continue back-to-school sales higher than a year ago and automobile makers prepared to turn out 886,000 new-model cars this month. National unemployment figures stood at their lowest level in nearly eight years.

At the bottom of the economy's strength, said economists, was the confidence of the average American consumer. A University of Michigan study said that despite widespread concern over the war in Viet Nam, consumers feel things at home will remain good or improve. The study concluded that Americans feel there is less likelihood of a recession today than at any other time the last 15 years.

But President Johnson had two major business issues to take with him to Bethesda Naval Hospital. One was the cost of bank loans. The other was the nation's continuing balance of payments problem and U.S. corporate investments abroad.

Treasury Secretary Henry J. Fowler told a bankers' meeting in Chicago that the White House would not favor a broad increase by banks in their money-lending rates. Major banks, reacting to a tighter money supply and growing demand for loans, have increased interest charges recently to some business customers.

Fowler indicated that general increase in interest rates would hurt the economy — a view echoed by economist Arthur D. Okin of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. Okin told a building executives' meeting that a trend to tighter money would squeeze the housing market, which has been leveling off or declining for more than a year.

The American Bankers Association, however, passed a resolution at their Chicago meeting saying interest rates should be allowed to "respond to market forces." The bankers said the real risk to the economy would be in a government move to clamp an arbitrary lid on interest rates.

On another front, Commerce Secretary John T. Connor said in Washington that there may be a tightening of the President's program of voluntary curbs by U.S. businessmen on their investments abroad.

The program, launched last March, is aimed at cutting the buildup of U.S. dollars in foreign hands and easing the nation's balance of payments deficit. While the administration has cited marked results so far, many officials are disturbed over a Commerce Department report that U.S. companies plan to spend $1.3 billion or 20 per cent, more abroad this year than last year for direct investment in plants and equipment.

BUYS FIRST NEW 1966 CHEVROLET HERE. Mr. Raymond Sweet, Monroe Post Office Department employee, at left, receives the keys to his 1966 Chevrolet Caprice four-door hardtop sedan, from Harry Black, new car salesman at Ryan Chevrolet. Mr. Sweet stated, "My wife selected this Chevrolet for the beauty of its styling and the interior beauty of the automobile." He said that this was his second new car purchased from RYAN CHEVROLET. Peppy Fonda Says Drive Just Natural

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — A lucky guy, Henry Fonda.

Ask, for example, about the tireless vim that's part of his style.

"People," comes the answer, "are always saying to me, 'Hey, why don't you slow down?' I've always been that way. Lord, I don't do anything special to get the energy — I'm just lucky."

Inquire about skill at achieving variety.

"I'm never looking simply for a change or anything special when parts are offered. When something hits you, you grab. Not getting two similar characters in a row is luck."

CAREER BEGINNING

Remind him that the Fonda career began 40 years ago this autumn out in Omaha.

"I was lucky when I came into the theatre. There were all sorts of things going on in those days where you could break into acting. For young actors today there aren't nearly the same opportunities."

If boxoffice demand continues at the present pace, the 60-year-old star will be busy for a long time at Broadway's Morosco Theater in "Generation." The comedy, about an advertising executive and his kooky son-in-law, opened recently.

The production is Fonda's 10th major Broadway show after "hundreds of other plays."

Between visits here — "I've always said I prefer the stage" — he has made 62 films.

MANY SWITCHES

"I've switched back and forth so many times, I don't have any problem adjusting to the different requirements of the two media," he says, adding that a good deal of screen work leaves him apathetic.

"You do four bad pictures — knowing they'll probably be boxoffice — hoping that they'll let you do one that is personally satisfying. The important thing is that you have to keep yourself in the producers' eye as well as in the public's, so that you remain in demand."

As in other recent stage ventures, Fonda has a substantial investment in "Generation." He learned the wisdom of that after his marathon appearance in "Mr. Roberts."

"I'm not rich, but everyone thinks I am because I was in that play for four years. But I was just an actor on salary."

Putting money into a show can be good business, says Fonday. He sold a $25,000 shares of "Two For the Seesaw" for $100,000.

CURTAIN CALL

After tonight's performance at Strauss Playhouse, "The Pleasure Of His Company," takes a recess until Thursday. It will then resume for four more performances, concluding with a matinee next Sunday at 2:30.

Reservations may be made for tonight and subsequent performances by calling the box office at 323-1235 between 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. today or Wednesday and thereafter. The box office will be closed Monday and Tuesday except for mail requests which may be addressed to Little Theatre, Lamy Lane, Monroe.

TRYOUTS SET

On Monday and Tuesday nights at 7:30, executive director George Black will hold tryouts for the next show, "Everybody Loves Opal." The title character in this zany comedy is an eccentric woman of indeterminate age whose faith in human nature, even under extreme provocation, is never obscured by such odd-ball habits as saving old tea bags and storing everything under the wrong labels.

In the course of the play, she becomes the intended victim of three con artists, Gloria, a brassy doll; Brad, an intellectual devoid of character; and Sol, a self-styled operator right out of "Guys And Dolls." A doctor and a policeman enter the action from time to time. All six are character parts that will be as much fun to play as they will be to watch when the comedy opens in November.

In looking for candidates over a wide range of ages, casting chairman Garland Moore emphasizes that one need not be called by the casting committee in order to stand a chance for a part. The only reason any people is called is to provide the director with enough prospects to give him a choice. No one invited to audition has any prior assurance of being cast and those who read without having been called beforehand are just as likely to get a part if they possess the qualities sought by the director. The theatre is constantly on the lookout for newcomers to enlist in the acting ranks.

MEMBERS INCREASE

With total membership now only 500 short of our 3,000 limit, vice president Marge Mullens advises that people still wishing to join may apply at the box office at the same time that they make reservations for "The Pleasure Of His Company."

As we open a new season, it seems appropriate to give a bow to David Hunt and Roger Kelley who are so generous in taking the many photographs we need for program and publicity purposes. David does all the program pictures, while Roger takes the action shots mounted in the lobby and used by the news media.

We certainly want to express appreciation to Robert Wing for patching up our sound system and lending components of his own so that it would be in working order for the show. And we are grateful to the Town and Country Garden Club for contributing the handsome centerpiece used on the coffee table opening weekend.

It's time to congratulate Herbert H. "Grandpa" Nobes on another birthday, his 87th. He is still mighty spry and we look forward to his continued attendance at all our shows this season.

TILES ADDED

We are back in the tile business again, thanks to Judy Evans who painted 152 new spaces on the opposite wall of the Green Room. Quite a few actors have already signified their intention of claiming one or more and the added tiles will be exhausted in three seasons at the recent rate of demand. We'll be happy to take orders right now.

The name tentatively chosen for our backstage organization is The Octopi (the Official Community Theatre Order of Proscenium Insiders, if you must know). Even though more people have taken on backstage tasks than we have drawn to a non-musical in a long time, we can always use more. Tryouts for "Opal" would be a good opportunity to come out to Strauss Playhouse and get acquainted if you think you might be interested in the fun and friendship of participating in a production without having to appear as an actor.

STARRING IN "Zebra in the Kitchen" are Martin Milner, young Jay North and Andy Devine. It opens Friday at the Eastgate Cinema. The Metrocolor comedy is on the same program with a Walt Disney featurette, "Country Coyote Goes Hollywood."

New Stamps Cover Range Of Events

Two anniversaries and a special sports event are hailed by Switzerland with the issuance of three new stamps. One stamp honors CEPT (Conference of European Postal and Telecommunications). The 50 centimes light blue, dark blue and green depicts a twig with three leaves and fruit. It was designed by Icelandic artist Hoerdur Karlsson. A set of two stamps commemorates the centenary of the ITU (International Telecommunication Union). The 10 cent blue, yellow, gray and red bears a symbolic drawing of communications. The 30 cent orange, gray and red also has a symbolic illustration. The third stamp pays philatelic tribute to the world figure skating championships to be held in Davos, Switzerland, next Feb. 22-27. The design features a pair in graceful skating maneuver. The 5 cent is green, blue and gray.

Great Britain has issued a new 6 pence stamp honoring the Commonwealth Arts Festival. The illustration shows three dancing figures from the famous Trinidad Shrove Monday Carnival. Colors are orange and black. A 1 shilling 6 pence in the same series depicts folk dancing by Les Feux Follets, a Canadian dance group. Colors are mauve and black. The Dorothy Wilding portrait of Queen Elizabeth is in the upper right corner of each stamp and "Commonwealth Arts Festival" is at the extreme left.

A little late arriving on the philatelic scene is a set of stamps from Uruguay commemorating the XVII Olympiad held last year. The regular values are as follows: 20 centavos football, 40 c basketball, 80 c cycling, 1P swimming. The airmails are: 1P boxing, 1.50P track, 2P fencing, 2.40P rowing, 3P rifle shooting. A souvenir sheet for the occasion was also issued. Each stamp also shows the 5-ring Olympic symbol.

Italy has issued a new 30 lire stamp marking the opening of the new 7.2 mile Mont Blanc Tunnel between Italy and France. A stamp honoring the same event was recently issued by France. The Italian stamp depicts a modernistic Alpine by a tunnel. The two halves are labeled "Francia" and Italia."

When the National Arts and Antiques Festival opens in New York's Madison Square Garden on Nov. 13 it will feature an exhibit of famous art on stamps. Called "Artfilatelia" it is the collection of Charles Gordon, a commercial airlines pilot whose hobby is art on postage stamps. The adhesives come from 22 nations. Famous artists include Da Vinci, Stuart, Michelangelo, Rubens, Goya, El Greco, Matisse Whistler and others.

EFFICIENT AND HONEST

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Stopping at a toll plaza, David Sullivan handed the attendant a $5 bill.

He received change for only $1 which he pitched into the slot.

As he neared the next toll stop, Sullivan realized he had been short changed.

He explained his situation to the attendant, who handed over $4. He told Sullivan, "The other attendant phoned ahead and informed me of what happened."

The Forever Coast

At the Pass, the gulf sends a soft breeze to move the gentle moss, and shadows dance on the white picket fence. Through high live oaks, wind whispers, and only a sound of the creaking gate breaks the stillness. There are wrought iron fences which enclose the family places, and lichen-covered stones tell of those who came before and loved the coast. St. Augustine grass fights a continual battle with the sandy loam, and there are the exposed knuckles of a thousand aged roots.

A hundred yards away, bright sand meets the sparkling gulf, and where the sky touches the sea is the line of low trees on the island. Many times there are the deep blue skies, billowing clouds, and whitecaps on warm azure water. Sometimes the water is frothy green, and scudding clouds fly along as if impatient to be elsewhere. Foam crawls on the beach, and terns wheel anxiously in the wind-tossed sky. Silvery moss swings faster in the strong wind, and it seems sometimes as if voices talk between the stones.

Before, there was only a macadam road which wound through the oaks and along the coast. From Bay St. Louis it ran, all the way to Alabama, past fifty miles of stately old homes and peaceful gulfside villages and towns. The dark road is still there near the beautiful old homes, magnolias, and bright flowers. Piers walk into the water, and on the ends of many are shingled bath houses. At Bay St. Louis, the piers seem to walk in family groups, great in number, and the water slaps the sea-wall as it moves past Henderson Point into the back rivers. There is a new bridge now, and the familiar old steel draw is gone — moved somewhere to a lesser high-road.

The Inn-by-the-Sea lives under a new name, and there is a residential area where in the late autumns, little teal would swoop and land. Pass Christian is quite timeless, and its white oyster shell streets have weathered many generations. Red-roofed stores still cling to the rise along the gulf, and the cream-pillared post office is reminiscent of a British colonial depot in the tropics. In the old days, before the new fast times, the young people heard the train whistle at sundown and knew dad was on the sixten from New Orleans. At the quaint gray-green clapboard station, there were straw hats, Packards, a Pierce, and several Ford station wagons. One watched the signal tower and knew when the train was in the block.

On bright summer mornings, the tide was out, and there were softshells lurking under driftwood or near a barnacled piling. A horseshoe crab scuttled speedily out to deeper water, and needlefish played in the shallows.

Somehow the coast gets into the blood; and no matter how far one goes, the sights one sees, or the exotic places visited, the golden coast days are mental magnets drawing one home. There were times when the ice truck would come, and youngsters would swarm about as happy bees near the white cottage with the red tin roof. At dusk the skiffs, wells crammed full with speckled trout, redfish, and even sheephead would chug to the piers; and there would be crabs, shrimp, and many happy nights around the kitchen tables cracking the hard red claws.

Today the coast of Mississippi along the gulf is modern, but changeless and very beautiful. The old road is now paralled by magnificent expressway which soars along the water and seems to run into the gulf. Gulfport, Biloxi, Ocean Springs, and Pascagoula are playgrounds as never before, and although the conveniences of a new era have made inroads, the new beach hotel seems not to offend the white columned old mansion. Cars and trucks swish along the expressway, and jets fly overhead, but somehow there is still the grace, charm, and slow living of the coast. Boats put out into the gulf toward Ship Island and Grand Pass as in generations past. The crab nets are strung from piers, and out on the horizon, Cat Island is there as it has been and always will be.

In the early night, one stands on a pier in the wind. Far out on the water, there are lights, and the coastline is a brilliant diamond tiara shimmering against a dark blue velvet sky. Waves gurgle about pilings, and a whitecap breaks noisily and careens along the dark surface of the water. A car speeds toward New Orleans, or who cares where, and for a fleeting instant voices and sounds of other happy times seem so real. The Gulf Coast is forever —a fifty mile magic world which casts a peaceful speed you'll never forget.

Tests To Aid Literacy Rate Are Announced

An estimated 14,000 "functional illiterates" in Ouachita Parish will be eligible next Tuesday to take Louisiana Education Department literacy tests.

Functional illiterates — persons with less than a formal sixth grade education — have been encouraged by Ouachita Parish and City of Monroe school officials to take the tests at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Parish Elementary Supervisor J. M. Waldrop advised such persons Tuesday night to go to the school their children attend, or, if they have no school-age children, to go to their "community school."

Every city and parish school, in common with schools across the state, will be open Tuesday night for the expected influx.

State officials explain that the tests are expected to reduce the number of persons in Louisiana presently classed as illiterate, since they lack a sixth grade education. They feel many persons without the required education can pass literacy tests and remove themselves from the illiterate classification.

In Ouachita Parish, of 51,322 persons over 25 years of age, 2,059 have had no formal schooling, 6,429 have only first to fourth grade educations, and 5,590 have completed either fifth or sixth grade.

In the three categories, Ouachita ranks, respectively, twelfth from the top among the state's 64 parishes, ninth and sixth.

Dynamic Builder

The name of Sam J. Recile is connected with giant building developments in New Orleans, and his real estate ventures have attracted widespread attention in business circles.

Editorials — Spotlight — Sports
Monroe, La. October 10, 1965 1-B

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The steel skeleton of a new skyscraper reached its 34th story recently and became the tallest structure in the City that Care Forgot.

It will be dwarfed in months ahead by the nation's largest hotel, the construction of which will begin next year.

In a plush office in the center of what was once a slum, a young, balding man who is building other giants looked at models of the buildings and commented that for the past several decades, New Orleans stood still.

Sam J. Recile is changing all that. To call Recile a "boy wonder" would be a misstatement of fact. At 32, holdings of his Southern Land and Title Corp., are worth more than $75 million. But at 21 Recile already had made his first million. He lost it two years later when an oil well went under, but it did not take him long to recover after he concentrated all his efforts on real estate.

The two buildings which made Recile famous are the Plaza Tower, climbing at a busy intersection toward 45 stories, and the Place Vendome, which will grow to 72 floors.

Recile's system is deceivingly simple. He fills needs. His secret is his ability to see the need before it is apparent to anyone else. When he explains the need, the listener is apt to think, "of course . . . that must be obvious to everyone."

MULTI-MILLIONAIRE AT 32

But "everyone" is not building 72-story towers. "Everyone" is not taking on the crumbling sections of the famed French Quarter and turning them into plush residential areas. "Everyone" is not a multi-millionaire at 32. Recile is.

Sam Recile got a high school education and took courses in night school. When his contemporaries were entering college, Recile was in court having himself declared an independent adult. At 17 he had been in the real estate business for three years. He made his first purchase, a tract of land in a residential area, in his mother's name while he was still in high school.

By the time he was 21, he had drilled 18 wells. Seventeen of them produced. But two years later one of the producers failed, and the industrious youth began searching again for his lost fortune. He found it by concentrating on his first career, real estate.

The failing oil well taught young Recile a lesson. "I'll never speculate like that again," he says, "I never lost money in real estate."

In 1952, he began buying property in the French Quarter. He bought three buildings which were on the verge of collapse and turned them into office space.

APARTMENT COMPLEX

Today, Recile's Richilieu Square is nearing completion near the old French Market. It will be one of the city's most lavish apartment complexes, built on the Spanish - French architecture which made the Quarter famous.

"Some of these buildings didn't have 50 years left," Recile said, "Now in 100 or 200 years they'll still be there."

The straight-laced Vieux Carre Commission, set up to watch the every move of builders and renovaters in the French Quarter to make sure its face changes only within the limits of existing architecture, named one of Recile's renovations "Outstanding Restoration of the Year" in 1964.

Salvador (he later changed it to Sam in honor of his grandfather) J. Recile was born near Hammond, in Tangipahoa Parish. He moved to New Orleans just before he made his first real estate deal.

He talks about New Orleans in much the way that native politicians talk about it. But the difference is that Recile has no political axe to grind. He knows his city's potential and he is taking giant steps to see that it is realized.

"One hundred years ago, Atlanta was leveled," he said. "Houston was a cow pasture and Miami was a swamp. New Orleans was still a great city in every sense of the word. It had an opera, a European Culture, large brokerage houses and waterways. It was a banker center.

"Yet in the last several decades what has happened in New Orleans? Really nothing."

LOOKING AHEAD

New interstate highways are linking New Orleans to key cities in the South and Southwest, bringing labor and industry into the city in unprecedented numbers. Recile is merely making room for the boom.

The Plaza Tower will be a 45-story office-apartment building in which an executive will be able to live, work and play. The 72-story convention hotel, the Place Vendome, is billed as the city's first hotel "conceived, designed and built specifically to serve the every need of great national and international conclaves and conventions."

Recile works at a maddening pace. He's up at five, in the office at six, and conferring with his staff minutes later. The lights of the city have been burning for hours before he goes home again.

His philosophy of work transferred itself to the Plaza Tower.

"A businessman loses an hour every day going from home to the office and back. It takes him 20 minutes to walk to and from lunch. He spends 20 per cent of his time uselessly."

NEW ORLEANS REAL ESTATE developer Sam J. Recile stands beside a model of his 45-story Plaza Tower building now rising in that city. He is a planner who is convinced that New Orleans will regain unquestioned prominence it once held in the South. In the meantime, he is gaining wide recognition for his French Quarter restorations, and for other giant projects.

In the Plaza Tower, the trip from home to office will take seconds via high speed elevators. There are restaurants in the building, and also a health club, barber shop, bank and post office — "all the needs of 20th Century business." Recile was right. The building has been completely leased four times, and each time, the plans had to grow to accommodate the need.

Recile says he has no financial "backers" as such. "If you can get things done, the money will be available," he says. And Recile has a reputation for getting things done.

Recile finds himself pressed for working time. The days are too short. On one occasion he kept a dental appointment at 5:30 a.m.

He lists his hobbies as work, cooking, and buying service stations.

The young man from Hammond thinks often of his family's future in terms other than money. His five sons will go to college. "I made it the hard way. School is the easy way. Two of the most important things in life — and I want my kids to know this — are people and land."

Recile uses the land to fill the needs of the people. That's his formula for success.

Beirut, Booming City Of Traditions And Many Oddities

Beirut, Lebanon is considered by many as a city of peace and quiet, but it also is a place of traditions, curiosities, and occasional violence.

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Motorists in Beirut can have their license plates custom-made.

Fashion-conscious Lebanese, dissatisfied with the conservative black and silver plates issued by the government—which often lose their paint within a few months—patronize local license makers who dream up plaques of their own design, for $2 and up.

Despite a law saying plates must conform at least roughly to the government pattern, car owners add little metal cedar trees to the plates, change the shape from square to oval, or put the numbers on with embossed figures in gold.

TRADITIONS, CURIOSITIES

This is one of many oddities in Beirut, a booming city of traditions and curiosities.

Here a suave, night-clubbing crowd in tuxedos and the latest fashions may suddenly switch from the watusi or the frug to a whirling, stamping mountain folk dance. Workers tearing up the road beside a glass-and-steel skyscraper may unearth a Phoenician tomb or Roman ruins.

Beirut teen-agers can buy black market Beatle records—and pay for them on the installment plan.

Black market records—brought into the country by airline crews or other travelers—are discs not yet passed by the Lebanese censors, who check all publications for morality, politics and anti-Arab material.

Censorship works loosely here. A customer who discovers a page cut from his magazine can sometimes drop in to the bookshop where he bought it and read the snipped-out material from a stack under the counter. Often the offending item turns out to be merely a tourist advertisement for Israel.

OTHER STRANGE ITEMS

Other items strange to the West are produced by the mysteries of the Druze religion, which has thousands of followers in Lebanon. Residents in a nearby mountain village tell of the 12-year-old girl who got permission to leave the English school she attended because she had just inherited the soul of an elderly lady.

She also inherited the old woman's responsibilities, and needed time off to supervise the birth of a new grandchild. She is now considered the infant's grandmother.

Beirut is a determinedly capitalistic city but the Soviet Embassy is active nonetheless. Patients at one medical center found the reading material in the waiting room consisted of pamphlets like "Siberia, Land of the Future," or "The Renaissance of Russian Ballet."

The owner of a sporting goods shop claims Russian diplomats have been dropping in regularly to buy starting pistols. So far, he says, they have bought 75. Nobody can figure out why.

Genuine weapons figure frequently in incidents in Beirut, where many a Lebanese goes armed or carries a revolver in his car. Newspapers regularly print stories of blood feuds erupting between families, accompanied by shooting in the streets. Security forces from time to time have to seal off an entire village to halt a gunbattle.

VISITORS' VIEW

The occasional burst of violence, however, has no effect on Beirut as a tourist center. To the visitor, the city is bright and peaceful.

Family honor lies behind many of the incidents. There are frequent reports of a brother shooting his sister for immorality, or even for marrying without the family's permission. Police keep a close watch on Beirut morals. They recently arrested a dealer on charges of selling a Syrian girl to a wealthy sheik for $3,300.

On the lighter side, Beirut's helter-skelter street system causes confusion even to lifelong residents. Finding a friend's house can be an exercise in exploring.

A despairing antique dealer whose customers couldn't find his shop sends out the following circular:

DIRECTIONS

"Address: Lazarieh Building, Syria Street, Khandak El Ghamlik, near the Syriaque church and the newspaper Al Hadaf, Adel Sakti Building.

"You can take a different way, by Bechara El-Khoury Street near the police station and the traffic light; on the left is a gasoline station and on the right the Arbid Hospital. . .At the crossing is a post with an arrow painted in red saying 'Al Hadaf newspaper.' Behind the post is an old house painted in two colors, the upper story in black and lower in yellow—this is the Adel Sakti Building."

MANY LEBANESE cars carry fancy license plates and fancier revolvers.

STREET systems cause confusion.

BEIRUT teenagers can buy black market Beatle recoru.

Unity In Christianity

Strange ideas on what constitutes Christianity and on a supposed need for church unity are being circulated in many parts of the world and in the United States. There now seems to be popular support for casting all Christians in one mold and for making them all believe the same thing. This is defined as "church unity" or "Christian unity." Many of the outstanding Christian leaders of the world, including high officials of the Protestant and Catholic churches, are supporting church unity.

Church unity or Christian unity, as far as a common objective is concerned, is to be desired and admired. If anyone means by "church unity" that we must fit into a common mold and that we must all believe the same thing, that is about the last thing that should be desired and it should be shunned as a plague. The guarantee of religious freedom in the United States means the right to worship as one chooses. If all churches adopted the same creed and if all purported to believe exactly the same thing, it would mean a big step in the wrong direction — a step toward curbing religious freedom.

Arguing in favor of "church unity," one commentator said:

"If that hypothetical visitor from Mars were to survey the religions of man, he would find many discrepancies and other causes for astonishment. He might consider it fairly puzzling, for instance, that although all Christians base their faith on the Scriptures, there is far from universal agreement among them as to what the Bible says. The Martian would soon discover that the Bible used by Roman Catholics differs in many respects from the Bibles used by most other Christian groups."

It has been said that of all the three billion persons in the world, no two are exactly alike. Identical twins come nearest to being alike, yet one memory expert said he had been introduced many times to different pairs of identical twins and had been challenged to tell them apart, or to remember "which was which," but that he had never failed to find differences that would enable him to distinguish between them.

If no two of us are exactly alike, is it logical or reasonable to expect that any of us will agree exactly on Christianity or any form of religion? Christ Himself, never taught any such thing but always taught, on the contrary, that Christanity is an individual thing.

On the matter of a common Bible, we take no certain position. It would seem that the words of Christ should never be at variance but books written by different disciples regarding the same incidents varied markedly, and that is only natural. Even though two reporters may cover an important occasion well, their stories, if written separately, will never be alike.

Remarking on different versions of the Bible, the commentator added:

"This has been one of the great barriers that have separated Christians from Christians. It is of great interest, therefore, that the Vatican Council has given official encouragement to the idea of preparing a common Bible for all Christians.

"Agreement on such a Bible is not just around the corner, obviously. Much further spadework will have to be done before Catholic and Protestant scholars can even be brought together to begin work. But a vital first step was taken by the Vatican Council when it agreed that 'if, in the future, church authority permits translation of the Bible to be made in cooperation with non-Catholics, then such works can be used by all Christians.'

"A further step was taken by the Council. Rejecting conservative views that modern biblical research tends to weaken faith in the Bible, the church fathers gave encouragement to full use of the tools of scholarship — cultural anthropology, archaeology, semantics and so forth — as a means of shedding light on the Scriptures."

As stated before, our position on developing a common Bible might be described as neutral. We feel that if Christians have failed in any way it is not because of any lack of clarity in the Bible.

On the matter of "church unity" or "Christian unity," if it is taken to mean that everyone will be taught exactly the same thing and encouraged to think exactly the same thing, we are far from neutral. There is plenty of evidence to show that lack of individual thinking in Christianity leads to a dead church. Establishment of a single church, usually a state church, with a unified belief, also leads to a dead church.

We have no fear of a uniform church as long as there is no state connection with the church and as long as we have freedom to worship as we please. If every church now existing in the United States or in the world were to accept a "common belief" and were to teach exactly the same thing, it would not be many years before there would be as many churches of different beliefs as there are now, if we continued to have religious freedom.

Far from looking with suspicion or contempt on so-called "splinter" churches, we regard them as the greatest safeguard of religious freedom.

One of the reasons our forefathers left England and came to this country was that they were looking for religioius freedom. They believed the Church of England had become too "uniform."

There probably is almost as much difference between the religious beliefs of some Protestant churches as there is between Protestant and Catholic churches.

These differences make up the lifeblood and the faith of a church and its people as long as we have religious freedom, we will have these differences.

Fruit-Tree Protection

Farmers having orchards of some size, or even those with smaller ones, as well as farmers with other crops likely to be damaged by freezes, will be interested to know that a solid fuel, requiring no burners, easily handled and comparatively inexpensive, has been developed by an oil company.

We usually think of solid fuels as being connected with space flights and the anti-freeze mixtures manufactured by oil companies are usually prepared for automobile radiators. But both the solid fuel and the no-freeze techniques have been applied to a new type of brick that will put out a great deal of heat for four hours, and, after a short ignition period, will produce no smoke and no flame, and is harmless to trees, fruits and vegetables.

Prior to use, the bricks can be distributed in the orchard or field. If an orchard is being protected, the bricks may be placed in crotches of trees so they may be easily found. Bricks burn continuously, require no adjustment or care and are immune to moisture. For use, the bricks are placed about 18 inches from the tree-trunk.

Most of the freeze protection needed by farmers in this area comes in the spring, after trees have bloomed or crops are growing. By having the solid-fuel bricks on hand, the farmer can use them when needed. If they have already been placed, it is said that one man can light about five acres in an hour.

Manufacturers say huge fruit and vegetable losses can be prevented in critical times by the use of this fuel. It sounds as if it might be a life-saver.

Poverty Program

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I take this opportunity, as a concerned citizen, to express my sincere opposition to the apparent acceptance by some of our leaders of President Johnson's "Economic Opportunity Act of 1964" which is better known as the "Anti-Poverty Program." True as you have already guessed, I am a staunch "conservative" in my philosophy of government and am opposed to socialistic legislation; but so were many of these same officials when they ran for office.

I would like to ask those who endorse this so called "anti poverty program," if they have read the "anti poverty bill," or are they taking the word of someone else concerning this bill. In reading some of Mr. Champ Baker's statements, reported in your paper, he speaks of dollars in the cash register, but said nothing about Congress making Sargant Shriver, the director of the anti-poverty program, a dictator over the program, nor does he mention the fact that no one can receive any benefits from this program unless they are totally integrated. Also, they are not telling the people that according to the bill itself, getting the money means subscribing to the rules and regulations set up or to be set up by Sargant Shriver, the director of the "anti-poverty program." I know and you know what Sargant Shriver and the people who control him stand for.

When are our elected officials, as well as the American people, going to wake up and stop swallowing this tainted bait called "Federal Money," that has already been used to bribe and erode away freedom and liberty. This freedom and liberty was won through sacrifice and we are going to have to sacrifice to keep it. One of the things I can sacrifice to keep this beloved Freedom and Liberty is this Federal bait called "Anti-Poverty money."

Mr. Editor, in my opinion, this anti-poverty bill, which I would hope you have read and studied and would help to expose its meaning and pitfalls, is unconstitutional, and will do nothing but corrupt our society and state and local government.

In my opinion the "anti-poverty bill" was designed to create political pay off jobs, from the local level right through the States capitols on to the White House, for the ones who are willing to use our children and grandchildren to help the "Johnson type Socialistic politician" to create a controllable "mongrelized society".

For an idea of what the anti-poverty money is being used for, I refer to an article in the Monroe News Star, dated September 21, 1965 written by Fulton Lewis Jr., and also an article in the Monroe Morning World dated September 25, 1965 written by Barry Goldwater.

Americans!!! Stand up and be counted!!!

Let's all pull together for freedom and deal "the anti-poverty program," a death blow in Ouachita Parish and in America.

Rayville, La.

To the Editor:

This letter is in reference to the propaganda that has been published about the I-20 Highway in Richland Parish. Woodland in Lafourche swamp in Ouachita Parish has been valued at $650 per acre. Adjoining land was purchased by the state for $29 per acre for Russel Sage. Just five miles down the same right of way is open farm land, the best in Richland Parish, the state valued this land at $250 an acre. There is no land for sale in this area at that price. There are lots, one half to one acre, for sale at $800 to $1,000 within one half mile of this right of way. Many of these lots have been sold for this price. Is this fair?

Officials stated that they could not understand why we object to this taking of our farm land. Any public official in Richland Parish admits that the prices offered for our land are unfair; but the officials encourage the owner to sign.

What do we want? I can only speak for myself. I want a fair price that compares to the wood swamp land purchased in Ouachita Parish. I want an overpass over the gravel road that I live on. The original plans showed an overpass. Why were the plans changed? This is not the only overpass that was changed. I would like for the engineers to stay out of my field and cotton crop. The crop was planted before negotiations started. No one has mentioned crop damage.

Authorities stated that the clover leaf at Milhaven is for future use. Who is going to use it? The highway officials think that Richland Parish is going to dry up and blow away? Should we in Richland Parish suffer because we need overpasses and access roads, to the benefit of Ouachita Parish.

On Trail Travel

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

I was greatly interested in your editorial in the Thursday, September 23, issue of the Morning World, entitled "Fast Passenger Trains."

Having been a "Railroad Buff" from the time I can remember anything, my interest has been growing — along with a store of information that sometimes comes in quite handy.

First, you can quote me as going along with most of the points you make in your editorial, but I do find a couple of inaccuracies to which I'd like to call to your attention. While it has seemed that both 'union labor' and 'the Federal Government' have had a hand in placing many railroads in precarious financial plights, neither one is entirely to blame for the vast decrease of passenger travel in the last fifty years. Passenger travel by rail has decreased as ownership of private automobiles has increased. This was borne out during World War Two, when automobile travel was tightly restricted by both tire and gasoline rationing. During those years, rail travel saw a tremendous increase, jumping to hitherto unprecedented proportions.

With reference to your paragraph about passenger travel in Japan, I quote from the June, 1965, issue of TRAINS Magazine, in the article entitled "Japan Takes the Blue Ribbon at 86.7 MPH!", on page 20:

"The most epoch-making event in railroad history during the present century, if not since the invention of the flanged wheel itself, occurred on October 1, 1964. On this day, the Japanese National Railroads officially opened to traffic the 320-mile standard gauge (4'-8½") New Tokaido Line between Tokyo and Osaka." . . . An hourly service of 14 Hikari super-expresses in each direction (with departures from 6 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 8 p.m) make the runs at 80 mph over all in 4 hours, including stops at Kyoto and Nagoya."

First, Japan's new fast trains travel on the same width track as our own trains. And maintaining an average speed of 80 mph over 320 miles means travelling speeds up to 124 mph, which, as the March, 1964 issue of The Rotarian states on page 24, these Hikari superexpresses maintain some sixty percent of the trip.

Accolades to the railroads from all sides, I say. 125 mph I'll go along with, but when a railroad has to carry passengers at 200 mph, that, says a high official of the Baltimore and Ohio, "is when I start to walk!" I think I'd go along with that, too.

Keep up the good work, and maybe we'll once again see direct passenger train service between here and the cities of South Louisiana. The farthest south a passenger can travel by train from Monroe is to Alexandria, with no direct connections either to Lake Charles, Baton Rouge or New Orleans.

Pope Paul Shows Power Of Spirit

POPE PAUL'S VISIT to New York was an inspirational blitzkrieg whose effect might just possibly endure in the jaded senses of some of those who saw and heard him. His was the power of the spirit, and the spirit moves more men than the stomach does. He came to exalt the spirit, and it is the universal judgment that he succeeded in doing so.

He spoke in a kind of glossolalia — the gift the Holy Ghost conferred on the apostles of Christ, by which they found themselves with the power to communicate their spiritual ecstasy to people of every tongue. What was left was above all an impression — the impression of the relative desirability of peace over swaggering bellicosity. When he spoke in English, it was in an English so heavily accented that the words were difficult to discern; yet even so, there was intelligent communication. When he spoke at the United Nations, he spoke in French; and the instantaneous-translator was caught up in the sweep of the occasion, so much so that only the benevolent resonances seemed to filter through the television sets.

But in fact, he did utter words. Words which will be carefully studied by the analysts. Words which the polemical opportunists will seize upon for their own ends. Words which will be used — indeed have already been used — as highly unpeaceful rods with which to drive exuberant and highspirited men into the ghettoes of factional conformity.

ACCORDINGLY, it is prudent to stress several things to those who will be mining the Pope's moving speech for ammunition — particularly, for ammunition to fire at Catholics whose opinions appear to contradict some of the Pope's concerning some of the getting - and - spending aspects of peacemaking. One of these, which seems obvious but is rarely stressed, is that the Pope is a diplomat not only in the altogether formal sense that he is the head of a temporal state; but also in the sense that his own precepts — humility, love, charity — enjoin upon him a kind of super diplomatic unction which is altogether right and necessary in its place, but must on no account be confused with analysis.

It would be quite correct and quite expected for a Pope to address, let us say, Christophe Gbenye, if he became President of the new state of the Upper Congo, as "Your Excellency" — and alas there are undoubtedly those who would proceed to the inference that there is something excellent about the man-eating Gbenye. Thus the Pope, addressing the diplomats of the United Nations a substantial number of whom are engaged in plotting among other things the destruction of the memory of Christ on earth, says to them, "To each and every one of you, honor and greeting."

There actually are people in the world who will suppose that the Pope has thus officially classified as honorable the agents of the anti - Christian powers.

THEN THERE IS the mistaken impression that the Pope's implied political and historical judgments are binding on Catholics, whereas of course they are not, inasmuch as they are not moral or dogmatic exhortations. For instance, the Pope can direct me, as a Catholic, to love Khrushchev — in an abstract sort of way — because he is a fellow human being. But he cannot make me love the United Nations, or the World's Fair. The Pope is as fallible as Walter Cronkite respecting political matters, for the reason that the great patrimony of infallibility, on account of which he is held by Catholics in such special awe, is limited to the field of his teaching authority, which is in the spiritual world. Anything a Pope says about any thing at all is listened to with respectful attention because the words of the mighty are listened to with special attention; and especially because the popes strive to splice into historical and diplomatic observations fine traces of moral and spiritul truths. Sometimes the mode of reasoning is distinctly moral; and the network of value judgments that go into the formulation of social policy are sometimes based on active and exciting moral reasoning.

But sometimes, too, the reasoning is altogether empirical, at which point we need to be reminded that even as St. Thomas warned the ecclesiastical courts that they were capable of erring "propter falsos testes" — on account of incorrect evidence — so are the popes, as temporal history abundantly shows. And those who most greatly cherish the necessity to guard the integrity of the area of papal infallibility, will most diligently stress that there is an area of papal fallibility: lest, on finding through the experience of history that a pope did in fact err on a practical question in the realm of the latter, disillusion and skepticism should set on as regards his authority in the realm of the former.

"LET UNANIMOUS trust in this Institution grow," Pope Paul said at the United Nations: "let its authority increase; and this aim ('the security of international life without having recourse to arms'), We believe, will be secured." Here is a conclusion which we, small w, do not believe. Unless by "unanimous" is meant literally unanimous trust in the ideals of the United Nations by every ruler on earth. In which case the United Nations could dissolve, inasmuch as there would be no need for it.

And finally, let us be reminded that the demands of charity and humility ordain a special rhetoric that is at once egalitarian, and idealistic. "Gratitude to you, glory to you, who for twenty years have labored for peace," he says to a roomful of people including Andre Gromyko. He speaks of "the reciprocal trust that here unites you," to a group of men who have no reciprocal trust in one another, and are most thoroughly disunited.

On returning to the Vatican, the Pope wisely said that "It is not the duty nor the intention of the Church to enter the political and economic fields of the temporal world" Amen.

TFX One Of Most Costly Mistakes

DEFENSE SECRETARY Robert McNamara, who once boasted the TFX airplane as a great success, is shy lately in taking credit for it. This now looks like one of the most costly mistakes ever made by a supposedly responsible public official.

The TFX airplane is the most expensive item of military hardware ever produced by man and very possibly the most controversial.

Sometime this year the plane is supposed to be ready for serious flying as the F-111. If it works well, McNamara can be expected to take all the bows while his iron-handed public relations corps does everything in its power to prevent the American public from looking behind the scenes.

The secretary must hope that people will ignore the TFX until its growing pains have ended. And his press corps, about the most warlike group in the secretary's immediate vicinity, specifically has ordered that the defense establishment help the deception along by an elaborate series of canned praises to be issued when a nosy reporter asks about TFX.

SOME ITEMS ABOUT the aircraft should be cited in view of the bitter controversy about its construction.

It should be made clear that TFX (tactical fighter, experimental) is a magnficent idea. A variable wing plane that can go twice the speed of sound, but still operate at slow speeds, is a first-class concept, and every military man who had anything to do with it can be justly proud. It is only when McNamara took over from the military that TFX got tricky.

Against the unanimous advice of his military advisors, McNamara decided on a design that was not only higher in price than the lowest bid but also inferior in performance in almost every category. He did it arbitrarily, arrogantly and angrily, slapping his decision in the face of the military. His reason was pure McNamara: he knows what is best for the military; soldiers don't.

To bring the record up to date, each plane was supposed to cost about $3.5 million. The estimate now is for nearly $5 million apiece.

THE PLANE WAS supposed to serve both the Air Force and the Navy to produce vast savings. So many bugs have developed in the carrier capabilities of the plane, however, that recent testimony before Congress by air admirals has cast serious doubt on the future of TFX at sea.

If, in fact, the Navy cannot use the plane as extensively as once thought, the blunder will be staggering. Both branches favored the design and specifications which were rejected.

Poem Outlook

Forget each kindness that you do
As soon as you have done it.
Forget the praise that falls to you
The moment you have won it.
Forget the slander that you hear
Before you can repeat it.
Forget each slight, each spite, each sneer
Wherever you may meet it.
Remember every kindness done
To you, whate'er its measure,
Remember praise by others won
And pass it on with pleasure.
Remember every promise made
And keep it to the letter.
Remember those who lend you aid
And be a grateful debtor.
Remember all the happiness
That comes your way in living.
Forget each worry and distress;
Be hopeful and forgiving.
Remember good, remember truth.
Remember Heaven's above you.
And you will find, through age and youth,
True joys and hearts to love you.

To The Taxpayers

Here are a few interesting statistics. Looking over the federal employment situation, the Senate Committee on Reduction of nonessential expenditures found that in the last 10 years the number of federal civilian employes has increased 20 per cent to 2,488,365 persons on that payroll. But in dollars and cents it has climbed 70 per cent — from $9.5 billion to $16.2 billion. (And that was before the recent raise was put through).

Broken down, there is approximately one federal employe for every 75 citizens. Thirty years ago, the ratio was about one for every 215 citizens. The percentage gain of the federal payroll has vastly outraced the growth in population — and the rate of pay has increased correspondingly.

How long will it take, at that rate, for everybody to be working for the government?

It is even worse, we suspect, when you consider the same type of increase on the state and local level in the various states.

Is It A New Fad?

We ran into a strange, if not a new fad the other day — and in our book it is rather ridiculous.

We were assured that one of the numerous new fads always leaping at us from around the corner is mayonnaise shampoos among some teenage girls.

Our informant gave no details — but mayonnaise on the hair?

We, therefore, consulted some authorities on female behavior, which is to say we talked to a couple of women, and this latest development in the hair-washing world is news to them too.

But honestly I can't say that they were staggered by it and one of them, in fact, immediately began wondering whether salad dressing would do just as well. Probably it would at that — with a dash of horseradish to bring out the hidden flavor.

If teenagers and others are going to engage in mayonnoise shampoos, the only decent thing left for them to do is use lettuce leaves as end papers when they roll their hair.

Host Or Live Doves

Strange things happen in this world.

Take this story which originated up in Memphis.

It seems two men recently went dove hunting and they had a right successful time. They brought the doves home in the trunks of one of the cars, dressed them, and put them in the refrigerator.

The next morning the owner of the car opened his auto trunk for something, and what do you think happened?

Two beautiful unharmed doves flew up, up and away. Nobody knows whether they were ghosts, stowaways, or possum-players.

NIGHT COURSE — In one Florida town, a night course in the new math for parents was being offered. It attracted only two people at the first session. School officials then let it be known that "no tests will be given and 50 parents turned up for the second class.

IN COLCHESTER, England, a disgruntled resident charged fraud when he sent in $8.40 for a book on sex and got back a notebook summing it all up in three little words: "Leave it alone."

Do We Need Them?

Ever sit down and make a list of some of the things we could do without — not necessarily in order?

Here are a few we jotted down:

Authors who have their pictures taken while holding a pipe against their cheek in order to make then look more thoughtful.

Politicians who tour tbe streets bleating their campaign promises through loudspeakers atop sound trucks.

The telephone spielers who call you up at home when you are taking a nap and then try to sell you anything from an oil well to an encyclopedia with 109 volumes.

Anyone who talks football during business hours or business during a football game.

Foods wrapped in plastic bags which require a crowbar or a pair of pliers to open.

People who think it's cute to send out their Christmas cards before the first frost of Autumn.

Sportscasters who describe football players in a lingo so learned even the coaches on the field couldn't understand them.

Hosts who serve you meat loaf and fried eggplant for dinner and then make you sit for three hours in a darkened room while they show you photographic slides of their vacation trip.

People who brag that no matter what or how much they eat they never gain an ounce.

Well paid career women who invite a man to a business lunch — and then expect him to pick up the check.

Any young singer whose hair is longer than the strings on the guitar he twangs.

Guys who start chuckling at the boss' funny stories before you even get the point.

Fellows who suggest you ought to visit their psychiatrist, as he did them a world of good and might be able to do more for you.

WHERE DOES the money go? Well, last year Americans spent $13.6 billion for liquor, $17.3 billion on cars, and $5.1 billion in religious and charitable contributions.

BURGLARS ARE among the busiest of all crooks. They break into 3,000 homes in the U. S. every day, or an average of 125 an hour around the clock.

Twin Cities Week In Review

Bumper Harvest Reaped In News

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

What is so rare as a day in June? A week in October — if it's like last week.

Thanksgiving and harvest bounty still are around several corners, but Twin City news followers had a Fall feast anyway — the story crop was bumper.

As they say in Washington, there was something for everyone.

Enjoy the business page? Stories were breaking on a major expansion by Montgomery Ward, and West Monroe - based Olin Mathieson was a weeklong headliner as the community hailed Olin's 10 years of local citizenship.

Official controversy? Ouachita Parish police jurors, virtually closing ranks in recent months behind the rural fire protection tax-bond issue, were breaking formation over another tax — the two mill blacktop-maintenance levy. Charges of argumentative lightning, crossing the skies as the week closed, likely will come to earth Monday.

TYLER

Are you strong for community services? A special citizens committee was readying a report for the police jury on financial recommendations aimed at parish fire protection until tax proceeds, voted Sept. 28, become available. The group's chairman, Fred Huenefeld Jr., will offer suggestions Monday night.

Do large figures catch your eye? The Monroe City School Board adopted a record $3.6 million budget, but keyed to a thin anticipated balance of something over $6,000. Meanwhile, $6 million in city school bonds were delivered to New York buyers by a Monroe delegation, the funds being almost immediately invested in government securities. Expansion of the system will be rolling in a matter of weeks.

Rolling also was the United Givers Fund drive. The first report meeting of the campaign Friday showed over 12 per cent of the $284,934 goal attained. Workers are shooting for completion before Oct. 28.

On the cultural front, the Monroe Little Theatre opened a new play, "The Pleasure of His Company," and dedicated a "patrons' preview" Friday night to one of the area's esthetic pillars, Mrs. Blanche Oliver. Concert - goers Monday night got their first listen to the new community - boosting Monroe Civic Singers.

Or if you like reading about the sheer exuberance of youth, there was the annual Ouachita Valley Council Boy Scout parade Saturday, drawing to the Twin Cities around 1,000 youngsters. Exuberant too was the parade into D'Arbonne Swamp late Wednesday of six-year-old Michael Partin and his sister, Panya, 5, Drew Community children who followed their dog and became lost. It can be written lightly, since they were found well several hours later.

Additional notes on some of the above, plus a compressed look at other events, would go as follows:

WARD QUADRUPLES

An announcement made Thursday by Montgomery Ward Regional Vice President S. A. McKnight of Kansas City unveiled the impending quadrupling of the firm's downtown Monroe (124 N. 3rd) quarters. Briefly, Wards is moving to the Twin City Shopping Center, which itself will add one-fourth in size.

McKnight, accompanied to Monroe by his wife, and four regional staff members, drew applause from the business community during a reception at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. His praise of Our Town's growth potential was enough to bring a flush of pride to over 100 listeners, and the ultra-modern, 125,000 - square - foot store he described doubtless will go some piece toward realizing that potential.

The total addition to the Louisville & Oliver Road shopping center, exceeding 300,000 square feet, will incorporate the first covered and temperature - controlled shopping mall in north Louisiana.

Architect Lon Heuer is doing the drawings, Monroe's Gus Primos, in cooperation with Indianapolis interests, is doing the developing, and initial spadework is at hand. Target date for the Wards opening is Aug. 1, 1966. Local Manager Jack McBee will continue as the top man.

If there were plaudits for Wards Thursday, there was no want of garlands for the other industrial good neighbor mentioned earlier. The local Olin Appreciation Week reached a climax the same night with a banquet at the Paragon Club, sponsored by the Monroe and West Monroe Chambers of Commerce.

Over 200 persons heard an array of leading locals recall the achievements of the past 10 years. Olin, which operates a paper mill and converter plants in West Monroe and headquarters its 24-plant Forest Products Division in the same city, came to town in September, 1955, acquiring the former Brown Paper Mill Company interests.

Dr. George T. Walker, Northeast Louisiana State College president, as featured speaker, left little doubt in substantiating a "giant asset" description of Olin, which he said:

—Employs 2,500 persons locally, with an annual payroll of $16 million.

— Affects the lives of 8,000 employee family members, as well as, directly or indirectly, the lives of a full 18 per cent of the Ouachita Parish population.

— Is responsible for $6 million annually in additional bank deposits, plus an additional $8 million in retail sales.

—Pays $500,000 annually in parish taxes alone.

By way of response, Olin's Divisional Vice President and General Manager M. H. Collet reviewed a "decade of gathering strength" in tandem with readiness to advance into a "challenging decade ahead."

He accepted a 10th anniversary appreciation plaque from Walker, receiving the congratulations from such visiting luminaries as Police Jury President T. W. Humphries, Monroe Finance Commissioner H. W. McSherry, West Monroe Mayor J. Allen Norris and Ouachita Sheriff Bailey Grant, the evening's emcee.

ROILS WATERS

It was ward three's Curtis Joiner who Thursday roiled the waters of the recent comparative peace and harmony on the Ouachita Police Jury. Jurors, for all intent, had united in work for fire protection and for a courthouse expansion bond issue, but Joiner said the time had come for a new split of parish blacktop tax proceeds.

For some four years, the funds (in 1964, nearly $279,000) have been sliced 11 ways, with ward five taking two-elevenths, the nine other wards, one-eleventh each. Ward three, through Joiner, maintained that over the years, it amounted to more than $100,000 additional for ward five, and added "our needs are just as urgent." That wasn't all. Joiner indicated that of $403,000 - plus in state Act 128 assistance spent in Ouachita, $157,000-plus went to ward five.

His remarks drew first criticism, then a tentative olive branch, and finally, at a closed road committee session Friday night — only the jury knows what.

Ward five's Leslie Hamm, whose motion last month for a continuation of the present split was tabled, indicated heavy needs in the ward, adding, "I hope as Curtis gains experience on the Police Jury, he will be able to work in harmony with the rest of us and have a generally brighter outlook on life."

Road Committee Chairman Lloyd Coon, ward six, Friday was firm in favoring the double portion to ward five, but also was amenable to upping ward three funds from some other source. Coon found favor with raising Three's part to the equivalent of one-tenth of the tax take. He expressed regret at the controversy and hoped for a return to progress and harmony.

The road committee meeting Friday was not open to the public and there was no report of discussions, but officials conceded that the upshot, chances are, will be some form of new split of the total two mill levy. The matter "probabliy" will come to a vote at the jury meeting Monday.

Coon's comments Friday called to account the distribution of revenue from a ½-mill drainage tax, a large part of which, due to need, he said had gone to ward three — almost $23,000 of $50,700.

Indications are the jury meeting Monday will be lively, since sharing the spotlight with tax distribution and Huenefeld's fire report, will be consideration of another citizens' committee study — on industrial districting.

Olin Mathieson, Commercial Solvents and Columbian Carbon have petitioned the jury for placement into districts for exemption from some service taxes. Two reports in two months, rendered by Chairman Hugh Vick, have recommended against the districts, with the revised report, last month, unfavorable to the districts "at this time." After each report, jurors have withheld action, to, in effect, allow the industries an opportunity to review its contents.

The World's Week In Focus

Papal Visit, LBJ Surgery

By Oland Silk

AN HISTORIC TRIP to the U.S. by Pope Paul, a scrambled revolution in Indonesia, the World Series, a 26-hour entrapment of a 15-year-old foster boy in an Ohio cave, and the commitment of President Johnson to Bethesda Naval Hospital for gall bladder surgery—these were major news items on wire service teletypes this week.

Stomach pains a month ago signaled trouble for the President. X-rays pinpointed the gall bladder as the culprit, and this week as Congress fought wearily to put the 89th session behind them, the President announced he would undergo surgery to remove his gall bladder and a kidney stone.

The President underwent two hours and 15 minutes of surgery Friday. The operation was performed without complications, a "complete success" said the doctors.

While gall bladder removal is considered a major operation, it was not in Johnson's case a serious one. Surgery of this type happens to 1 in 10 persons, usually those "fair, fat and forty" and over. People function perfectly well without the organ.

It is expected the President, who is in excellent health, will be in full stride after several weeks of a reduced schedule.

Extra Legal Agreement

VICE PRESIDENT Humphrey canceled all speaking engagements on learning of his chief's need for surgery, even though it's doubtful he will have to make any major decisions during the President's two-week convalescence.

A kind of extralegal pact — not spelled out in law — provides for the Humphrey "succession" at this time. In the event of inability, the President will so inform the Vice President who will serve as President with full powers; if the President cannot communicate, the VP will consult with other leaders and decide upon the devolution of power; the President, in either event, will determine when his inability has ended and resume office.

This arrangement was worked out between Johnson and Humphrey after their election. It was necessary because the Founding Fathers left a vague spot in the Consititution about presidential succession.

HUMPHREY

A proposed constitutional amendment designed to remedy this and assure the smooth flow of presidential power has been passed by Congress and submitted to the states. Thus far, only 5 have ratified it—Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. The amendment must be approved by 38 states to become part of nation's basic law.

Sukarno: Man In The Middle

INDONESIA IS AN archipelago of 3,000 islands with a population of 100 million. Its leader is 50-year-old Sukarno, who has elected himself president for life. For the past 11 days the crafty, pro-Peking ruler has wrestled with a revolution equal to that of the Dominican Republic in confusion, in capacity for troubling the U. S.

Sukarno was dining with his latest wife, Morning Star, when Radio Jakarta flashed the news that an obscure army colonel had seized control of the government. Sukarno helicoptered to safety. He broadcast to the Indonesian people two days later.

SUKARNO

A veteran Western newsman stationed in Indonesia has said, "the central point about this country is that there is no central point." But several points are indisputable.

Colonel Untung who attempted the coup did so he said "to protect" Sukarno from a plot hatched by Indonesian generals and the well - heeled CIA. Before the revolt was crushed, Untung's followers had slain the supposed plotting generals, including the Army chief of staff. They then fled to Java, the central Indonesian island.

Whether Untung's revolt was Communist - inspired or a temporary aberration is not clear. But Sukarno, with the aid of his Army, roared back in charge. Even so, it seemed time might be running out for the erratic little genius who had survived six assassination plots.

He has long been able to tightrope between his Army and the Communist Party (PKI), the only party allowed to operate. Red membership is over 3 million. Any showdown between these two forces was bound to catch Sukarno smack in the middle. U. S. Asian experts believe the first round of that battle is now underway.

American hopes are pinned on an eventual rise to power of defense minister General Nasution. He has never wavered in his loyalty to Sukarno, but has fought Communist efforts to expand their control through the armed forces. Nasution has never been happy with Sukarno's wooing of the Communists; moreover, he successfully blocked a Red plan to have arms issued to its own militia.

Since Sukarno, a Communist himself in everything but name, has tossed in his lot with Red China, he refused to punish Communists accused of attempting the recent power grab. This was viewed as a gesture toward his elders whom he can't afford to annoy.

Fighting continued in the islands late in the week. Sukarno forces were pitted against rebels in Java and elsewhere. Over 200 Communists were arrested.

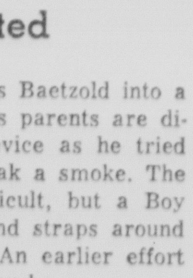
It looked like Sukarno's tightrope days might soon end. As Asia's No. 1 Man in the Middle, an Army-Navy-Police vs. Communist — Air Force showdown could squeeze him out of power.

Boy Rescued, Singer Arrested

A YEN FOR A smoke got 15-year Morris Baetzold into a peck of trouble. The Ohio foster boy — his parents are divorced — was trapped head-first in a crevice as he tried to leave a cave where he had gone to sneak a smoke. The foot-wide crevice made rescue efforts difficult, but a Boy Scout, Mike Ulrich, 15, finally got ropes and straps around the victim's body and he was pulled out. An earlier effort failed when a belt attached to Morris' feet broke.

Morris suffered a bruised cheek, and vowed never to explore caves again. However, from a hospital bed he said his pledge didn't include cigarettes.

THE ALBUM JACKETS of country-western singer Johnny Cash show him in cowboy regalia, bearded, with a definite outlaw "brand" on him. This week, the 33-year-old singer was up to his vocal chords in real trouble along the Texas border. The charge: smuggling narcotics from Mexico.



CASH

Cash was arrested in El Paso, wearing a grey suit with velvet collar and cuffs, bearing a guitar full of drugs. Customs agents said they found in his possession 668 tablets of a stimulant and 475 tranquilizer tablets. They said the pills probably came from Juarez, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso. He was also carrying $12,000 in checks.

At his arraignment, Cash became enraged at photographers and cursed one reporter. He was jailed 24 hours, then released on $1,500 bond.

Civil Rights Front Boiling

CRAWFORDVILLE, GEORGIA and Natchez, Mississippi held the civil rights spotlight for the second straight week.

In Crawfordville (Taliaferro County) all white pupils have transferred to other counties to avoid mixing the white school, which was closed down. Violence has been a daily occurrence, as Negro pupils rush the buses transferring the whites, trying to get aboard. Several white men attacked a white integrationist, pulling him from his car and beating him. He was rescued by an FBI agent. Police arrested Georgia's top Ku Klux Klan leader, Calvin Craig, and charged him with assault after he seized a Negro teenager, twisted his arm and hurled him against a car during one demonstration. Craig said his arrest was a frame - up arranged by Gov. Sanders.

Negroes are led by Hosea Williams, but Martin Luther King was expected to assume control. Negroes plan a 100-mile march to Atlanta to dramatize their integration demands. Meanwhile, Sanders, trying desperately to get the rights struggle off the streets, met face-to-face for eight hours with whites and Negroes.

HE HAD LITTLE to show for his effort. King refused a racial truce. Sanders faced another trouble spot, too. He attempted to work through Negro State Senator Leroy Johnson, but King's group rejected his efforts. They also denounced one of their own — Calvin Turner, a Crawfordville Negro who received assurances that 14 grievances would be dealt with. Sanders was thus caught between rival Negro elements, struggling for power. It seemed likely Martin Luther King would push the crisis to its ultimate — the 100 mile march. A court will decide Tuesday whether Taliaferro County should re-open its white school.

In Natchez, over 500 demonstrators have been arrested, most of whom were sent to Parchman prison. Negroes are led by Charlie Evers, brother of Medgar Evers, who was slain in Jackson. The demands: public denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan and better job opportunities. The Klan won a victory of sorts this week, getting a court order against them modified to give them equal marching rights with the NAACP. Natchez strife has kept the city on edge day and night.

FOLLOWING THE acquittal of part-time deputy Tom Coleman in Hayneville, Ala., civil rights leaders demanded Congress take away the authority of state courts to try criminal cases involving civil rights. One loud, angry "No" came from Senator Dirksen who was "astounded" by such a suggestion.

He said: "It would create an amazing state of affairs by further eroding the rights of the states. If this erosion continues, soon there will be no state governments left.

Congress Kept Plugging Away

The House passed President Johnson's highway beautification bill after a lengthy, partisan session. Many Republican amendments were voted down quickly, escalating GOP tempers. Rep. Laird (R-Wis.) cried: "this is a dangerous way for Congress to consider amendments. The majority should be more interested in preserving the rights of the minority than in trying to give a present to Mrs. Johnson." The bill is similar to a Senate bill already passed.

Johnson signed a bill providing for research into three of mankind's most murderous ailments — heart disease, cancer and stroke. The amount: $340 million.

He also approved a GOP bill providing $50 million in matching grants to small towns for water and sewage facilities. During the signing, he made plugs for uplifting rural living, and a stronger two-party system.

First Refugees Arrive

Cubans were quick to accept Castro's invitation to leave. Refugees arriving in Miami sparked talk of a freedom flotilla; exiles estimate that 50,000 more are waiting to leave. The exiles have been supplied with instructions from Castro on how to get their relatives out. The Cuba-to-Florida crossing seemed destined for heavy traffic. Meantime, the mystery of Ernesto Guevara deepened. Castro says he has left Cuba and is agitating on "other battlefields."

GUEVARA

Guevara, a Peking disciple, went out of favor when he criticized Russian policies. His failure as an economic czar didn't help either. Speculation rides on whether he is sulking somewhere in a cave, plotting against the West, is in prison, or dead.

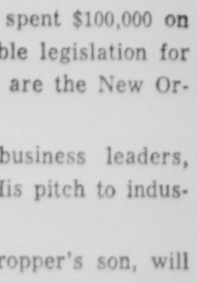
Decision Due Next

JUDGE OLIVER Carriere will rule next Thursday on how $237,000 in funds from the Crescent River Port Pilots Association was spent and whether the money was spent with the association's authority. Carriere said these were the key issues in a hearing involving a suit against Capt. William L. Heuer, ex-pilot president. Heuer claims he spent $100,000 on legislators and capitol aides to win favorable legislation for the association. Also interested in the case are the New Orleans and Baton Rouge district attorneys.

Gov. John McKeithen, with state and business leaders, stumped the West Coast on a selling job. His pitch to industry: Louisiana is a right-to-profit state.

State Senator Edwin Edwards, a sharecropper's son, will go to Washington as congressman from Louisiana's Cajun Country. The 38-year-old supporter of President Johnson beat Goldwater conservative Gary Tyler by 5,000 votes in 7th District. Edwards replaces the late T. A. Thompson.

THE BEST NEWS OF THE WEEK is reserved for last. Pope Paul VI made a 14-hour visit to the U.S., primarily to implore the United Nations to make disarmament its immediate goal. The ruler of 550 million Roman Catholics is the first Pope ever to set foot on American soil. In an impassioned speech, he urged each U.N. delegate to adopt this as his solemn oath: "No more war, war never again."



POPE PAUL

The Pontiff conferred with President Johnson, the Russian ambassador, many religious and secular leaders, and held Mass in Yankee Stadium. He was greeted by millions during his brief stay.

Once back at the Vatican, speculation immediately arose about a possible trip to a Communist country by His Holiness. Poland or Latin America topped the list of probables. Wherever he goes, the U.S. will not soon forget his peace pilgrimage nor his blessings upon this country.

Patriotic Education Week Observance Planned

Patriotic Education Week, sponsored nationally by the Children of the American Revolution, will be observed in the Twin Cities October 12 through 19 by proclamation of Governor John McKeithen. The local observance will be sponsored by Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, CAR. Patriotic Education is a year-around project of the group, with this week in October set aside annually for special promotion.

The schedule of proposed activities during the coming week gives some idea of the range of interest of CARs. Today, October 10, the membership of Lt. Joseph Bowmar will attend the 9:45 a.m. service at Grace Episcopal church. Later in the week, flags which have flown over the Capitol at Washington will be presented to Neville High School, and to Wossman High School. Lee and Jefferson Junior High schools will receive complimentary subscriptions to the CAR magazine for their libraries.

Posters and displays are planned throughout the Twin Cities. Lapel flags are to be given to members of Boy Scout Troops 32 and 38. Two books on American History will be given to Ouachita Parish public library.

BOAT RIDE

There is to be a boat ride on the Ouachita, with a stop at the site of Old Trenton. This event, to take place on the "Miss Chris," houseboat belonging to the family of Christine Moore, is planned for next Saturday morning. Ending the week, CARs are to present a program for the North Monroe Lions' club meeting October 19.

Founded in 1895, the National Society, Children of the American Revolution, now has more than 800 societies with over 20,000 members. Any boy or girl under 21 who is lineally descended from a man or woman who rendered aid to the cause of American Independence during the Revolutionary War is eligible for membership in CAR.

Objectives are the training of boys and girls in true patriotism and love of country in order that they shall be better fitted for American citizenship. This training takes various forms: study of history; promotion of all patriotic anniversaries; proper respect for the American flag; preservation of American Shrines.

The local Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society was organized in 1948, and now has about 150 members on roll. This is a very active society, the only one in the nation to be awarded first place rank twice, in 1961 and 1964.

Officers for this year are: president, Paula Meek; vice-president, Ann Murphy; chaplain, Martha Stone; secretary, Martha Dawkins; treasurer, Marianne Salisbury; registrar, Betsy Taylor; historian, Elaine Henry; reporter, Becky Huenefeld; musician, Lou Lemert; parliamentarian, Joan Burkhalter. State officers from the society are Susan Stone, recording secretary; Lil Shaw, corresponding secretary; Susan Alexander, librarian-custodian; and Betsy Taylor, chairman of press relations.

Each year Lt. Joseph Bowmar entertains at a silver tea to which members of their sponsoring groups, Ft. Miro Chapter, and Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, DAR, are invited. Other area chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution are also invited, along with members of women's civic groups. This year the tea is planned for Saturday, October 30, in the home of Claire Schonlau, Liza Schonlau, Martha Schonlau, and Deborah Schonlau, at 1815 Pargoud Boulevard. Another annual event of a social nature is the George Washington Birthday luncheon, held in February.

REGULAR MEETINGS

Six regular meetings are held during the year. At these, members learn of national projects of CAR and-or some particular event in American history of interest to young people or of timely significance. Programs emphasizing Americanism and our national heritage have been presented by members of the Society on television and radio and at meetings of various civic and patriotic organizations in the Twin Cities.

CAR helps to support and preserve historic American homes, such as Wakefield, birthplace of George Washington; Kenmore, home of Col. Fielding Lewis and Betty Washington; and Moore House, where British surrender papers ending the Revolution were signed. CAR helped to embellish the Memorial Bell Tower at Valley Forge; purchased the marker for the tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary Soldier at Old Presbyterian Meeting House, Alexandria, Va. Programs on these and other national shrines, with talks illustrated by slides, pictures, and booklets, are presented at regular meetings of CAR throughout the year.

Nearer home, Lt. Joseph Bowmar members have assisted at dedication of markers placed by Ft. Miro, DAR, at the site of old Fort Miro; and by Chief Tusquahoma, DAR, at the grave of Don Juan Filhiol in West Monroe, to mention only two. Local members traveled by chartered bus to Vicksburg, Miss., where they visited the National Military Park and were guests of Mississippi Society, CAR, for a picnic in the Park. A similar trip is tentatively planned to Natchez during the 1966 Pilgrimage there.

BUS TRIPS

Speaking of trips by chartered bus, several of these are usually planned each year for CARs and their guests. In addition to the special events described, attendance at state and regional conventions are a regular part of the program. This year's state meeting was held in Lafayette; regional at Six Flags Inn, Arlington, Texas. Next year Lt. Joseph Bowmar hopes to send a chartered bus to New Iberia, Louisiana, and to Mobile, Alabama. The national convention is held every April in Washington, D.C., and usually is attended by several delegates from the local society.

One regular meeting each year is traditionally devoted to study of the American Indian. There may be a report from a member concerning Indians and a display of Indian relics and artifacts. Presents are sent to children at Indian schools. For the past two years, this meeting has been highlighted by a dance program presented by Comanche Lodge No. 254, Order of the Arrow.

Several schools in the mountain areas of the United States, as well as schools on Indian reservations, receive some support from the National Society, CAR. Individual societies collect coupons to be sent to the schools, as well as prepare boxes of gifts of clothing and remembrances on special occasions. CAR has provided playground equipment for these schools, as well as a milk fund for the school lunch program.

Conservation is another national project of CAR. Information regarding conservation and how the individual citizen may help is always available to the membership through national and state chairmen. A special project of Lt. Joseph Bowmar was undertaken this spring in connection with the Northeast Louisiana Camellia club. CAR members assisted in the control of camellia blight by working to collect and burn leaves from infected trees and bushes to prevent spread of the disease.

CARs believe that patriotism is love and pride of country; knowledge and appreciation of its heritage. They also know that citizens cannot expect good government unless they study and know it; that they cannot keep freedom unless they appreciate and guard it. In short, Patriotic Education is taking an interest in everything that concerns our country's welfare.

PATRIOTIC EDUCATION WEEK will be observed in Louisiana during the week of October 12 through 19 as declared by Governor John McKeithen. Shown with the governor are Susan Stone and Betsy Taylor, co-chairmen of Patriotic Education week for Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society.

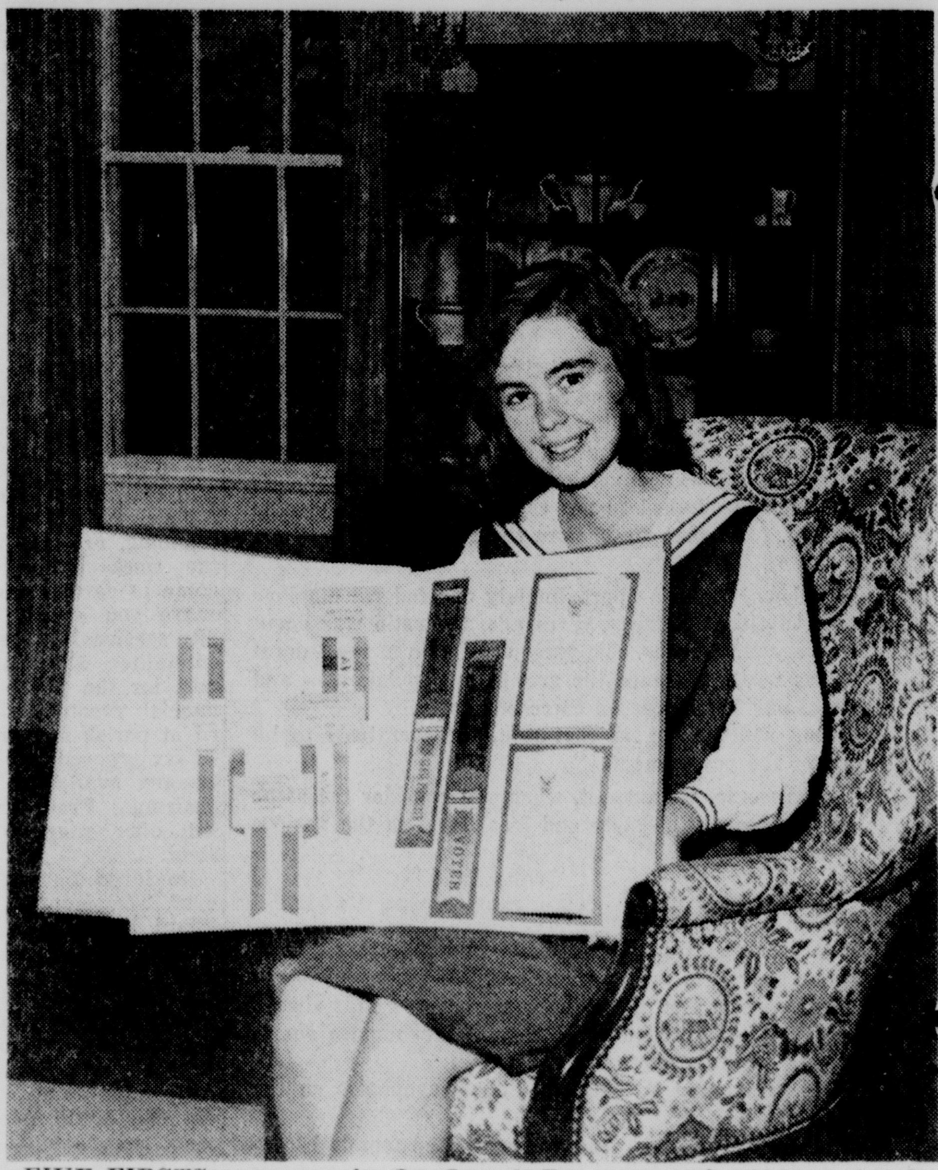
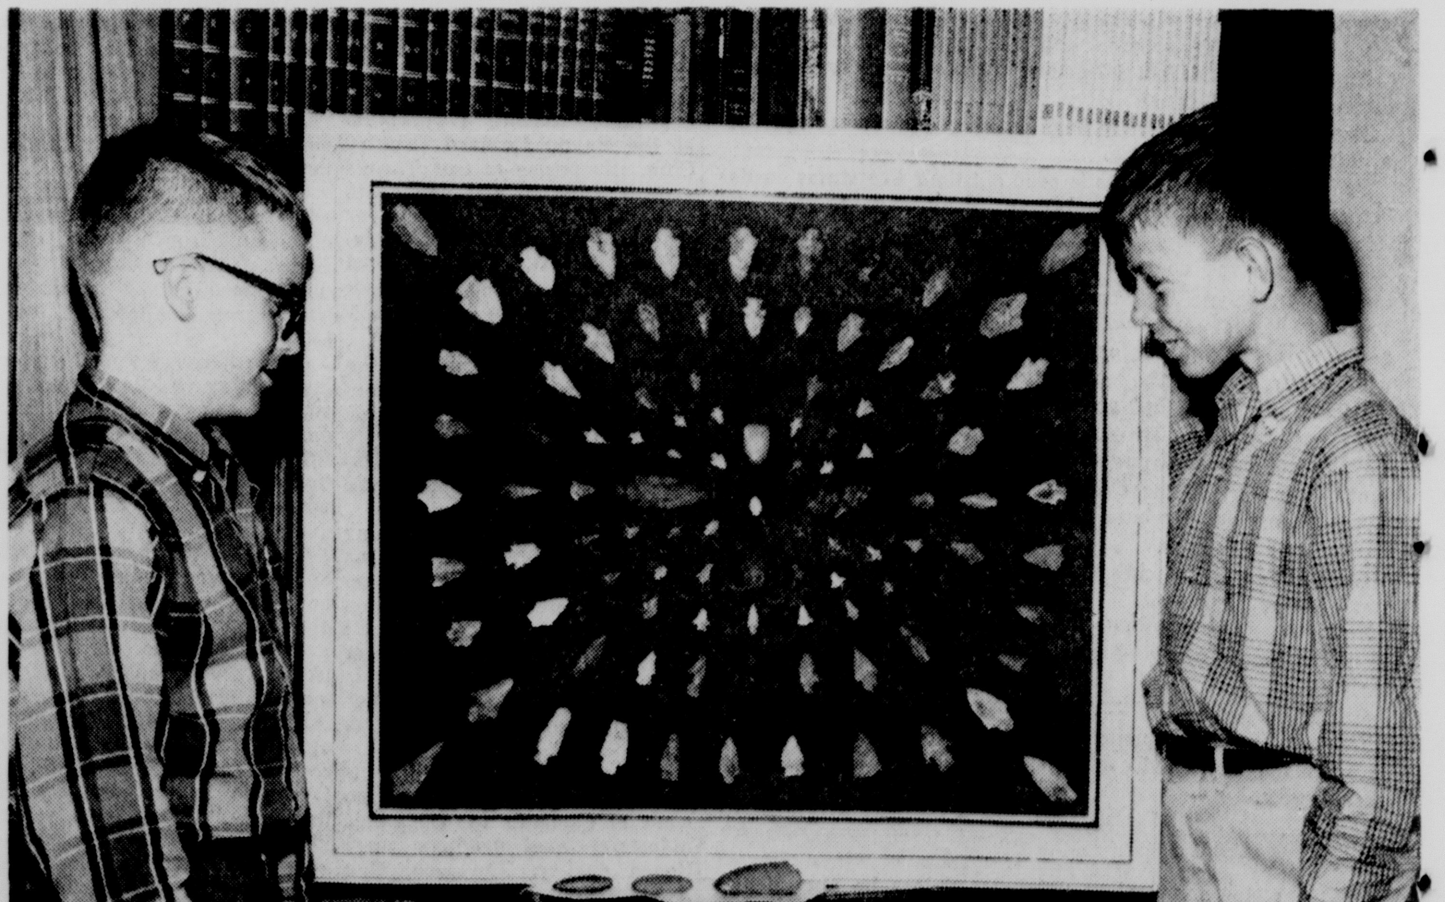
A SPECIAL PROJECT is decorating coffee tins which are filled with candy and sold at Christmas time. Junior members of Ft. Miro chapter, DAR, make candy. Working on this are Christine Moore; Becky Huenefeld, chairman; Susan Alexander, and Vee Marshall. Last year they cleared more than one hundred dollars for the CAR National Endowment Fund.



FIVE FIRSTS were won by Lt. Joseph Bowmar at the 1964 national CAR convention. Susan Stone made the society scrapbook, which took first place at the state and regional 1965 meetings.

AMERICAN FLAGS which have flown over the capitol at Washington were obtained for presentation to Neville High School and Wossman High School. Nels Abell, president of Neville's student body, accepts the flag from Betsy Taylor, and Paula Meek, president of Lt. Joseph Bowmar.



INDIAN LORE is subject of at least one meeting a year for CAR members. Charles Salisbury and Doug Dawkins display a mounted collection of arrowheads.

LSU Holds Off Late Miami Rally For 34-27 Win

Wildcat Field Goal In Waning Seconds Frustrates Indians

Jones Helps Spark Win With 1st Tally

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Louisiana State turned two fumbles and a blocked punt into three touchdowns in 10 minutes Saturday and the Tigers needed every one of the breaks to beat Miami 34-27 in a high-powered battle of offenses.

Bill Miller, coming in to replace Miami's injured quarterback, Bob Boletnikoff, led the Hurricanes on a furious last-ditch drive that fell short by a touchdown.

Henry Russell picked up the blocked punt on the goal line and stepped into the end zone for the first of Louisiana State's easy scores, and the Tigers had to go only 19 and 18 yards for two others after recovering fumbles by Russell Smith.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Statistics of the Louisiana State-Miami football game:

	LSU	MIAMI
Score	34	27
First downs	15	23

Biletnikoff, sidelined late in the opening period, was not seriously hurt. But he remained on the bench as Miller kept the team on the move, completing 21 passes, three of them for touchdowns.

Fighting back after the disheartennig series of misfortunes, the Hurricanes lost one scoring bid when the Tigers made a stand at the goal line and another when Leonard Neumann intercepted a pass deep in LSU territory.

Miami stunned the favored Tigers by driving 63 yards to score after the opening kickoff on Biletnikoff's four-yard run after a series of Biletnikoff passes to Jerry Daanen and Tom Coughlin.

LSU followed with a 63-yard march of its own to score on Nelson Stokley's one-yard drive, and then the roof fell in on the Hurricanes.

Fussell recovered for a touchdown after Mike Duhon blocked a Miami quick kick and it rolled back to the goal.

Spoke Pierce recovered Smith's first fumble and Stokley whipped a 22-yard scoring pass to Richard Jones of West Monroe, La. Stokley scored from the two after Smith's second bobble was picked up by Sammy Grefazzi.

Miller hit Daanen with an 11-yard touchdown pass as time ran out in the first half to narrow the margin to 27-14.

A 20-yard run by Don Schwab and Stokley's passes to Doug Moreau carried the Tigers quickly downfield after the second half kickoff and Joe Labruzzo climaxed a 71-yard drive with a two-yard scoring run.

Thereafter, Miller kept Miami in full control. The Tigers frustrated one drive by giving fullback Pete Banaszak three shots from the four and stopping him at the one.

But Miller hit Jim Cox with an 80-yard scoring pass, the second longest in Miami history, and Daanen with a six-yard touchdown shot.

Miller rolled up 281 yards with his passes and the Hurricanes outgained the Tigers in total yardage 388 to 277 as they fell just short in an effort to hand LSU its second straight defeat in the state.

The Tigers were bumped out of the nation's top ten by Florida last week 14-7.

Daanen, a sophomore wingback, made his biggest show of the season with 11 pass receptions for 128 yards, three of them spectacular shoestring catches including one for a touchdown.

The running of Labruzzo, Stokley and Screen sparked the two long drives leading to LSU touchdowns.

Duda Passes Cornhuskers By Wisconsin

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Fred Duda celebrated his promotion to first string quarterback Saturday by leading Nebraska's second-ranked Cornhuskers to a 37-0 football route of Wisconsin.

The 5-10 senior, back in form after missing most of last year's play because of a broken leg, galloped 59 yards for one Nebraska touchdown, and threw a 29-yard pass to halfback Frank Solich for another.

The victory was the fourth straight for the defending Big Eight champs. Wisconsin owns a 1-2-1 record.

Nebraska seized on Wisconsin miscues and rattled the Badger defenders with long ground gainers in overpowering the Big Ten team.

Wisconsin's sophomore quarterback, Chuck Burt, third ranking passer nationally going into the game, unloosed a barrage of throws, but the Badgers were held to a net of 88 yards by air and 55 on the ground.

What started out as a tight defensive battle was shaken up midway in the first quarter when Wisconsin's Tom Brigham fumbled a Nebraska punt and Dennis Carlson recovered on Wisconsin's 31. A Duda pass to Tony Jeter ate up 28 yards and Pete Tatman scored on a one-yard plunge.

Duda's electrifying 59-yard run came midway in the second period and Nebraska padded its lead with Larry Wachholtz' 24-yard field goal shortly before halftime. A 49-yard Solich run paved the way for the three-pointer.

Wisconsin, unable to launch any threat of its own, yielded two touchdowns in the third quarter. Duda hit Solich with a 29-yard touchdown pass and a subsequent 55-yard punt return by Wachholtz set the stage for a one-yard TD run by second string fullback Charlie Winters.

Wisconsin turned back one fourth quarter threat on the five-yard line, but Nebraska cashed in on a renewed threat with 38 seconds remaining when second string halfback Ben Gregory rambled 13 yards to score.

Browns Edge

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Ryan hit Gary Collins on a 14-yard touchdown pass with 44 seconds left to play as the Cleveland Browns edged the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-19 in a National Football League game Saturday night.

Ryan moved the Browns 78 yards in the closing minutes to nullify a 15-yard run by Dick Hoak that gave the Steelers a two-point margin with 3:54 left to play.

Demons Defeat Pensacola Navy

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Reserve quarterback Don Guidry piloted Northwestern State College to a 31-15 victory over the Pensacola Navy Goshawks Saturday night.

Guidry, a freshman, threw three touchdown passes as the Demons came from behind twice to count the win.

Pensacola scored first on an 11 yard scamper by Bill Biersman.

Northwestern came back to score on a 14 - yard pass from Guidry to Dick Reding with 7:30 left in the first half. Six minutes later Guidry hit Reding again with a 15 yard touchdown toss to give Northwestern a 14-7 halftime lead.

USL Upsets Tech, 16-8

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

RUSTON — The University of Southwestern joined an elite group here Saturday on a hot October afternoon when it ruined Louisiana Tech's homecoming with a 16 - 8 upset victory.

The lost was the first in conference play for Tech at Ruston since 1954 when Southeastern turned the trick and the first of any kind at home since 1961 when Mississippi Southern defeated the Bulldogs. Ironically, both of these games also occurred on Tech homecomings.

In pulling off the crucial Gulf States Conference victory, Southwestern now stands 1 - 1 in league action while Tech is 0 - 2 after losing to McNeese last week.

For a Tech club rated as the nation's number one small college club in preseason polls, this had to be one of Coach Joe Aillet's most bitter disappointments.

And, for the most part, it was made possible by the work of no less than three USL quarterbacks.

On offense, junior Bill Bayard and senior O'Neal Weber stole some of the passing spotlight from Tech's Billy Laird as each threw long touchdown passes, while on defense sophomore quarterback Edward Pratt stole enough Laird passes, three, to keep USL in the driver's seat.

The first Southwestern bomb fell late in the second quarter when Bayard connected with halfback Gerald Landry for a 59 yard scoring pass. Landry's kick was wide and USL led 6-0 at halftime.

Then on the first play of the fourth quarter Weber, who played about half the time in relief of starter Bayard, pulled off a play which was probably the turning point of the game.

On a first and 10 from the Tech 32 he rolled right but was hit hard near the sideline and appeared to be on his way down. However, at the last second he jerked loose and threw to Leonard Kleinpeter alone at the seven and the 175 - pound end trotted over for the score that gave Southwestern all the points it needed.

For good measure, Landry kicked the extra point and added a 30 yard field goal with 3:36 to play in the game for a 16 - 0 lead before Tech finally came alive behind Laird's passing and the sensational receiving of split end Wayne Davis.

Tech's touchdown, after a five play drive that covered 69 yards, was scored on the second running play of the march by Robert Brunet with 2:02 left in the game. Laird threw to Ken Liberto, a freshman from Woodlawn of Shreveport, for the two - point conversion.

An incompletion, an offside penalty against Tech and a draw play with Brunet carrying put the ball at midfield from where Laird hit flanker back Jim Jones for a five yard gain on the last play of the game.

The final statistics revealed an almost evenly played ball game. USL had 253 yards total offense on 155 rushing and 98 passing while Tech had 242 yards coming on 158 passing and 84 running.

However, this was Southwestern's day all the way.

Time after time the south Louisiana Bulldogs came up with the big play. Although by halftime Tech had run 31 offensive plays to USL's 27, the Ruston Bulldogs never had good field position.

Pratt's first interception of the day gave USL the ball at Tech's 47 about midway in the opening period and USL marched to the nine before stalling. A fake field goal that had Bayard passing to Price on fourth down at the 16 carried to the nine but he was knocked out of bounds a yard shy of a first down.

And so it went until late in the second quarter when Southwestern got possession on its own 41 following a Paul Clark punt from Tech's 23. Bayard tossed to Landry on about the Tech 40 and he simply outran Larry Stephens to the end zone.

It appeared Tech might come up with a solution early in the second half when it moved from the 26 to USL's 39 the first time it had the ball.

Laird mixed the running of Brunet, who carried 23 times for 107 yards during the day, with passes to Davis and Maurice Greer on the 35 yard march.

But Southwestern again came up with a big play, this time when Tech faced a third and three at the USL 39. Laird faded to pass but was smothered by tackle Jim McKay for a 10 yard loss and the Bulldogs had to punt.

From here on it was more frustration for Tech until it finally got rolling in the last minutes of the games.

Price led USL ball carriers with 62 yards on eight trips and Chester Gosnell, who punted six times for a 39.1 average, ran nine times for 41 yards.

Gerald McDowell, returning to offense for the first time this year, ran well when called on and finished with 13 yards on five carries. Laird, who hit on 17 of 27 passes, was trapped for losses mounting up to 38 yards.

Davis had five pass receptions for 70 yards. Jones caught five for 43 yards and Greer hauled in five for 41.

Vikings Romp

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings, aided by an alert defense, scored three quick third quarter touchdowns and blasted the New York Giants 40-14 Saturday night to square their National Football League record.

Wilson Passes Raiders Over Horned Frogs

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Tom Wilson's aerial wizardy in a desperation fourth-period drive carried Texas Tech to a wild 28-24 Southwest Conference football victory over Texas Christian Saturday night.

The tiny senior quarterback directed the frustrated Raiders 57 yards, tossing an 11-yard scoring strike to Halfback Mike Leinert with 2 minutes 20 seconds remaining.

Tech had reached the 11 principally on a couple of other key Wilson passes, a 27-yarder to All-America halfback Donny Anderson and an 11-yarder to Jerry Shipley.

The clutch movement by the Raiders erased the lustre of an electrifying 102-yard kickoff return by TCU's Frank Horak midway through the final period.

Northeast Defeated 3rd Straight Time

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

PINEVILLE — Northeast's familiar thorn-in-the-scalp came alive again here Saturday night as a crowd of 5,000 homecoming fans watched George Fields kick a 41 yard field goal with 48 seconds remaining to give the Wildcats of Louisiana College a 13-12 win.

It was the third straight loss for the Tribe and the first win in four starts for the Cats.

Fields made good two of three field goal attempts during the game, the first meeting of the two teams since 1958. The Ferriday sophomore missed a 41 yarder in the opening quarter but booted a 27 yard goal in the second frame to put the Wildcats ahead 3 - 0.

YARDSTICK

	LA. COLLEGE	NORTHEAST
First downs	6	9
Yards rushing	189	84
Yards passing	50	157
Passes (A-C)	9-3	14-7
Passes interc. by	2	0
Punts	6-39.5	9-31.8

Penalties	4-37	8-81

Northeast roared back to take a 6 - 3 halftime lead.

La. College missed on three golden chances in the opening half after the Indian offense committee mistakes that could have easily made the score 34-12 and not 13 - 12.

A comedy of errors, including a bland mistake by the officials, the game was a see - saw scoring battle that ended going the other way for Northeast.

Again the Northeast defensive unit was called on for most of the work as the Indian offense, hopefully rejuvenated in the middle of last week, gave only sporatic hope.

The first glimpse of hope came with 2:44 to go in the first half when freshman quarterback Allen Bozeman connected with speedster Ronnie Fountain on a 54 yard scoring pass. Fountain was in a cluster of defenders and teammates when he poured on the steam to grab the overthrown ball.

The kick failed, just as it did after Bobby Scafidel scooted over from the 16 yard line to put Northeast back out in front 12 - 10.

La. College's Dickie Dunn had broken loose on a 59 yard scoring scamper earlier in the third period to give the Wildcats a 10 - 6 lead over the Tribe after Fields had booted the PAT.

Larry Thompson intercepted a Bozeman pass in the first quarter and carried to the Tribe 28. In four plays the Cats moved only one yard and gave Fields his first shot from the field. He missed from the 31.

At the end of the first quarter, with the Wildcats in possession, the officials spotted the ball at the La. College 32 yardline when the last play of the first period carried only to the Cats' 28. There was no indication of a flag and the move was carried out despite serious objections from Northeast fans.

Early in the second period James Stafford recovered a Northeast fumble on the Tribe 40 and carried to the 38. But a penalty gave the Wildcats the ball at the Northeast 23. They moved as far as the Indians 15 yard line before the Tribe defense stiffened and took the ball over on downs.

The third Wildcats break came in the second frame when Larry Juster was back to punt for the Tribe, bobbled the ball and was tackled on his own 20. In three plays La. College had a first down and goal on the nine. The Tribe held for three more downs before Fields kicked his first goal.

The third quarter was largely uninteresting until Dunn's 59 yard scoring run which came with 6:56 in the period. Northeast then picked up three first downs in the succeeding drive but the march faltered on the Wildcat 35.

An Alton Thomas punt was then killed on the three yard line-one of two killed on the three by the Tribe- to put the Wildcats deep in their own territory.

The Cats punted from their six and Johnny Garrison returned to the 24 with a 17 yard effort. After Bozeman had picked up four and tossed a four yard pass to Lynn Mitchell, Scafidel charged over the goal with 13:57 left in the game.

The game clincher came late in the fourth after Juster got off a 21 yard boot that gave La. College the ball with 58 seconds to play on the Northeast 34.

A Carroll Hymel to Ken Cannon pass carried to the 25 and after two incomplete passes Fields lofted his game winning kick.

Scafidel was again Northeast's leading rusher. The stocky fullback ran for 44 yards on 12 trips. Halfback Lynn Mitchell carried nine times for 25 yards. Bozeman did all the passing for Northeast, hitting seven of 14 for 157 yards. Fountain, with his long TD, was the most productive pass receiver catching two for 66 yards.

For La. College, Hymel carried 14 times for 60 yards and Dunn had four runs for 57 yards.

Hogs Defeat Baylor With No Trouble

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas used the quick strike and grinding power to beat crippled Baylor Saturday night 38-7 and run its winning streak to 16 games.

Arkansas, third ranked team in the nation going into this Southwest Conference contest, ran the score to 17-0 by halftime and more than doubled it in the last two quarters.

The blow that appeared to break Baylor's back came with 25 seconds remaining in the first half when Arkansas' Tommy Trantham intercepted a pass and raced down the sideline for 69 yards and a touchdown.

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Statistics of the Arkansas-Baylor football game:

	Arkansas	Baylor

Passes	4-17	9-23
Passes intercepted by	6	1
Punts	6-30	5-38

Yards penalized	60	21

Arkansas capitalized on the absence of Baylor's ace passer, Terry Southall, who suffered a broken ankle a week ago.

Baylor suffered six pass interceptions and completed only nine of 23 attempts for 79 yards.

While the Bears' aerial game sagged, Arkansas displayed a balanced offense.

Baylor's lone touchdown came when a pass from center to Arkansas' Bobby Nix was bad and he kicked into a crowd of Bears. Bill Ferguson picked up the ball and carried it to the Arkansas 15. Four plays later, Kenny Stockdale passed to George Cheshire for 12 yards and the score.

When Arkansas wasn't scoring or setting up touchdowns on the long gainers, it was grinding out yardage on the ground, totaling 201 for the game.

Early in the third quarter Dick Brasuell took a Baylor punt and ran it back 72 yards behind a screen of Porker blockers to the Baylor 4. Bobby Burnett went around right end to score from the 2 following a two-yard penalty.

Dodgers Win 3rd Tilt, 4-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Claude Osteen, bottom man of the Dodgers big three, succeeded Saturday where Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale failed and pitched Los Angeles to its first World Series victory 4-0 after the two aces had lost the first two games to the Minnesota Twins.

The former American League left-hander who never lost to the Twins in his days with Washington, carried his charm through nine brilliant innings with a five hitter.

A Dodger Stadium record crowd of 55,934 saw the Dodgers gang up on Camilo Pascual for two runs in the fourth on a single by John Roseboro with the bases loaded. Lou Johnson's double, following Willie Davis' single, gave Los Angeles a third run in the fifth before Pascual faded for a futile pinch hitter.

Jim Merritt, a Dodger clubhouse boy in 1961, gave up the final run in the sixth on a single by Wes Parker and a double by Maury Wills.

With a chance to square the Series today, Dodger Manager Walter Alston had announced he would call on Drysdale, loser of the first game, to face Jim Grant, the man who beat him Wednesday 8-2.

The Twins lost more than the game when Earl Battey, their No. 1 catcher, ran into the railing near the Twins dugout while trying to catch a foul in the seventh. He was forced to leave the game.

Los Angeles also had a casualty. Jim Lefebvre suffered a bruised right heel while scoring from second on Roseboro's hit in the fourth. Xrays proved negative, but Dick Tracewski took over.

While Osteen was baffling the slugging Twins with four singles and one double, the supposedly weak-hitting Dodgers ripped into the Pascual and Merritt for 10 hits, five of them doubles.

It was obvious at the start that Pascual, who missed seven weeks in August and September due to an operation in his right arm pit, was not sharp. The Dodgers were hitting long fly balls, and the Cuban's curve ball was not as effective as usual.

Pascual skirted serious trouble in the first three innings but the Dodgers finally got to him in the fourth. Ron Fairly led off with a double past third base down the left field line and Johnson sacrificed him to third.

Zoilo Versalles made a fine stop of Lefebvre's hard smash, holding Fairly on third but had no play at first base as Lefebvre was credited with a single. Parker walked on four pitches, loading the bases.

Roseboro, the fellow who was hit on the head by Juan Marichal's bat in a big rhubarb at San Francisco in late August, singled to right field and two big runs scampered home.

That really was all Osteen needed. The 26-year-old pitcher, whose 64-year-old father, Claude, Sr. sat in the stands watching his son pitch his first Series game, had the Twins under control.

Osteen is the man who came to the Dodgers last December from Washington with third baseman John Kennedy and $100,000 for five players.

It was only the fourth time the Twins had been shut out this season.

Most of the game was played under lights because of a heavy grey fog. The sun finally broke through in the late innings.

When Versalles rifled Osteen's first pitch to left field for a ground rule double, it looked like another chapter of the Minnesota story.

But the Dodgers came through with a key play after Harmon Killebrew walked with two out. When the Twins tried a double steal, Wills took Roseboro's throw and switched to the plate in time to trap Versalles. Zoilo finally headed back for third and was thrown out.

"This was our type of game," said Manager Walter Alston of the Dodgers. "We finally had a chance to do some running."

Wills stole his first base in the third inning and Parker and Roseboro worked a double steal in the fourth after the two runs were in, but they were stranded when Osteen and Wills popped up.

Twins See Nothing Funny In 'Gomer'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His Los Angeles Dodger teammates call Claude Osteen "Gomer" after the television character, Gomer Pyle, but there was nothing comical about the Tennessee-born pitcher Saturday.

Certainly the Minnesota Twins saw nothing funny in the skinny, 5-foot-11 southpaw, who pitched like a giant in shutting out the American League champions 4-0 on five hits for the first Dodger victory in three games.

The hard-hitting Twins had been shut out only three times during the regular season, but that could be because they didn't have to face Osteen.

The 26-year-old native of Caney Springs, Tenn., posted a 5-0 record against them in his three years as a member of the Washington Senators.

"I wouldn't call it any special magic," protested Osteen when asked what sort of potion he used on the Twins.

"I just feel I know how to pitch to them. Except for Zoilo Versalles, all the hits they got off me were on bad pitches. When I got the ball where I was supposed to, they didn't hit me."

Osteen said his curve was the best he had all year but his big pitch, the one with which he got the Twins to hit into a double play on two occasions was a fast ball that tails off like a slider.

"I call it a tailing fast ball," he said. "It sinks and goes in to the batter."

Osteen, the low man of the Dodgers' big three, has a reputation as a hard luck pitcher. Despite a 2.79 earned run average this past season, he had a so-so 15-15 record. What the won and lost record fails to show, however, is that his mates gave him only 29 runs in his 15 defeats.

"I feel wealthy," he said. "I got four runs. Any time I get a run, I'm happy.

"I don't mind saying that I wasn't exactly bubbling over with confidence before the game. It isn't that I was worried about how I'd pitch. I was wondering whether I'd have to pitch a shutout to win."

In 1964 with the Senators Osteen lost seven games by shutouts, four by scores of 1-0.

Dick Tracewski, Dodger utilityman, nicknamed him "Gomer" because "he looks like that TV guy."

"I don't object to it," said Osteen. "But I am nothing like Gomer.

"Gomer's lucky."

Bob Griese Again Leads Purdue Win

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Sharpshooter Bob Griese's constant passing bombardment and his 19-yard field goal nursed unbeaten Purdue to a 17-14 triumph over stubborn Iowa in the Boilermakers' Big Ten football opener Saturday.

Griese's field goal early in the fourth quarter came after his prolific passing fired Purdue to two long touchdown drives to erase a 7-0 Hawkeye lead in the second quarter.

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Statistics of the Purdue-Iowa football game:

	Purdue	Iowa
First downs	25	14
Rushing yardage	186	35
Passing yardage	216	180
Passes	20-35	13-32
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	2-37	7-33
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	45	43

Griese also scored the first Purdue touchdown on a one-foot sneak and converted after both Boilermaker TDs.

Although Purdue, sixth-ranked nationally had almost complete ball control throughout the game, Gary Snook's passing kept Iowa in contention.

Griese bounced the Boilermarkers back from a 14-14 tie with Southern Methodist a week ago by hitting on 20 of 35 passes for 216 yards.

Griese's' prime target, end Bob Hadrick, grabbed nine tosses for 114 yards. His 38-yard reception on the Iowa 14 set up Purdue's touchdown in the third period for a 14-7 lead.

Snook came off second best in the duel of heralded Big Ten passers. But early in the game he was plagued by receivers dropping half a dozen of his tosses. Snook wound up with a 13-for-32 record and 180 yards. He had touchdown tosses of 42 and four yards.

Snook's 42 yarder went to Dalton Kimble who grabbed the ball on Purdue's 30 and raced in for a touchdown and a 7-0 Iowa lead in the second quarter immediately after the Hawkeyes recovered a fumble on Purdue's 42.

In the fourth quarter after Griese's field goal put Purdue ahead 17-7, Snook caught fire for the first time. He completed four straight passes and then hit Cliff Wilder with a four-yard scoring flip to cap a 73-yard drive.

The Boilersmakers' first scoring strike went 77 yards in 18 plays, hubbed mainly around Griese's short passes. He climaxed the march by bulling across from the one-foot line.

Purdue's second touchdown came late in the third quarter on a 83-yeard drive with fullback John Kuzniewski ramming across from inside the one.

Auburn Dumps Moccasins On Bowden's Play

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Alex Bowden stepped into quarterback Tom Bryan's shoes Saturday and threw two touchdown passes to lead Auburn to an easy 30-7 gridiron victory over Chattanooga University.

Bowden, a senior signal caller from Brundidge, Ala., who spent every minute of his first two varsity years on the bench, engineered the Tiger offense in the closing minutes of the first half and for all but one play the rest of the game.

First string quarterback Bryan put on quite a show himself before retiring to the bench. He marked up the first Auburn score and put the Tigers within range of the second touchdown with two successive passes covering 77 yards.

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Statistics of the Chattanooga-Auburn football game:

	Chattanooga	Auburn

Passes	9-13	13-25
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	10-37	2-33
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	10	20

With Auburn safely ahead, Coach Ralph (Shug) Jordan called Bryan from the field and gave the 22-year-old 6-foot-3 Bowden his chance.

The number two quarterback measured up to the opportunity. On one spectacular play, trapped behind the line, righthander Bowden shifted the ball to his left hand and threw a 35-yard scoring pass to fullback Mike Perillard.

Auburn held Chattanooga to a scant 16 yards running. The Tigers rolled up 213 yards on the ground and another 227 by air.

Chattanooga, undefeated until today, deprived the Tigers of two more touchdowns with a batted down pass in the end zone and a masterful closing minutes goal line stand. Auburn, with Bowden repeatedly hitting receivers, got a first down on the three, but the stiffened Moccasin line held.

Earlier, Chattanooga halfback Joe Dunn jumped in front of Danny Fulford and knocked down a long pass from Bryan as the Auburn end waited expectantly for the ball to settle in his arms in the end zone.

Chattanooga finally found a weakness in the Auburn secondary and started hitting with regularity on passes from Don Shaver to halfback Gary Tucker. With a first down on the 3, Chattanooga fullback Dave Simcox went in for the score.

Bryan appeared on the field for but one play in the second half. Auburn had a fourth and one on the Moccasin 26. Jordan sent the big Hartford, Ala., quarterback in for the try. Bryan shot through the line for six yards and the first down, then sprinted back to the bench.

The 32,000 fans were serenaded alternately by more than 30 Alabama high school bands who attended the game as Auburn guests.

Volunteers Whip South Carolina In Homecoming

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee blended the running of sophomores Charlie Fulton and Walter Chadwick with a tight defense and whipped South Carolina 24-3 Saturday before a homecoming football crowd of 38,519.

Chadwick, playing in his second college game, scored the Vols' first two touchdowns on runs of five and one yards, and set up the third with a 33-yard sprint to the Carolina 25.

From that point, Fulton hit end David Leake with a pass in the end zone for Tennessee's third TD, which put the contest out of reach of the Gamecocks. Leaks made good the third of three straight extra points.

The victory was Tennessee's second of the season and though South Carolina is from the Atlantic Coast Conference it counted in the Southeastern Conference championship race. The Vols are now 1-0-1 in the title chase, with only a 13-13 tie against Auburn blotting their record.

Georgia Roars Past Clemson Tigers, 23-9

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The University of Georgia, its ranking of No. 4 in the nation at stake, came roaring back Saturday to down Clemson 23-9 in an intersectional football game.

Junior guard Jimmy Cooley provided the Bulldogs with the spark they needed when, in the third quarter with Georgia trailing 9-6, he blocked a punt by Tiger kicker Don Barfield. The ball bounced back over Clemson's goal where it was covered by Georgia end Larry Kohn for a touchdown.

The fired-up Georgia team came roaring back a few minutes later, moving 46 yards in 11 plays for a touchdown. Fullback Ronnie Jenkins plunged across from the three, and Bob Etter kicked his second conversion of the day.

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Statistics of the Clemson-Georgia game:

Passing yardage	86	53
Passes	5-17	2-5
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	8-37	5-42
Fumbles lost	0	1
Yards penalized	77	33

The victory counted as a Southeastern Conference game for the Bulldogs although Clemson is in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Georgia had to come from behind to retain its undefeated status, just as it did in victories over Alabama and Michigan.

Clemson scored first, going 65 yards in just five plays. A pass from Quarterback Thomas Ray to end Edgar McGee covered 43 yards.

Halfback Hugh Mauldin went off right tackle for 11 yards to the Georgia 10 and then used the same play to score. Frank Pearce's conversion attempt was wide.

Georgia gained a 6-6 tie when they got the ball after Clemson's touchdown. Doug McFalls returned the kickoff 20 yards to the Georgia 26 and the Bulldogs rolled down the field with the score coming on a 34-yard pass from Quarterback Preston Ridlehuber to end Pat Hodgson.

Etter missed the conversion attempt — the first time he had failed to convert in 22 attempts.

The Tigers went ahead as Pearce split the uprights with a 35-yard field goal after the Bulldog defensive had stalled Clemson on a drive that reached the Georgia 19.

Cook Guides Bulldogs Past Southern, 27-9

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Quarterback Ashby Cook scored one touchdown and passed for another as ninth-ranked Mississippi State overpowered Southern Mississippi 27-9 Saturday.

Cook opened a tight contest midway the final quarter with key passes that set up a field goal.

The game was a struggle between two undefeated state rivals and saw underdog Southern give up 10 points in the first nine minutes, then fight back to scare the winning Bulldogs.

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Statistics of the So. Miss-Miss. State game:

	So. Miss.	Miss. St.

Passes intercepted by	1	2
Punts	7-39	4-24
Fumbles lost	0	1
Yards penalized	77	11

Placement specialist James Neill kicked two field goals, the first about 48 yards out in the opening minutes, and the last covering 26 yards in the final quarter to pull State safely ahead.

State dominated the opening half, but Southern refused to fold, and dominated the second half until state's 10-point splurge in the closing five minutes.

The Bulldogs capitalized on a short punt by Southern's Dick Dunaway which went out on the Southern 36, to get its first points on Neal's field goal.

A bad snap to Dunaway on a punt attempt minutes later gave State the ball on the Southern 13, and on the third play Cook circled end for two yards and a touchdown.

The quick scores had no effect on the spirited play of Southern, which fell 48-7 before State last year. Southern drove 84 yards behind the passing of quarterback Vic Purvis to get back in contention.

Purvis connected with four passes to wingback Rabbit Brown for 46 yards in the drive, which ended when he circled end for 10 yards and a touchdown.

State countered with a 71-yard march move further ahead in the second quarter. A 22-yard Cook pass to halfback Marcus Rhoden kept the drive alive, and Rhoden ended it with a 33-yard burst to score.

The third period was all Southern, and State managed only six offensive plays during the period. Southern moved within eight points when end Tommy Roussel blocked a Richard McGraw punt and the ball sailed through the State end zone to a safety.

The state insurance scores came in the final five minutes. Cook threw key passes to Don Safet, covering 38 yards, and Rhoden for 9 to set up Neill's second field goal, and later he connected with Saget on an 18-yard scoring pass.

The winners led 15 to 13 in first downs, 171 to 124 in rushing yardage, and 106 to 78 in passing yardage.

Southern Takes First Loss, 24-15

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Arkansas AM&N handed Southern University its first loss of the season Saturday 24-15 in a Southwestern Athletic Conference contest.

Arkansas won the contest in the second half when it broke the Southern defense for a pair of touchdowns and a field goal while Southern was able to manage a touchdown and a two point conversion.

The two teams were tied 7-7 at intermission.

Longhorns Stretch Series Streak, 19-0

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Marvin Kristynik's passing and running the passing of sophomore Regg Lott and an opportunist defense carried Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, to a 19-0 victory over Oklahoma Saturday.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Statistics of the Texas-Oklahoma football game:

Passes	3-12	4-23
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	9-38	3-43

Yards penalized	35	79

It was the eighth in a row for the Longhorns in the 66-year-old series, tying the all-time record held by Texas. It also was Texas' fourth consecutive triumph this season.

Oklahoma got past midfield only twice under its own power and made only five first downs, one on a penalty. Except for a recovered Texas fumble, Oklahoma got no farther than its 27-yard line in the first half.

A crowd of 75,504 paid—with hundreds of fans not using their tickets, but watching the game on television in Oklahoma—saw Texas completely dominate the game. Except for a hard-bitten defense that often stopped Texas surges, the Sooners had little to talk about.

David Conway of Texas tried four field goals and cashed in on two. Kristynik passed for 41 yards and ran for 7 in a 60-yard touchdown drive in the second period. Kristynik scored the touchdown himself with a one-yard plunge. Oklahoma twice was penalized for offside to put the ball on the one.

With less than two minutes left Lott led a charge that ended with his 11-yard touchdown toss to end Kelly Baker.

The first time Oklahoma got in Texas territory, as the result of a recovered fumble, Tommy Nobis, the great Texas linebacker, intercepted a pass.

Army Beaten In New York By Irish, 17-0

NEW YORK (AP) — A quick aerial strike and an intercepted pass keyed Notre Dame to a 17-0 victory over Army Saturday night as the two teams resumed their legendary football rivalry before a sellout crowd of 61,000 at Shea Stadium.

Sophomore quarterback Tom Schoen fired the nationally ranked Irish to the game's first touchdown early in the second half after ace safety Nick Rassas had returned a punt 19 yards to Army's 47.

NEW YORK (AP) — Statistics of the Notre Dame-Army football game:

	Notre Dame	Army

Passes	8-13	5-14

Punts	6-39	8-37

A screen pass to Larry Conjar gained 18. Then Schoen, scrambling away from Cadet rushers, hit Don Gmitter, all alone on the goal line.

In the third period, defensive end Tom Rhoads blocked a Curt Cook pass and snatched it out of the air, giving Notre Dame possession on the Cadets' 29.

A 15-yard personal foul penalty helped the Irish to the 10. Three plays later Nick Eddy burst through on the left for a five yard touchdown run.

Ken Ivan put it out of reach midway in the final period with a 23-yard field goal, capping a 58-yard ground advance. Conjar carried 10 times in the 13-play march, gaining 52 yards.

The victory was the third in four games for Notre Dame, ranked No. 7 in the nation, and gave the Irish a 25-8-4 lead in the series which dates back to 1913.

It was the first Notre Dame-Army clash since 1958 and the first in New York since 1946—the historic 0-0 game, in the Davis-Blanchard-Lujack era.

Outside the Irish scoring drives, it was a match of aggressive defenses—with heavier Notre Dame holding the edge; the punting of Army's Nick Kurilko and Notre Dame's Dan McGinn, and and the ballhawking of Rassas.

Rassas stopped Army's best sustained advance, after the opening kickoff, when he intercepted a pass from Fred Barofsky on the Irish 31 and stole another pass, from Curt Cook, in the closing moments. He has five interceptions so far this season.

Gators Put Rebs In Cellar, 17-0

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Florida's awesome aerial attack sank once powerful Mississippi deeper into the Southeastern Conference cellar Sautrday as the No. 10 ranked Gators thrashed the Rebels 17-0.

Fantastic catches by Florida ends Charles Casey and Barry Brown made Gator southpaw quarterback Steve Spurrier look tremendous throughout the afternoon and spoil homecoming for Ole Miss fans.

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Statistics of the Florida-Mississippi game:

	Fla.	Miss.
First downs	18	7
Rushing yardage	73	85
Passing yardage	242	15
Passes	20-34	5-16
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	7-44	10-42
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	40	14

Florida's fierce eight-man defensive forward wall kept Ole Miss' offense sputtering and neither senior quarterback Jimmy Heidel or his sophomore understudy, Carroll Walker, could make it click.

It was the third straight defeat this season for Ole Miss and the first time the Rebels have ever lost three in a row under Coach John Vaught, who became head coach 18 years ago.

What's more, except for a scoreless deadlock with Memphis State at the start of the 1963 campaign, it was the first time the Johnny Rebs had failed to score since they were shutout 14-0 by Louisiana Staet in 1958—71 games ago.

Spurrier directed the Gators to a 17-0 intermission lead and Florida did not let up when it returned following the break. Mississippi did not get one first down in the third period.

The Rebels made their deepest penetration, to the Gator 17, in the final minutes of the game.

Ole Miss operated without sophomore fullback Don Street, a starter in the first three games. Street, the SEC's No. 8 rusher before Saturday, was sidelined with a leg injury.

In the erratic first period, which saw Ole Miss fumble twice and lose the ball once and intercept a Spurrier aerial, the Gators took a 3-0 lead on Wayne Barfield's 24 yard field goal.

On the first play of the second quarter, with Florida on the Rebel 40, Spurrier tossed a screen pass to Jack Harper who danced down the sidelines for a 32 yard gain.

The Gators gambled just a minute later. With a fourth and 8 situation from the 8 yard line, Spurrier hit Casey with a scoring pass to increase the Florida margin.

Spurrier engineered a short scoring thrust just before the half and climaxed it by going up the middle for nine yards.

Bruce Bennett set up the marker by spearing a Heidel pass on the Florida 42 and returning it to the Reb 35.

Florida couldn't cross the Ole Miss goal line in the second half, but soundly whipped the Rebels in the third and fourth stanzas.

Builders Busy At D'Arbonne

With Sam Hanna

Lake Is Developing

R. C. Moore is a Texan with big ideas in Louisiana. He apparently sees more future in places like Lake D'Arbonne than most people, because he's staking his own future in a place like D'Arbonne.

And what he's doing is a sign of the times in relationship with the outdoor picture of today.

R. C. gave up coaching in Big Spring, Tex. to come to Farmerville and take advantage of D'Arbonne. He is in the process of building D'Arbonne Village on the north end of the big lake out from Farmerville on the Bernice Road.

He's talking in terms of a $300,000 or more investment.

Sounds like a pretty expensive boatdock, but D'Arbonne Village will be the kind of facility that's been attracting outdoorsmen in other states for years.

It'll have a restaurant to seat 90 persons overlooking the Union Parish hills and the lake, plus 24 motel units, sporting goods, boat stalls, boats, mariner facilities and that's not all.

R. C. Moore's place will be in tune with the outdoor resources that surrounds him. He's got guides for fishing and hunting too. Don't overlook the hunting possibilities in Union Parish.

Already, out-of-state sportsmen are flying to Farmerville to take advantage of Moore's operation even though he hasn't begun to build the motel yet.

But his is not the only development on the lake — notwithstanding some expensive lakeside homes.

Floyd Hamm of Monroe is one of three men who put together the Lake D'Arbonne Cabins, Inc., which is building 10 cabins on 10 acres of land south of Farmerville near the dam.

The completely air-conditioned cabins will be designed to accommodate the family on vacation, complete with playground equipment and a swimming area. Eventually there'll be horses to ride and tennis courts also.

And for the camper, this particular project will have an area for campers with a bathhouse.

Now the purpose of our mentioning these developments on D'Arbonne is not to commercialize this column, but rather to point to the possibilities available in the Monroe area in regards to the outdoors.

Facilities like R. C. Moore's plans are available on other lakes in other states, but to date we haven't taken advantage of the opportunity in our own backyard. R. C. says he'll employ between 75 and 100 persons once his facilities are complete. We've seen announcements out of the governor's office regarding new industry with fewer people on the payroll than that.

E. R. McDonald Sr. of Newellton has much the same idea—promoting the natural resources of the Delta country. Some may not take McDonald's Dutch Gardens seriously, but he impressed a few people in New York a few days ago when he addressed a national highway planners' meeting — especially when he told about drawing over 100,000 visitors last spring.

Although hunting is losing out in the Delta, McDonald is taking advantage of the natural beauty of his country to bring in people searching for something pleasant to do.

That's what R. C. Moore has in mind on D'Arbonne, except he plans to draw the people who want to hunt and fish.

There's a lot more room for this type of promotion in our area.

Look At Washington

Congress, en route to adjournment, has passed numerous pieces of legislation in the current session affecting the outdoors, but so far the anti-gun bills haven't been passed or killed.

The American Legion is the most recent addition to the long list of organizations registering formal opposition to restrictive firearms bills now pending in Congress.

The Legion, at its convention, voted its unanimous opposition to "legislation that would require Federal registration or control of firearms" as contained in Sen. Dodd's bills and apparently in other gun bills introducted in the current session.

With almost 3 million members, the Legion said in its resolution that "effort to compel registration of all firearms by the American people has been steadfastly rejected as an inconvenience and unnecessary control, if not curtailment of the right of the people to have and bear arms guaranteed in the Constitution."

The Legion recommended permits for the purchase of concealable firearms and further stated that one or more guns in a home for sport and protection serve as a "deterrent in this period of alarming crime increase."

Whether Dodd's bill passes this session or not, the fight to control firearms as well as the fight to maintan the freedom of owning firearms won't end in this session of the Congress.

On the other side of the ledger, the National Wildlife Federation has high praise for the 89th Congress in the field of conservation legislation.

Federation Executive Director Thomas L. Kimball said, "While different in many respects, accomplishments this year can be compared favorably with those remarkable 88th Congress which was known as the 'Conservation Congress.' Conservationists throughout the country are elated over this excellent record."

The federation praised the passage of the Water Quality Act of 1965, which creates a new Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, provides for the establishment of water quality criteria and otherwise strengthens the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

It also cited the Water Resources Planning Act, establishing a program for river basin studies and making grants to state for planning.

The federation also pointed out that the ceiling is being raised on appropriations for the Fish & Wildlife Service to study the effects of pesticides on fish and wildlife.

Little Man's Corner

The weather was like it had been ordered with cool temperatures and sunny skies and the little men made news afield.

Squirrel hunters were having good luck, in general, and the limit was bagged by two Monroe sportsmen, Johnny Rau and Mike Tarver. Johnny is the camp's top gun.

W. P. Rushing of Lake Providence also bagged the limit.

And with the second split of the dove season opened, the truth finally comes out. From Monroe, David Kahn bragged about his first split hunts, but Webb Nix says he went on one and they hunted all day without firing a shot. But toward the end of the day Kahn was taken in by a mockingbird and shot him for a dove.

Out at Black Bayou, Frank Burrougs and Robert Wallace landed seven bass weighing 21 pounds. Frank Savana got seven one trip, the largest almost going five pounds, and eight on another trip, the largest weighing 3½ pounds.

James Doss caught six bass one trip and nine another time weighing 23 pounds. Paul Danna landed the limit of bass, most of them weighing about 2½ to four pounds.

John Elmendorff caught six bass Thursday, the largest weighing 5 and three-quarter pounds.

At Lake Providence, J. W. McPherson caught a nice string of white perch. Claude Rinicker also caught a big Rushing, the squirrel hunter, landed eight bass.

Also from Lake Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Foutz caught 33 white perch in Lake Concordia near Lake Providence.

And at Lake Concordia at Ferriday, Mrs. T. L. McKeithen and H. B. Thompson got the limit of bass. C. E. Sandifer of Natchez landed 10 bass in Lake St. John.

Getting the limit of squirrels in the Concordia area were Howard Williams, Walter Tisdale, Shine House, Edgar Jones, Leo Young Jr., and Purser Rabon.

King's Dump has been a hot fishing spot. Maurice Dye and Herbert Zeagler caught 30 bass averaging about three pounds each.

Meantime, locally, squirrel hunting at one time was popular with Ed Waldron. But Ed built a home out on Bayou DeSiard along Bon Aire and over the years made pets out of the squirrels around his house.

One squirrel — which Ed says is over 6-years-old — will even climb on his shoulder.

And this reminds us of another story we heard. Capt. Jesse Peyton, the retired game agent, lives down on the Tensas River in the heart of the swamp. Of course, there are squirrels all around his house, and Capt. Peyton has almost tamed one or two in his yard.

But on opening morning the blast of a shotgun got Capt. Peyton out of bed in a hurry. Somebody had shot one of his squirrels. It was Pete Waller of Winnsboro.

The archery season opened Saturday morning and Gene Allen of Marion scored on Georgia-Pacfiic. Gene downed a doe that dressed out over 130-pounds.

And the squirrel season continued to be a good one. The Rookie Bend Hunting Club in Madison Parish, with about a dozen hunters, killed about 100 squirrels Friday and Saturday.

Bill Tidwell of Monroe bagged the limit.

SQUIRREL HUNTING used to be a big sport with Ed Waldron, 5603 Bon Aire, in Monroe, but not anymore — as evidenced in this photo. Waldron, executive assistant to Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard, began making friends with the squirrels around his place to the point that this female will climb on his shoulder. Ed says the squirrel is over 6-years-old and has had several litters of young ones. Although Ed Waldron has lost his taste for squirrel hunting, he hasn't found a quail that will perch on his shoulder.

Kentucky Defeats Florida State 11

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky rode the passing arm of Rick Norton to a 26-24 football victory over Florida State Saturday night.

Norton's passes set up three of Kentucky's touchdowns, and he clicked on a 39-yard scoring pass to wingback Larry Seiple.

The lead see-saw until the final period when Norton marched Kentucky 75 yards in 12 plays and Tailback Rodger Bird scored the winning points from two yards out.

But it was left to Kentucky's Tom Becherer to put the stopper on the Seminoles when he intercepted a pass with 2:19 left in the game and dashed 39 yards to the one.

A personal foul penalty set Kentucky back and the Wildcats couldn't score in four plays.

Becherer's interception ate up enough time to give the victory to the Wildcats.

Norton tossed 28 passes, completed 16 and gained 256 yards through the air — 94 of them to end Rick Kestner.

Florida State's Ed Pritchett hit 17 of 37 passes for 187 yards.

But it was a 10-yard pass from Tony Gero to halfback Bill Moremen on a fake field goal attempt that startled the crowd and set up the Seminoles' first touchdown.

Pete Roberts, who later hit a 35-yard field goal, lined up on the 26, but Gero tossed to Moremen instead for a first down on the 16.

Four plays later Pritchett scored from the four.

Florida State again went razzle-dazzle late in the first period when Moremen took a kickoff on his goal-line, ran 13 yards, then lateraled to T.K. Wetherell, who scooted the rest of the way for a touchdown.

Tigers Outlast Kansas State To Take 28-6 Win

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The heavily-favored Missouri Tigers overcame their early mistakes Saturday, wore down stubborn Kansas State 28-6 and remained undefeated in the Big Eight Conference.

The Tigers dominated the game but a fumble, a penalty and two misfires on fourth-and-one situations inside the K-State 10 kept the score down.

Missouri scored midway through the second quarter on Johnny Roland's eight-yard run, climaxing a drive of 38 yards in nine plays.

The fourth quarter was a wild one as halfback Charlie Brown led the Tigers to their last two touchdowns, and Vic Castillo passed 62 yards to Henry Howard for the only Kansas State score, all within a span of a minute and 54 seconds.

Tulane Defeated, 13-10

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Bunky Henry booted a clutch 20-yard field goal in the fourth quarter Saturday night to boost favored Georgia Tech to a narrow 13-10 win over Tulane.

Henry's kick came after the Yellow Jackets had tied it up 10-10, storming 80 yards in 17 plays for their only touchdown. Tech fullback Tommy Carlisle leaped the final yard.

Sophomore quarterback Bobby Duhon got the hungry Greenies on the scoreboard first, diving one yard for a touchdown that was set up by a spectacular 58-yard punt return by halfback Carl Crowder.

In the third period Tulane kicking specialist Uwe Pontius stepped in to boot a 36-yard field goal. And that was all the Greenies offense could muster. Tech took the kickoff and powered 63 yards in 10 plays with Henry kicking the first of his two field goals.

Duhon, the young man who has raised new hope in the breasts of Greenie alumni, pitched 25 times completing 12, mainly to Crowder and end Jerry Colquette. But most of them were for short yardage and Tulane's running game couldn't split the Tech defense.

Hungry Tulane, an 8-point underdog, gambled on a fourth and two situation on Tech's eight-yard line in its touchdown surge. Duhon pitched out to Crowder, who smashed five yards for the touchdown at the 2. There fullback George Smith bulled to the one and Duhon then dove over.

Tulane's Posse, which Coach Tommy O'Boyle had cited as the key to victory, had the upper hand in the first half. They blunted Tech's running attack and quarterback Kim King was lucky to spot an open receiver as he dodged oncoming Greenies.

But the Posse tired late in the third quarter, and Georgia Tech made its move.

The smooth Tech touchdown drive included seven passes, with quarterback Jerry Priestley relieving King midway to pitch three of them, hitting end Mike Fortier for 13 and tailback Lenny Snow for 5.

The crucial push to Tulane's 3, which set up Henry's game-winning field goal, came after Tulane had bulled to the Georgia Tech 24, where its drive bogged down and a 41-yard field goal attempt by Pontius was wide.

Starting from their 20, the Yellow Jackets were off to a sizzling start when King swept right end for 24 yards, then passed to Snow for 13 and to end Gary Williams for 14 more.

King threw to Williams again and pass interference was called on the Tulane defender, putting Tech at the Greenies 18. Snow swept left end on a pitchout for 14 yards. But there the Posse stopped the Tech attack and the kicking tee was thrown in.

Tulane's last offensive effort was choked off when Georgia Tech's defensive back Phil Eastman intercepted a Duhon pass at the Tulane 43, running it back to the 22. The Posse held and a field goal attempt by Henry fell short.

Vandy Errors Lead 'Bama To 22-7 Win

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Alabama, facing elimination from the Southeastern Conference football race, converted two Vanderbilt errors into touchdowns in a 94-second explosion in the last quarter and went on to whip the Commodores 22-7 Saturday night.

Three fumbles and an intercepted pass spoiled the upset hopes of Vanderbilt, which spurted in front 7-0 in the second quarter when sophomore Chuck Boyd raced 69 yards on a punt return.

Alabama fumbled twice itself in the third quarter before catching fire in the final minutes to roll to its third victory against one loss.

Steve Bowman, burly Alabama fullback, scored on a two-yard run and a 57-yard burst, and defensive halfback John David Reitz raced 35 yards with an intercepted pass for the other score.

Bowman's first touchdown capped a 25-yard drive set up when Alabama's Bobby Johns recovered a Vanderbilt fumble with 9:39 to play. Alabama won a two-point conversion gamble with a pass from Steve Sloan to David Ray for an 8-7 lead.

Three plays later, Reitz picked off a Vanderbilt pass and raced in for the clinching touchdown. Bowman then put the game out of reach with his long jaunt.

Vanderbilt twice missed chances to take a commanding lead. The Commodores drove to the Alabama 9 and 7 after Crimson Tide fumbles in the third quarter but missed on two field goal tries.

Week To Cite Importance Of School Lunch

What has the volume of cheese sales in Ouachita Parish in common with a child's professional inclinations? The answer — a school lunch.

So said school officials, as the start of national and state School Lunch Week — beginning today — approached. The observance, due to run through Oct. 16, is keyed to the theme, "School Lunch Serves Child Health."

As pointed out by Mrs. Yvonne Warner, Lakeshore Elementary School teacher and a leading figure in local planning, the implication of the school lunch, as related to the sale of cheese, is strong indeed.

"We've been told that before the inception of the 'free' school lunch, there wasn't much activity in the parish cheese market," she explained. "Now since thousands of children have been introduced to the product, they've taken to demanding in their meals at home and the impact has been tremendous."

Of course, as Ouachita Supt. Milton C. Hall clarified, the schools are not setting themselves as a cheese lobby, but "it's just one of the interesting sidelights of the school lunch program."

As for the reference to professional inclinations, educators have said "time and again" — "you can't teach a hungry child, yet getting an education is the one chance many youngsters have of becoming a job-holding, self-supporting citizen.

"Even one good meal per day — the lunch at school — can make a tremendous difference in a child's mental and physical alertness.

Parents have been extended special invitations to come to their children's school and share a meal during the coming week, officials stressed. It is one feature of the observance.

Highland Elementary, meanwhile, will host Ouachita Parish School Board members for the noon meal Monday. Bulletin boards, in keeping with one of the main objectives of the week, will accent notes on nutrition and healthful dietary habits.

The "Two - Bite Clubs" will be getting special emphasis in introducing youngsters to healthful foods, the taste of which they might not be familiar with under the rules of the clubs, children are encouraged to try at least two bites of an unfamiliar food before rejecting it.

Major aims of school lunch week, besides stressing the facts of proper nutrition, include:

—The actual provision of a nutritionally adequate, tasty and satisfying meal.

—Social and emotional growth through the sharing of a relaxed and enjoyable lunch period. Social behavior and cleanliness are main teaching objectives during the period.

—The extension of educational influences to the homes of the children, mainly through the introduction to new foods.

Local officials stress the size of the school lunch operation in the state — a $33 million business serving more than 650,000 students. Vast quantities of foodstuffs and milk are served, making the school lunch "an important part of the local economy," they declare.

West Carroll School Board Adopts Budget

The school system income will be $32,863.08 from the per educable fund; $1,361,487.83 from the equalization fund; $12,000 state and federal vocational education fund; $586.62 sixteenth section land fund; $1,400 from the crippled and exceptional fund; $2,000 driver's education program; $55,000 maintenance and operation tax, and $3,000 severance taxes.

Luncheon At Chateau Honors Mrs. Roy Young

A farewell luncheon honoring Mrs. Roy J. Young of Newellton was given by her mother, Mrs. T. T. Hargrove, of this city, when she entertained Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at The Chateau in Monroe.

As Mrs. Young is leaving soon to make her home in Fort Bragg, North Carolina, home of the 101st Airborne Division, the theme, "Goodbye to Doodles" was carried out in the invitations and table decorations.

Blouses Lead Busy Life

Blouses may go their different fashion ways for the season, but they all get together in the laundry hamper.

Suds appeal is shared alike by the pongee party blouson, the rural hopsacking shirt, the knife-pleated crepe, the floral sweat shirt, and the riotously colorful Hawaiian silk. After sudsing and rinsing, most are quick-drying and need little or no ironing.

BACK DOOR COME-BACK

Double-breasted suits may be making a come-back . . . . through the backdoor. Double-breasted blazers, trench coats, short overcoats and outerwear have all grown in popularity.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Miss Sarah Siddons Service to Theodore Franklin Mager Jr., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Siddons S. Service, 1001 Speed Avenue, Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Mager of South Bend, Indiana. Lively Colors Enhance Coats, Suits For Fall Gone is the day when a Winter coat meant a somber one. Instead, there is a veritable palette of exciting tones — even tones together — reflecting the American interest in art.

Two tones are very new in a coat — one for the body, one for collar and cuffs. Sometimes a reversible coat provides the duotone theme. Rose, raspberries and wines are heady, luscious leaders. Green-tinged browns and golds. Blues, ginger and copper. . . greens, oranges and reds. For the more conservative: chocolate, oxford, black. Most women, however, will enjoy a color fling!

Big news in coats as well as suits is skirt motion. Fitted coats make a comeback with new restraint. No nipped-in waist, no whirl skirts. The new silhouette is gently flared for a demi-dirndl look. Occasionally, clusters of pleats provide motion.

The narrow coat is not yet ready to depart. To give it new importance, flyfronts with concealed closings come to the fore. The result is uncluttered elegance. Even the pockets are flat slits in front seams. Trench coats leave the realm of the James Bond world and go high fashion. They appear in new art-conscious tones of opulent wools. Fur-trimmed coats are back in regal regalia. Borders of fur look new and lavish — but collars and cuffs have their rooters — particularly those that detach for versatility.

Fur-lined coats are more fashionable than ever. Furs spill from linings to collar. Newly supple and lighter-in-weight, they are warm and wonderful. Something more opulent is added, too. A matching dress to sum up the costume supreme.

Belts are important — even when they play peek-a-boo, tunneling in and out of many of the newsuits. Often, they are ets. And, with the young look still a favorite, sets of pockets are in fashion esteem.

Fabrics are flattened, but interesting in surface via weaves and color usage. Tattersall, houndstooth and diamond checks feature "broken" weaves. Foulards and calico types are seen in wools. Twills, gabardines, coverts and crepe are luxurious Tweeds, Shetlands, Harris and Argyles are crisp. America runs on suit time — and now this national fashion is destined to make women more colorful, more elegant.

'In' Clothes

The last word in sports shirts is Madras. Exciting new woven Madras patterns have the look and feel of linen. These shirts can be worn either tucked in trousers or just hanging loosely.

Saddle belts are "in." College men like them in cordovan grain leathers, with big brass buckles.

As usual, blazers are a blast! Students find that the traditional blazer can go almost anywhere the sports coat can . . . and then some.

WESTERN SANDWICH

For a Western sandwich, saute minced onion and green pepper in butter; add the vegetables to slightly beaten eggs along with finely diced ham and salt and pepper. Scramble the mixture (as you would for firm scrambled eggs) and use as the sandwich filling. Serve with chili sauce.

MRS. REDDOCH CLYDE WINDHAM JR.

Mary Elizabeth Vickers Weds Reddoch Windham

Solemnized Saturday, October 9 in Crowville Methodist church was the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Mary Elizabeth Vickers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Vickers of Crowville and Reddoch Clyde Windham Jr., of Winnsboro, son of Mrs. Nell Womble Windham and the late Reddoch Clyde Windham of Rayville.

Rev. Roger White performed the ceremony at 5:30 p.m. in the church sanctuary which reflected the fall theme. Large arrangements of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and colorful oak leaves were placed in white Grecian urns on each side of the altar. At the base of the large cross on the altar was a stylized design of the chrysanthemums. Citron tapers in wrought iron candelabra glowed above the chancel railing and in the choir loft were trees of dark green jade fronds.

A prenuptial concert was presented by the pianist, Mrs. Dwain Tharpe, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ray Sharpe.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditional gown of white peau de soie with taffeta, overlaid by silk organza. The bodice featured long pointed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline, etched with appliques of Alencon lace and seed pearls. The applique motifs were repeated on the antebellum skirt which swept to a short train. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and cut crystals. She carried a bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis in cascade design with a handmade lace handkerchief from Chantilly, France, atop a white leather Bible.

Mrs. Terry Teague, Shreveport, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Diane Scogin, Mrs. Felton Vickers, Crowville and Mrs. J. D. McGraw Jr., Ruston. Their ankle length gowns of gold satin were fashioned with scoop necklines, brief sleeves and belled skirts. Gold satin bows formed their headdresses and completing their costumes were matching gold slippers and short white gloves. They carried cascade bouquets of large bronze chrysanthemums and yellow pompons accented by touches of moss green velveteen.

Flower girl was Miss Vicki Vickers, niece of the bride, who wore an ankle length frock of gold satin with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of autumn flowers.

Candles were lighted by Chuck Simmons of Crowville and Mark Bailey of Olla.

James Edward Mock of West Monroe attended Mr. Windham as best man and groomsmen-ushers were Russell Etheridge, Johnny Etheridge and Felton Vickers, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Vickers chose for her daughter's wedding a costume of sapphire blue with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Windham was wearing a green ensemble with a corsage of cymbidium orchids in a gold tone.

Votive candles in hurricane globes formed a path to the entrance of the home of the bride's parents, scene of the reception which followed the exchange of vows. The reception area of the home repeated the bride's chosen colors in bronze and yellow tones. Guests were invited to register in the bride's book by Delores Tucker, seated at a small table which was adorned by an imported bud vase of frosted green crystal holding a specimen bronze chrysanthemum.

The bride's table, draped with white tulle over white satin, was centered by a large bouquet of autumn flowers and foliage. Garlands of Baker's fern and nosegays of yellow pompons were caught at the corners of the ruffled cloth. Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. W. D. Scogin, Mrs. Charles Simmons and Mrs. Cora Helen Lanier.

The square chocolate groom's cake on a table, covered with a yellow cloth, was served by Miss Jo Ferris and presiding at the coffee service were Mrs. Charlie Hatten of West Monroe and Mrs. Oran Lewis.

Rice bags were presented guests by Karen Bennett and Tammy Ashley.

For travel the bride changed to a two piece knit of cranberry red with matching hat and complementary accessories. Upon return from their wedding trip the couple will be at home in Winnsboro.

MRS. CHARLES WILEY MONTGOMERY JR.

Montgomery-Bell Vows Solemnized In Oklahoma

A double ring ceremony on Saturday, October 9 united in marriage Miss Nelda Jean Bell and Charles Wiley Montgomery Jr., both of Houston, Texas. The wedding was solemnized at 6 p.m. in Lake Murray Chapel at Ardmore, Oklahoma.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bell of Gainesville, Texas. Mr. Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Montgomery of Mer Rouge, is a former resident of Monroe, having lived here approximately five years.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of ivory silk delustered satin, fashioned with portrait neckline and mandarin-length sleeves. The princess lines of the dress with Empire bodice of reembroidered Alencon lace, were emphasized by a Watteau train which fell chapel length from the shoulder.

Miss Margaret Ann Kepple, Midland, Texas, served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of yellow delustered satin designed along lines of the bride's gown. Flower girls were Misses Susan Bell and Dianne Brown, nieces of the bride.

Candles were lighted by Gary Brown and Mark Brown, nephews of the bride.

Serving as best man for Mr. Montgomery was L. K. Taylor of Greenville, Texas and ushers were Landon Bell and Russell Montgomery.

Members of the house party for the reception held in Ardmore following the ceremony were Miss Mary Montgomery, sister of the groom; Mrs. L. W. Brown, sister of the bride and Mrs. R. L. Bell.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco, Calif., the couple will be at home at 3834 Glen Arbor, Houston, Texas.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding in addition to the immediate families were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vaughn of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Floyd of Moss Point, Miss., Mrs. Marion Hoffman, of Mer Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Goddard Jarvis of Texarkana, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Staton, Dallas, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mobley of Tulsa, Okla.

Popular Scarf Hat Makes Fall Headlines

Riding the crest of summer, the scarf hat is staying right on top for fall. Women everywhere like the adaptability of the scarf hat, its compatibility with so many costumes.

Elegance is also riding high, with a great show of plumage. The "star" — ostrich, reminiscent of the glamourous 20's. One designer shows ostrich in a triangle that billows about the head . . . also a model complemented by woolen plaid.

Space-age fashion . . . the ski slopers, helmets in shiny patent with space goggles . . . a chenille helmet worked in bubbles which buttons under the chin.

One leading designer shows hat shapes leaning over backward, as well as models with forward movement. She also endorses a new, dramatic pitch on visors. Velvets, suedes, velours are prominent in interpretation.

Fall geometrics have infinite fashion possibilities and — add up to a most exciting look. They begin life as squares . . . some with drapery — to be crushed and shaped as you please.

Various materials lend their own drama — plushy pile fabrics in disguise as a 'way-out black-and-white houndstooth— they are especially favored, since they are washable.

Wig Wardrobe Recommended

Just one wig in a woman's wardrobe no longer meets the requirements. Reid-Meredith, a New York concern concerned with making slip-on and pin-on coiffure additions, recommends a wig wardrobe. Its parts: the basic wig to cover the whole head, a switch chignon 24 inches long, a five-inch oval-shaped wiglet, a 10-inch crescent shaped one, and a half wig. With these, just about any hairdo a woman wishes can be arranged, said the firm.

MRS. DAVID PERKINS

Nancy Pruett Is Bride Of Rev. David Perkins

A double ring ceremony on Friday, October 1 in the chapel of the First Baptist Church, West Monroe, united in marriage Miss Nancy Lee Pruett and the Rev. David Perkins. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Viva Pruett of West Monroe and M. J. Pruett of Crossett, Ark., and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Perkins of Oakdale.

The candlelight ceremony was performed at 7 p.m. by Rev. O. Wayne Roberts before an arch of wrought iron entwined with southern smilax and flanked by huge baskets of white gladioli.

Traditional nuptial music was provided by Miss Rebecca Wood at the piano and David Worthington, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a costume suit of white wool. The dress, styled with high round neckline, fitted bodice and A-line skirt, was topped by a short jacket of matching fabric with three-quarter sleeves. A small white pillbox hat with accents of pearls and aurora borealis crystals held her veil of silk illusion. White roses, feathered chrysanthemums and stephanotis comprised her bouquet carried atop a white Bible, received in a prenuptial white Bible ceremony.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Kay Pruett, wearing an aquamarine wool suit. She carried a bouquet of variegated white and aqua chrysanthemums against a background of pink maline and aqua streamers.

Mr. Perkins attended his son as best man, and ushers were Chris Rhodes and Wilbur Lea Perkins.

Candles were lighted by Miss Celia Parnell, cousin of the bride.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a suit of copen blue with a beige silk pillbox and beige accessories. Mrs. Perkins, mother of the groom, chose a navy blue silk suit with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social center where Mrs. Bobby Brice presided at the bride's book. The refreshment table, covered with a lace cloth over green, held a central arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and autumn hued greenery in a crystal compote on a silver pedestal.

Serving at the table were Miss Ginger Earle, Miss Judy Hilburn, Miss Lillie Mae Shell, Miss Kathleen Nunnery and Mrs. Drew Baxter, sister of the bride.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Monroe where both are students at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Feature Gridiron Theme At After-The-Game Party

You'll rate special cheers this football season if you hostess an after - the - game party featuring a gridiron theme.

Pigskin fans — whether they have been rooting for a high school, college, or professional team — like to get together following an afternoon game to discuss the plays and analyze the contest, especially where food and drink are served.

A buffet supper of hearty food and drink for the football followers and "armchair quarterbacks" is the simplest solution for the hostess of an after-the-game party. A "football" table setting, and most of the food, too, can be prepared ahead of time. After a quick oven warm-up of the food, you can join the fun.

The table setting could be highlighted by a flower centerpiece in the football motif. Autumn flowers, such as mums and pom-pons, could be arranged in a football helmet, for instance.

A green tablecloth could be used with narrow strips of white fabric attached to it to form a gridiron pattern. Dowels could be painted and anchored in styrofoam at one end of the table, to represent goal posts. School or college colors can be repeated in napkins made of fabric remnants. White or light green dinnerware, for example, would blend harmoniously in such a table setting.

As an alternative, you might design a perpendicular centerpiece of large white chrysanthemums, using a few brown leaves as fillers. Form a miniature stadium of white construction paper, about four inches in width, and place it around the base of the flowers. Draw several inverted "U's" on the paper to denote stadium entrances. Using scraps of felt of different colors, cut small pennants, tape them to pipe cleaners, and then the pipe cleaners to the inside "stadium" wall. Place a few brown leaves in front of the centerpiece.

Use of a brown or burnt-orange colored tablecloth with lighter or darker shades of napkins, and dinner ware featuring a leaf pattern on a white background, would blend nicely in such a table setting.

Even if the home team loses the big contest, your colorful and unusual flower centerpiece carrying out the football theme will make you a party winner.

Bride's Dress Determines Wedding Party Attire

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Q: I am going by plane this month to New Orleans. What kind of clothes would you advise taking along? I will be sightseeing, going to better restaurants.

A: The climate will still be summery, so take summer clothes in city - style simple dresses and jacket costumes. For restaurants, short chiffons, silk cocktail dresses in covered-up style, will do nicely.

Q: For my daughter's church wedding in the afternoon, she is wearing a long gown, but having only one attendant. Should the groom wear a dark suit, or what? May I wear a cocktail-type dress?

A: It is unusual for the bride at so small a wedding to wear a long gown, as the groom must then wear a dinner jacket. Dark suit would not be correct when she wears a long dress. You not only can, but must wear at least a cocktail dress if the bride is wearing a long gown. If the bride wears a short dress, the groom can then wear a dark business suit.

Q: We will be traveling by car to Key West, Fla., in November. What kind of clothing should we take? Sleeveless cottons? May I carry a black straw handbag?

A: Take all summer clothes, as the climate will be warm, including sleeveless cottons, shorts, light slacks, etc. Yes the handbag.

Fall is here at last with delicious sunny - crisp weather — which, being interpreted is: bright enough to be out; cool enough to be out in one's new suit. The combination of pleasant days and welcome visitors has inspired a flurry of parties this week.

A number of out of town guests were here last weekend for the wedding of JAN ADCOCK and PAUL MELTON Saturday morning. After the departure of the bride and groom, the visitors were honored at small parties through Sunday.

Guests of LILY and JIM SPARKS were KATE and LAURANCE EUSTIS of New Orleans, who arrived on Friday. Saturday night hosts honored visitors with an open house at home. A wine cooler filled with Tropicana roses centered the dining table where a standing buffet was served during the evening. About sixty-five guests attended.

Sunday morning Kate and Laurance were invited for breakfast at the home of SUE and KING STUBBS. A buffet was served from the dining room table, which was decorated with rose-pink roses in a cut glass bowl. The visitors left for New Orleans immediately after noon.

Also here for the wedding were BERNILLE and BENNIE HOUSE, former Monroyans who now make their home in Houston, Texas. They were houseguests of JUANITA and CLAY WILSON for the weekend. Sunday at noon CHARLOTTE and EVANS ETHRIDGE entertained at brunch complimentary to these visitors. Charlotte used all brass and copper appointments on the table. Centerpiece was a brass teakettle filled with small bronze chrysanthemums. The menu served to thirty-five included crab dip, filet strips in small buns, eggplant casserole, green beans in sour cream.

Another former Monroyan in town this week has been JOHNNY (Mrs. Vern) GREENWOOD of Orlando, Florida. Johnny is home for her annual two week's visit with her sister and brother-in-law, BETH and W. E. McGOUGH at their home on Park Avenue. Several parties this week honored this visitor. Last Friday VIRGINIA CROW was hostess for luncheon at the Chateau. An arrangement of greenery centered the table for six.

Twelve guests were invited for dinner Saturday night, when JEAN and FRED McCALL entertained for Johnny. The table was decorated with a bouquet of gardenias. Beef Stroganoff, congealed cucumbers in sour cream and grasshopper pie highlighted the menu.

A small coffee on Tuesday morning was the compliment planned by CLARA MONTGOMERY for Johnny. Yellow chrysanthemums on a fern stand ornamented the living room, while the dining table was centered with vinca. Parsley, olive, and nut sandwiches; sand tarts; and fresh grapes were served with coffee to ten guests . . . On Thursday, DOTTIE LAWS was hostess for luncheon and bridge.

Here from Columbus, Ohio, is MRS. ROBERT B. JACOBS, who is the guest of her daughter and son - in - law, JANE and ED HOLLOWAY in their home on Oak drive. This visitor was honored by JENNY COLLETT with a luncheon at home on Wednesday. A mixed garden bouquet of roses and gardenias centered the table for ten.

Highland Park country club was scene of a luncheon given by MARDI KAUFFMAN last Saturday, honoring Mrs. Jacobs and another visitor. The second honoree was MRS. J. U. CRUSE of Baton Rouge, who was here for the weekend with her daughter and son - in - law, CARLOTTA and EDWARD BERGERON. Five guests were seated at a table decorated with an arrangement of garden flowers with greenery.

Interesting visitors in the home of the RALPH ARMSTRONGS on North Third street this weekend are DR. and MRS. ALESSANDRO ROSSI - ESPAGNET of New Orleans and Rome, Italy, and their four children, GABRIELLA, JOHN, JOSEPH, and LAURA. Dr. Rossi - Espagnet, who formerly represented Italy at the United Nation, is now with Tulane University.

The Armstrong's eldest son, RALPH, and Gabriella Rossi-Espagnet are engaged to be married. The wedding is planned for June, 1966, in John the Baptist Catholic Church, New Orleans. Planned for this weekend were a dinner at home last night, followed by a showing of movies. These were films made by Ralph and Dr. Rossi-Espagnet on a study - trip to Porto Rico and South America last year.

'Twas a big day in Monroe Friday as we honored one of our favorite ladies, BLANCHE OLIVER. That evening, Patron Preview night at Strauss Playhouse was set aside as a special tribute to Blanche, a founder, former director, and faithful supporter of Monroe's Little Theatre. Past presidents, members of the Board, trustees, patrons, gathered for the celebration. It was a time for smiles, happy tears, formal dress, and bouquets of red roses — truly a memorable evening.

A quick trip to Dallas was a treat this week for BETTY MOORE and JEANNE MYATT, who flew over Tuesday, returned Thursday evening. They were guests of the ED WICKERS at their home. (She is the former Dotty White of Monroe.)

A farewell luncheon was given by alumnae of Zeta Tau Alpha honoring HELEN LEWIS, who is to move to Fort Worth, Texas this week. The party was Wednesday at noon, on the porch at Bayou DeSiard country club. Sorority colors of turquoise and grey were carried out in appointments on the white - covered table. An antiqued turquoise container filled with turquoise grapes and white chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece. At either end of the table were cut steel candlesticks with three turquoise candles. Eighteen guests, ZTA alumnae, attended the party and presented Helen with a farewell gift.

Tomorrow's meeting of MONROE GARDEN CLUB promises to be one of the most intriguing in months. Theme is 'Entertaining Ideas", tied in with the year's theme "La Belle Louisianne". There are to be eighteen tables set up at Bayou DeSiard country club, each decorated for a different type of party, complete to suggested invitation and menu. Ranging from Creole brunch to D'Arbonne dock supper, all reflect Louisiana food and flowers.

We were allowed a sneak preview of this meeting, to bring you some idea of the treat in store. The table we selected was for a Mardi Gras dinner. Invitations printed with purple ink on masks of gold paper read:

Join Us Before the Ball for a Buffet Supper
COSTUME A MUST
7 p.m.
225 Lakeside Drive
Helen and Bob Lewis

A lavender cloth covers the table, which is centered with a brass cooler holding a wine bottle. Purple grapes and green ivy cascase purple and gold masks placed to the base of the container. At one end of the table are placed gold banded china, brass goblets, and brass and teak flatware wrapped in gold napkins. The all - Louisiana menu to be served in brass and copper casseroles includes stuffed Merletons (shrimp); congealed cottage cheese and lime salad; Mardi Gras chicken; Louisiana orange wine; finger rolls, hot pepper jelly and corn relish; Hershey Bar cake for dessert, with coffee, of course . . . And this is only one of eighteen different tables.

Another unusual meeting is planned for this coming week when the Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society has its "YUM-YUM" party Thursday. Members and guests will gather at 12:30 in Parkview Fellowship hall for a covered dish luncheon. These covered dishes are to be provided by some of our more inspired cooks, and recipes for all of them will be available for exchange following the meal.

Our poem for today is by Hermann Hagedorn, entitled "Doors":

Like a young child who to his mother's door
Runs eager for the welcoming embrace,
And finds the door shut, and with troubled face
Calls and through sobbing calls, and o'er and o'er
Calling, storms at the panel—
 so before
A door that will not open, sick and numb,
I listen for a word that will not come,
And know, at last, I may not enter more.
Silence! And through the silence and the dark
By that closed door, the distant sob of tears
Beats on my spirit, as on fairy shores
The spectral sea; and through the sobbing, hark!
Down the fair-chambered corridor of years,
The quiet shutting, one by one,
 of doors.

WINDOW SPACE

If you have a wall with a window in the middle, make it a space saver. You do it by designing the window into a series of built - ins. Simply install shelves on both sides of the window and fit in open cabinets above it. Beneath, build a wall-to-wall shelf, adding base cabinets and drawers for extra storage, if you wish.

MR. AND MRS. LONNIE WAYNE BLACKWELL

Autumn Shades Featured At Wedding In Bastrop

The First Church of God in Bastrop was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Wanda Kay Ward and Lonnie Wayne Blackwell. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie B. Blackwell, all of Bastrop.

The Rev. Doyle Coody performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. on October 1 before an arch entwined with greenery and autumn leaves. Twin baskets of large bronze chrysanthemums and greenery flanked the arch. Seven branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers and entwined with ivy and fall leaves completed the setting for the exchange of vows.

Miss Rena Elkins of Oak Grove, cousin of the bride, presented a prenuptial concert as guests were being seated by ushers Wandall Coody and Bill Walker. She also accompanied the soloist, Miss Elaine Johnston.

Candles were lighted by Ricky Lane Blackwell, brother of the groom and Al Blackwell, cousin of the groom. Gold tapers amid autumn leaves marked the pew caps forming a bridal aisle.

Wearing a gown of white peau de soie and lace the bride was given in marriage by her father. The empire style bodice of lace featured long sleeves which tapered to points over the hands. An A-line skirt terminated in a brief train. Her full cathedral length veil of illusion cascaded from a crown of seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses with stephanotis and white satin streamers.

Attending the bride were Miss Sandra Day, maid of honor and Misses Gwen Blackwell, Miss Shirley Blackwell, sisters of the groom, Miss Anita Ward, sister of the bride and Miss Mattie Rae Miller of Oak Grove, her cousin, as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of peau de soie in blending colors ranging from gold to deep bronze. The sleeveless empire bodices were accented with velveteen ribbon, with ankle length skirts falling straight from the raised waistlines. Self fabric sequined pillbox hats atop short illusion veils and matching satin slippers completed their costumes. They wore above the elbow gloves and carried bouquets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums encircled by leaves tinged with autumn hues.

Miss Leta Grubbs of Oak Grove, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a moss green frock and headpiece identical to those of the other attendants and carried a basket of autumn leaves.

Ronald Glen Blackwell of McDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Florida, attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were James Blackwell, cousin of the groom; William Rains of Mer Rouge; Shelton Ward, cousin of the bride; and Carroll Kirkpatrick of Morgan City. Andy Blackwell, cousin of the groom, served as ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ward chose a dress of peacock blue lace with white feathered hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white roses. Mrs. Blackwell was wearing a sheath and jacket costume of iridescent cocoa brocade with matching hat and accessories and a corsage of white roses.

A reception followed in the social room of the church where Miss Linda Pettis, cousin of the groom, presided at the guest book.

Covered with a cutwork cloth of ecru linen the bride's table was centered with an arrangement carrying out the autumn colors of the wedding. Another fall arrangement and candles of blending colors was placed on the piano. Gold colored punch was served from a crystal bowl by Miss Janet Reynolds and serving the tiered wedding cake was Miss Jerry Gwen Ford.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride changed to a suit of cranberry silk with white felt hat and black patent accessories. The couple will be at home in Shreveport where Mr. Blackwell is employed by an oil company.

Your Problems

Teen Behavior Has Changed In 20 Years

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A group of us (all parents) were discussing what goes on with teen-agers today. Some insisted that kids are no wilder than we were when we were teen-agers. These people claimed beleaguered teens are just getting a lot of bad publicity, that the subject of teen-age sexual promiscuity has been beaten to death, that today's kids are the scapegoats for all the ills of a crazy, mixed up world.

My wife and I would be interested in hearing what you have to say. — MR. AND MRS.

Dear Mr.: MOST teens are darned good kids, and when you look at the examples set by some of their parents, they look even better.

Statistics indicate that conditions are NOT precisely the same today as when we were teen-agers. There are more kids in trouble today. The trouble is more serious and it comes at an earlier age than ever before. Yes, there are more teen-agers, but I am referring to percentages, not numbers.

In the last 20 years, the percentage of unwed mothers has tripled. Since 1957 the V. D. rate has tripled. (More than 60 per cent of the cases of REPORTED V. D. fall in the 13-19 years old group).

Teen marriages are way up. Divorce is on the increase, and one reason is the sad record of teen-age marriages. (Such marriages have one-fifth as good a chance of succeeding as a marriage between a couple in their middle 20's.)

Teen crime is up. Teen drinking is up. Teen car accidents is up. If this picture doesn't reflect a change in teen-age behavior, then I'm the Queen of Sheba.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet you are sick of mother-in-law problems and I hate to bother you with mine, but I need your help.

My husband and I have been married two years. He was transferred to another city five months ago and it was a Godsend. His mother would not leave us alone for even one day. I was going out of my mind trying to be nice to her even though she was at our front door before my husband left for work in the morning.

Now that we have moved 200 miles away she says her heart is acting up and she knows she isn't long for this world. So we drive 400 miles every other weekend to see her. She insists that we stay at her house. My folks feel slighted and I don't blame them. My husband and I used to get along fine, but now we argue about this a lot. He says my folks are 15 years younger than his mother and we can stay with them after his mother is gone. I need your help — BEAT DOWN

Dear Beat: Sometimes the mothers with the "weak hearts" live longer than their daughter-in-law. Alternate. One trip, stay with your folks, the next trip, with your mother-in-law.

Dear Ann Landers: Keith and I haven't been married very long, three months to be exact. Something is bothering me and I'm afraid it will bother me until we get it talked out.

Keith went with a girl for two years before he started to go with me. Everyone who knew them figured they would be married one day. I had seen the girl three or four times but I never got to know her. She was very attractive and had a sweet personality.

Now that Keith and I are man and wife I think he should tell me all about her. I want to know how far they went and exactly why they broke up. I didn't ask him these questions while we were going together because I figured it was none of my business. But now that we are married I think everything that has to do with Keith is my business.

You are a great believer in people being honest with each other. Please print my letter and your answer. — NOTHING WITHHELD.

Dear Nothing: What happened between Keith and the girl wasn't your business THEN and it's not your business NOW.

I admire him for keeping his trap shut. He sounds like a first-rate guy to me. Keep him happy!

A NOVEMBER wedding is planned by Miss Judith Gail Tullos and Dannie Hugh Massey, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coy Tullos of Ferriday. Mr. Massey is the son of Mrs. Lesterea Massey of Ferriday and A. E. Massey Sr., of New Orleans.

LaVingt Sees Slides Of Europe

Five guests were present when LaVingt Club met for luncheon at Bayou DeSiard Country Club Wednesday, October 6. Mrs. W. W. Wilkerson presided over the business session and welcomed the guests, who included Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. Wayne Warren, Mrs. John Woodburn, Mrs. Leon H. Garfield and Mrs. Arthur R. Giertsen of Westport, Conn.

Program chairman, Mrs. Earl Brimberry, introduced "The Three Travelers," Mrs. W. O. Webb, Mrs. L. D. Ritter and Mrs. John Woodburn, who spent the summer touring Europe. Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Ritter presented a descriptive narration of the color slides that were shown of highlights of their tour. The slides began with scenes in New York prior to their departure, including Times Square at night and of the World's Fair.

From there the trio flew to Ireland and on to Denmark, Norway and back to England, then to Holland, Germany, Austria, Italy and the Isle of Capri. Their itinerary also included visits to France, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal, returning by plane from Lisbon.

Members present with the five guests for the luncheon and program were Mrs. D. E. Bivens Jr., Mrs. Brimberry, Mrs. Bruce Brooks, Mrs. Ralph Caldwell, Mrs. J. T. Conger, Mrs. W. R. Crow, Mrs. A. Petrus, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. Ritter, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Wilkerson.

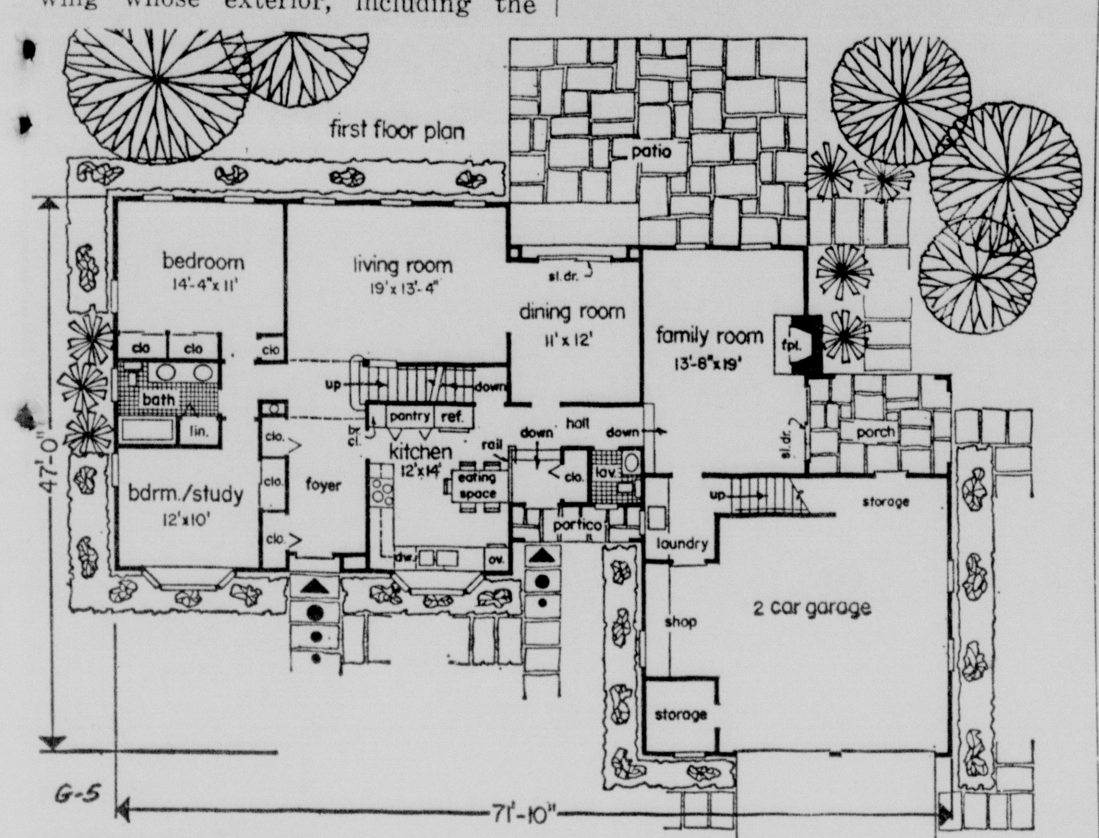
THE BASIC, SIX-ROOM Cape Cod cottage on the left has been extended into a larger house with the addition of a wing whose exterior, including the garage, is in keeping with the traditional character of this type of dwelling.



FLOOR PLANS: The traffic pattern, fundamentally sound for the rooms on the left side of the house, takes on additional practicality because of the second front entrance leading to the rooms and service area on the right.

Wing Addition Gives New Look To Cape Cod House

By ANDY LANG

The nostalgic and never-ending appeal of an old Cape Cod home is brought back in the lovely design of the latest House of the Week.

This is what might be called a Cape Cod plus. Note that the left part of the house is, in itself, a full six - room cottage, with four rooms downstairs and two upstairs. This is a typical Cape Cod that might have jumped right out of the 18th century to the present. But note, too, that architect Samuel Paul has added a one - story wing, tastefully integrated with the main structure, true to style in every respect.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-5.

The entire exterior retains all of the charm typical to those homes, with such trademarks as small dormers, a recessed entry, narrow wood siding with some occasional wide boards, small - paned windows, shutters and flower boxes. This effort to retain true character has been carried out on all four sides; not, as sometimes happens, only in the front.

FLEXIBILITY

As a result of the inclusion of the wing at the right side of the house, there is enormous flexibility in the design. In fact, the entire wing might be skipped during the original construction, if desired, then added at a later date. On the other hand, the wing could be utilized for additional living space by adding an upper floor to the garage, a contingency for which the architect has provided in the plans. And while we are discussing flexibility, don't overlook the possibility of leaving the upstairs area of the basic house unfinished until there is a need for its planned two bedrooms and bath.

Modernity takes over on the interior of the house. The conveniences are many and varied, and the zoning is good. The entrance foyer is large and well-closeted. From it, one can move to the kitchen, the living room-dining room area or the bedrooms without crossing any other rooms. There is a sweep of 30' along the living and dining rooms. A sliding glass door leads from the dining room to a flagstoned rear patio. Another sliding glass door leads from the fireplaced family room to a porch. The eat - in kitchen is made airy and cheerful by a large bay window, located directly over the sink.

FOUR BEDROOMS

There are four bedrooms in the basic house, two downstairs, two up. Each pair of rooms has a huge bath. The one on the second floor is compartmented into two sections. It has a stall shower, a tub and a large vanity which wraps around into the front dormer. There is an abundance of closets in both bedroom areas, including a generous walk - in upstairs.

An interesting feature of the house is the second front entrance, leading to the right-hand or wing section. In this area are a laundry room, a half - bath, storage and shop facilities, and a two - car garage. The plans include a stairway to an upper garage floor, suitable for either storage or expansion to living quarters, such as a rumpus room or a studio.

This can be a small, medium or large house, depending on the needs of the family. The basic house, without the second floor, has a habitable area of 1592 square feet. There are 168 square feet upstairs — and 304 additional square feet in the expansion section.

Some Notes On Daffodils

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Some readers of the column say that they do not know what to buy when confronted with long lists of named daffodils. Those who are not daffodil fanciers should stick to the tried and true kinds that do well in most gardens and stand up to the weather in daffodil time.

Of course, there is no daffodil that is as tough and indestructible as the little common yellow trumpets that open the season in most parts of the South in the hill country. Down along the coasts, the paperwhites bloom at Thanksgiving, and the tiny, many-flowered "sweet jonquils" in January, but the glory of early spring with us is the little trumpets. They grow in fields and around old houses where they have been forgotten and are sold on the streets in bunches.

GOLDEN YELLOW

This little trumpet is native to Southern France and Spain, and we are lucky in the South here that the golden yellow form is the one we have. In England, the "Lent lily" is a paler form of the same thing. You would never dream that so harmless a flower has the Latin name Narcissus pseudo-narcissus Ajax, but that is what botanists have named it! Once you plant the bulbs, there is almost nothing that will destroy them, and the flowers last from 10 days to two weeks in the cool weather of earliest spring. Look in the daffodil catalogues and be sure to get a few Ada Finch because it is also very, very early. It comes along with and before the famous but now inexpensive Fortune, a small-cupped vigorous yellow daffodil. Fortune often gets frozen by ice and snow . . . and so does Ada, but both of the earlies are well worth protecting with pine boughs or a temporary cover of some sort for their early flowers. The daffodil breeders ought to create more of these very early varieties because they are so welcome before Spring has really come in our gardens. If freezes threaten, one can always pick any buds of these early daffodils just as soon as the little papery cover on the buds has split.

There are dozens of yellow trumpets, leading off with good old King Alfred. Lord Nelson is a not-so-gold clear yellow, and Peerless Gold is very golden. In all the southern gardens where I have seen it, the yellow-with-small-red-cup, Quirinus has stood up well to the weather and seemed to last longer than most of its class. It flowers well, too, after the bulbs have begun to multiply. In the white-with-red-cup class, Lady Kestiven is equally as good and performs the same way.

Although the stems are often short, Geranium is a daffodil I could not be without because of the strong spicy fragrance of the many little flowers to a stem, and the strong contrast between white petals and little orange cup. Next week, we shall go on into the other kinds of daffodils.

GADGET BAG

Do your preschoolers get into mischief or disappear when you're telephoning? Suggested is a "gadget bag" to divert them and keep them busy. Just fill a discarded large pocketbook with castaway items such as a chain bracelet, alarm clock, measuring spoons, zippers, and other odds and ends. Whisk out the pocketbook (you can keep it in a drawer near the phone) and you'll be able to converse without interruption, all the while keeping an eye on your contented youngsters as they sit near you on the floor playing with the contents of the "gadget bag."

Decorations For Yuletide

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Christmas Ideas for Decorations," was the theme of the Center program last Wednesday. Don't think we are rushing the season because of this type program.

Instead, the whole idea is to help the busy housewife now so that her holiday will be more pleasant, more relaxing. The type of ideas on the program were on things that the small fry could make during the long, fall days that precede the Christmas holidays. Even adults enjoy making simple decorations such as these.

Pine cones play a leading role. Now is the time to collect all sizes. When these have been gathered, spray them with silver, gold, red and green paint. Let them dry thoroughly. Now spray a large magazine basket or flower basket. Most of us have one of these out in the store room or up in the attic. Place the cones along with nuts and other dried pods into the basket. Add a large red bow on the handle. Near Christmas add pine or holly branches for greenery. This makes an excellent decoration for the hearth or large den table.

BARE BRANCHES

Bare branches from the woods will serve for the Christmas scene on the dining table or the window seat. White quilting cotton is pulled apart from the roll in thin sheets and laid on the wood. With a gentle press it stays securely into place without any other means of holding. This works wonders and can be done quickly. Add a little glitter on top of the branch and you can almost feel the coldness of the fresh "snow." To add color you place holly, mistletoe, or poinsettias along the branches. A realistic scene could be made by placing small reindeer at intervals or small snowmen. Children love this type table design, especially if they are allowed to help plan it.

Never throw away your spools. This idea comes from the Julia Wossman Recreation Center in Monroe. Mrs. Garnett, instructor of handicrafts, loaned several wonderful ideas for our program. The "spool tree" is very effective. Starting with six spools placed on a small rectangular board for the first row, add another row to the tops of each row until only one spool stands on top. The entire spool tree is sprayed gold. Then in between each spool add a colored Christmas ball. Small elves and angels (tag decorations) are wired or glued to the spools for added interest. This decoration would be lovely on a mantle or in a window of the modern home.

ANOTHER ATTRACTION

The newspaper tree is another attraction. Five inch squares of newspaper are wired into clusters by pinching the middle of each square and wiring it with a small floral pick. These are placed thickly into a styrafoam cone. When finished the whole tree is sprayed with gold spray paint. This includes the base, a tin coffee can. Decorative Christmas beads add the finishing touch.

Cleansing tissue boxes are excellent for the shadow boxes. A scene is glued to the inside back of the box. This is the scene from an old Christmas card. To add depth angel hair frames the scene around the inside of the oval opening. Gold or silver rick rac braid is glued as a finish around the outside of the opening of the box. These are unusually effective in a niche or alcove in the living room or child's room. This is a lovely way to preserve a lovely Christmas card.

COLORFUL DECORATIONS

Christmas cards, cut into squares and cupped into a funnel shape serve as the colorful decorations on the Christmas chimes. The cord is knotted after each cup is strung onto the cord. This holds it in place. The cords vary in length with a cup placed every five inches. These are interesting if hung from the door sill or the ceiling light. Small bells could be attached at intervals if the actual chime is desired.

Many other ideas were displayed at the garden center and many came by for more details after seeing the program. The Recreation Center will gladly assist you on any of these handicrafts and many others. You may have an idea that you would like to share. The center will welcome it.

Don't forget the Fifth District Louisiana Garden Club's meeting Oct. 13, at the Paragon club. Registration begins at 9:30. All garden club members, Federated or non-Federated are urged to come. Our state president, Mrs. J. L. Yawn, will be guest speaker. Mrs. M. L. Johnson, fifth district director, will preside over the business session. Make your luncheon reservations with Mrs. J. E. Braley, 4108 Webster St., Monroe. Fee is $3. This includes the lunch, flower show and style show.

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's new. Maybe it's just what you've always wanted:

Green paint for that drought-brown lawn. A new lawn tint in a can claims a true green color that rivals natural growth: safety for children, pets and the lawn itself. The tint is said to last for months; can be combined with curative treatments for weeds or insect damage. A fine spray on a newly mowed lawn, raked clean of all clippings and cuttings is all it takes.

A safe place to carry those precious $1 Havanas: a dress shirt, standard except for a unique pocket designed to carry five cigars without a bulge. The pocket, with individual slots for each cigar, is angled across the lower right front of the shirt.

An automatic bar that will control the size, if not the number, of drinks served. The breakfront - style portable unit, designed as an executive conference bar ideal for home use as well, contains automatic dispensers for four liquor bottles. Each pull of a trigger releases a predetermined quantity of liquor and automatically records the number of drinks served. The bar has room for glasses, soda, ice bucket and accessories in addition to the liquor supply.

An award - winning French perfume, a delicate floral, that you can apply and forget. That fragrance is said to linger 24 hours — about five times longer than average.

Spare Some Space For Outside Area

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What every grass-surrounded home needs is a place outdoors that isn't grass. This can be a great spot, especially after a rain storm. Even if the sun shines brightly after a deluge, you usually can't walk on the lawn, much less use it for a party. If it isn't downright soggy, it'll no doubt be damp.

Forfeiting a small amount of grass for a firm foundation will pay dividends in many ways. The best spot to pick for it would be on the south side, if possible. If one uses a lawn only before noon, perhaps the east would be a good bet. If you want it to dry off quickly, though, and also to be in line of a breeze, the southwest area is good.

AREA SIZE

The size of the area you block off depends on the needs of the family. If it is partially shaded by a tree, so much the better—it will give you shade and sun.

Grass is such a precious thing to many people that they can't part with a blade of it. They may hate their mowing chores, get enraged by dogs and cats that dig it up, but they hold on to it for dear life. A great deal of satisfaction may be had, however, by giving up even 10 by 10 feet for a patio.

The joys to be had from terracing a small area are well worth the time, trouble and loss of grass. For one thing, outdoor furniture will rest more securely, offering greater comfort on the firmer foundation, rather than sinking into the grass.

PRETTY EFFECT

One pretty effect may be had with a brick floor; another favorite is flagstone, and some like grass between the bricks and stones. Some people who have experimented say they don't like the tedious grass - cutting that goes with this idea — it usually boils down to someone cutting the grass with a scissors. Cement blocks and flagstone used this way often become unaligned as the result of rain storms, and often aren't much of an improvement over soggy grassy earth.

The most satisfactory ideas seem to be —

For quick and easy results: blue chips or gravel. This is very rough on shoes but looks good, and is a do - it - yourself project. A border is needed to keep the chips or gravel from washing away.

CHIC LOOK

A chic look: brick done in some unusual pattern such as herringbone, end to side, two by two, or in a four-side pattern.

A pretty look: planting herbs (these small sweet crushed under the feet) or grass between concrete slabs. Patio block size is smaller and thinner than other blocks and is often put down without any under cement. If the grass it is laid on is pretty lush, these heavy, large blocks may be laid about four inches apart so that grass may be encouraged to grow through the gaps.

Make Winter Grass Plans

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Make plans now, Mr. or Mrs. Gardener, if you plan to plant rye grass in your lawn for green color during the winter months. In this area of the state, rye grass should be planted in late October. Sow about five pounds per 1,000 square feet of lawn. An even distribution is essential for a uniform color. For best results, mow existing grasses about one half inch shorter than normal and sow seed immediately. Rye grass is a cool weather grass. Seed germinate and the grass grows best after cool days arrive.

Be sure to dig your caladiums before frost. Be careful as you dig — do not cut or bruise the bulb. Leave the tops on until they die then remove them and store the bulb in a dry room. Egg cartons and old nylon stockings are excellent to use in storing the bulbs.

BEAUTIFUL BLOOM

Mr. and Mrs. Gardener, I am sure you recall my writing in this column about treating a Debutante camellia with the gibberellic acid. This camellia was treated on September 5 and last week my neighbors, Ruth and Leo Zipke, called to me and exclaimed that the Debutante was blooming and it was the most gorgeous bloom that they had seen on this particular plant in all the years it had been blooming. This plant is near the Zipke's driveway.

In previous years just as this plant was ready to burst into full bloom, Jack Frost nipped the buds and the result was few blooms that were not brown tipped. Hence, the reason for selecting this particular plant to treat with the acid. The buds were very small when treated but in just a few days the flower buds had developed to a good size. So if you, Mr. and Mrs. Gardener, are wondering if it's worth the few cents spent for the acid, I can really recommend it from my experience. The gibberellic acid not only caused the plant to bloom earlier, but the bloom is larger and more beautiful.

OUACHITA FAIR

Our Ouachita Valley Fair opens tomorrow. So be sure, Mrs. Homemaker, to bring your exhibits to enter before 6 p.m. All Home Economics exhibits will be judged Tuesday morning. Donna Moore, associate home demonstration agent, and I have secured the following people to judge the exhibits: Miss Frances Kelso, professor of Home Economics at Northeast State College, adult baking; L. L. Price, professor of agriculture at Northeast State College, horticulture (flowers); Miss Lola Caldwell, home demonstration agent, Caldwell Parish, canning and educational booths; Mrs. Ada Hanchey, Extension program specialist of L. S. U., Baton Rouge, clothing; Mrs. Jackie Mitchell, home demonstration, agent Morehouse, clothing and handicraft; junior food preservation, Martha Stockstill; baking, La Luce Thompson; clothing, home improvement, Sue Cupit; and Jackie Mitchell, junior handicraft.

GILT FRAMES

Gilt picture or mirror frames should be kept clean to bring out their full beauty. Remember, Mrs. Homemaker, their finish is delicate and needs to be treated gently and carefully. Above all never rub. Rubbing may remove dirt, but it will also remove the gilt. Moisten a pad of cheesecloth with a solution of equal parts of household ammonia and denatured alcohol. Apply the solution to a small area of the frame, using as little pressure as possible. Wipe up the loosened soil with a pad of dry cheesecloth, continue cleaning the frame in the same manner — a small area at a time.

Once or twice a year pat the gilt surface gently with a little lemon oil. This oiling prevents the surface from drying or cracking.

A THOUGHT

Remember, it's best to count your blessings instead of calories.

Area Rainfall Record Heaviest In Six Months

OLLA (Special) — Rainfall during September in the 5-parish area served by the Louisiana Forestry Commission office in Olla was the heaviest since last March.

Figures show the Winona fire tower in Winn parish recorded the most rainfall in September, 9.70 inches. For the first nine months of 1965, Winn ranks third in the group with 38.51 inches.

Catahoula parish had 7.64 inches of rain recorded at Aimwell tower in September and 39.76 inches for the year.

Grant parish only recorded 7.49 inches of rain last month at Antonia tower, but ranks first in rainfall for the year with 41.60 inches.

Mt. Pleasant tower in Caldwell parish recorded 7.39 inches of rain in September and 38.13 inches for the year.

LaSalle parish had 6.16 inches last month and 38.39 inches since the first of the year at Belah tower.

Bombardment Ships Of 7th Fleet Move In Close To Help In Viet Na

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shore bombardment ships of the 7th Fleet are moving in so close to take a hand in South Viet Nam's land war that they sometimes are practically alongside ground soldiers in the rice paddies.

It may now be reported that an example of this occurred last week.

A destroyer, responding to a call for gunfire on an enemy position, steamed well up the Saigon River to lob shells on the Viet Cong—with some interruptions by river traffic.

Merchant ships sailed past. The destroyer ceased fire while each went by, then opened up again.

The steadily increasing activity of the U.S. Navy has been overshadowed in daily official announcements about land battles and air strikes.

Since last May, when the Defense Department ordered the 7th Fleet to rotate some of its destroyers and one of the two or three cruisers in the fleet to shore-bombardment missions, thousands of tons of ammunition have been fired.

The bombardment force operates only against Viet Cong targets in South Viet Nam.

More than 25,000 rounds of 5- and 6-inch ammunition have been used up to now and the tempo of the operation still is increasing as more and more requests come from Army and Marine forces for fire support.

All such fire support is done "on call." A ground unit, encountering heavy opposition or attack from fortified positions, radioes a request to the corps area ashore, which relays it to the over-all coordinating command in Saigon. The order to a ship then comes in. This procedure actually involves only a matter of minutes, Navy officials explained Saturday.

One said that this was true in the surprise Viet Cong attack on petroleum supplies at Dan Nang earlier this year. A destroyer had reached position and started firing before the Viet Cong could consolidate, he said.

He called the gunfire from both the 5-inch rifles of the destroyers and the 6-inch weapons of the cruisers "very accurate and very deadly."

The gun crews can put down shells at ranges up to nine miles within 100 yards of friendly troops without endangering them, he said.

Part of this is due to the spotting system which utilizes airborne observers in small aircraft or helicopters as well as forward observers on the ground to give changing coordinates to correct the aim.

Special units make up these outfits, called "Anglico"—Air Naval Gunfire Liaison—teams.

Warheads on shells vary with the requirement of the targets. Conventional high-explosive shells can be fused for air burst or impact. Plunging fire—utilizing high trajectory—with armor-piercing warheads is applied to bunkers and dugout positions of

Police Arrest 8 Negroes In Cafe Incident

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—State troopers arrested 8 Negroes Saturday when they tried to enter a "private" restaurant over the objections of the owner who said she was out of membership cards.

"You can't come in," said Mrs. Annalou Bonner, owner of Bonner's private club. "I have no membership cards. We're out. I have as many members as I can handle."

The club once functioned as public restaurant but Mrs. Bonner closed the restaurant when Negroes tried to integrate it.

Saturday marked the 12th consecutive day of racial activity in this northeast Georgia community. Most of the protests have been over the closing of Taliaferro (Crawfordville) County's only white school and the busing of white students to school in other counties.

Since there were no school buses Saturday, demonstrators concentrated their efforts on the restaurant.

At Americus, Ga., Juvenile Court Judge James W. Smith released 43 Negro teen-age demonstrators into the custody of their parents. The youths, all under 17, were taken into custody earlier this week for staging a demonstration at a Negro high school while classes were in session.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found many uses for reflector tape.

Try cutting off a one-inch square of tape and putting it over the lock of your front and back door. Then cut a little slit in the tape and insert your key through it. Not only does the tape keep the moisture and dirt from getting into your lock, but it saves groping and searching for that particular spot to insert the key!

Reflector tape is excellent for putting along the hand rail of any stairway, especially at the bottom and the top of both rails in the basement. Anyone who has fallen down the basement steps (as I have) will know what I mean.

Along the top and bottom steps are other good places for this tape. If you have treads, put a one-inch strip on each side at the top landing and the bottom. This will prevent many stumbles, too!

I even went so far as to cut bits off and put one on each light switch throughout the house so that I would not soil my wife's walls when trying to find the light switch in the dark!

D. B.

You were a smart cookie to think of all these ideas to help prevent accidents. We all love and thank you.

POWDER PUFF MUST

DEAR HELOISE:

When I open a new box of bath powder or face powder, instead of tearing off the paper covering . . . I simply puncture it all over with a table fork!

With these holes in the covered top, I give the box a few shakes before using, and I get just enough perfectly distributed powder on my puff! It not only saves powder but also eliminates a dusty bathroom.

TURNOVER RUGS

DEAR HELOISE:

I had several bathroom rugs which got so flimsy I finally took two matched ones, laid them back to back, pinned them in place, and sewed them together on my sewing machine. The resulting rug is so nice, soft, and thick! I also dyed mine, but this is not necessary.

This rug is most practical as I can use both sides before putting it in the wash.

ALL THOSE RIBBONS

DEAR HELOISE:

I find that the easiest way to press hair ribbons is to hold them under the hot water faucet and, while the ribbons are still warm, wind them around a glass or fruit jar, spiral-fashion.

The longer the ribbon, the taller the glass should be. The ribbons will dry in a very short time, all nicely pressed, and no ironing is needed.

VENETIAN BLINDS

DEAR HELOISE:

When the tapes and cords on my venetian blinds get dingy and yellow looking, I thin white shoe polish with water and apply it with a damp wash cloth. The polish must be made very thin because it usually dries whiter than white and we do not want a build-up on the tape.

Have you ever thought of using a pipe cleaner to remove the dust and loose threads that get under the plate of your sewing machine? It gets where tweezers can't possibly reach.

WHERE'S THE SCISSORS?

DEAR HELOISE:

Ever lose your scissors in all the cloth while sewing?

Try taking your measuring tape, and with a large safety pin, pin one end of the tape through one loop of the scissors' handle.

You can always find both the tape and the scissors, whether they are dropped on the floor or lost in the material.

SUNDAY READER

LESS NEEDLING!

DEAR HELOISE:

Before you start to embroider or sew by hand, paint your index finger with clear fingernail polish. It will save you from having a sore finger. Later, the polish peels right off. Or, if you are in a hurry, you can use polish remover.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

DEAR HELOISE:

An alarm clock is a necessity, but the tick-tick-ticking kept me awake at night.

I bought a thin sponge, and I keep it in my night table drawer. When I go to bed at night, I just put my alarm clock on top of that little old sponge and the sponge absorbs the ticking noise. This allows me to sleep better.

Now, wasn't that tricky? His noggin is workin', isn't it?

GRAHAM CRACKERS, TOO

DEAR HELOISE:

I use my food grinder to make crumbs from crackers, dry bread, or cereal.

I also use one of those nice little sponge items with the sandpaper back for a pad between the grinder and my counter top (sponge side down, of course). The grinder does not slip or mar my counter.

BANDAGE GUARDS

When a child gets a scraped knee or elbow, it is difficult to keep the bandage in place.

I cut the toe off an old, clean white stretch sock, then pull the sock over the child's elbow or knee until the heel of the sock is over the kneecap, or crazy bone, whichever the case may be.

The stretchy sock will give with the child's movements but will hold the bandage in place and keep it from becoming soiled so rapidly.

DE-CREASED INTEREST

DEAR HELOISE:

When you are ironing and need a sleeve board, just roll a terry cloth towel around your rolling pin!

A sleeve will go over that little old rolling pin like a glove—and the rolling pin turns as you iron each side of the sleeve, thus preventing a crease.

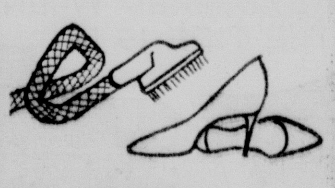
VACUUM YOUR SHOES



DEAR HELOISE:

I use the dusting brush on my vacuum cleaner for cleaning suede shoes.

It raises the nap and removes deeply imbedded dust.
